THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

You have elected the same executive officers who have served you in recent years. We are grateful to you for your continued confidence, and we pledge ourselves to carry forward the work of the Association to the best of our ability.

First of all it is well for us to remember certain features of our organization and the meaning of this election of officers for four years. When the General Conference combined with the Association, the terms of office were changed from one year to four. Dr. Eliot was re-elected. Two years later he resigned, and the Directors appointed a President to serve until the next annual meeting. Last year a President was elected for one year. This year you have elected a President and the executive officers for four years.

The method of our elections in the past was something like the method of the British Government. The officers continued pending a vote showing a lack of confidence. Four years ago this method was changed, and especially as regards the President. He was to be elected for four years, so that he might have a reasonable period in which to make his policies effective. The four-year period just ended was so broken by changes that it has been impossible to put the new method into operation. When Mr. Eliot withdrew and there followed the appointment of a President for a fraction of a year and his election for one year, your executive officers could not undertake new policies which would become binding on the next administration. At this one hundred and fourth annual meeting there rests upon the President a new responsibility, the announcement of the policies for the next four years.

This is somewhat embarrassing, because I have no brand-new policies to announce. I believe with all my heart in the work we are doing. It is varied, effective, and exceedingly worth while. Those tasks to which we are already committed absorb so much of our means and thought that there is really no room for very much that is new. Our work has always progressed in an orderly fashion. New policies are born of the opportunities which present themselves. In these next four years, doubtless there will be changes and we hope there will be growth. But I confess to you that I have nothing startlingly new to propose. With this said, I am anxious to use the opportunity of this inaugural address to emphasize certain features of our work.

First, may I commend to you again the plan of our trying together to win a modest five per cent annual increase in all our work. Let us make a deliberate effort to gain a five per cent increase in membership and strength in all our churches. I plead for an increase of five per cent in the gifts for extension work from the churches. While we welcome endowments, the living interest of our churches is, as Mr. Fuller pointed out, our chief asset. This five per cent policy would double our fellowship and double its resources in about seventeen years. It is gratifying to note that a number of churches have followed this plan for the past two years and found it effective. I hope that you will take that plan to heart.

Second, I wish to submit to you two broad classifications of our work. Many of our activities fall into what may be called the general dissemination of liberal religion. For example, we do a vast amount of printing. We are happy to report that we have printed and distributed this past year twice as many tracts as we did the year before. Certain of our national organizations for the most part address themselves to peculiar phases of work in the churches already established. Now all this general dissemination is good and fruitful work, by which we all benefit. Let me say again that a very considerable part of our work is in the nature of general dissemination.

The other broad classification of our work is church building. The population fluctuates and migrates. To maintain the number of churches that we now have we must plant new churches. Never have we been content merely with holding our own. We want to start new churches in centers of approximately 100,000 population, where they may exert the greatest influence and attain to self-support and permanence. We are grateful that our budget, if adopted as recommended, will permit us to start five new churches the coming year.

Here, then, are two contrasting methods: first, the general dissemination of influence; second, the building of centers or churches that will continuously radiate liberal religious influence. Now it often happens that some particularly appealing new method of general dissemination seems to us for the time being more urgent than the founding of new churches; and here is a dilemma. We are told in the Scriptures, "These things ought ye to have done and not left the others undone." That is a hard saying. The choice between the two methods, always perplexing as it is, is at this juncture of our history exceedingly important.

During this next four-year period of our history it is urgently important that we plant new churches. While this has been the general aim of the Association for a century I beg you to make it even more than the main aim—make it the most important, absorbing undertaking during these next four years.

This will mean many acts of self-restraint and self-denial. We shall have to refrain from doing many worth while things which are almost as important, if we are to start many new societies during these next four years. We cannot spend the same money for two purposes at the same time. We cannot appropriate money in general ways for causes in themselves most excellent and still have that money in the treasury with which to found and nurture new churches. The work of planting new churches is in my judgment far and away the most important undertaking of this Association.

Let me open my heart to you quite frankly. I have known the Association closely for approaching thirty years and I am in the fifteenth year of your service. During these years there have been repeated recommendations for the starting of new departments in the Association. Those that have been formed of recent years are only a few of those which have been recommended. I believe that we should loyally support all the departments now existing; but I most earnestly hope that we shall not start any new department or the equivalent of a new department during these next four years.

My heart goes out to the vision which all these recommendations for departments for general service invariably reveal. I am convinced of their usefulness, but I see also the need of liberal churches where none now exist. I feel the responsibility for the future of our organized work, which can only be made strong and permanent by building new churches if we are to make our contribution to American life.

Here, then, is the emphasis of my hope for this administration. Let us add no new departments or their equivalent; let us instead spend our money in the field. So far as I shall have any influence in shaping the work of the Association during these next years, I shall endeavor to see that every dollar we can spare from the existing work goes into the planting of new churches in carefully selected large centers of population.

I cherish no illusion about the privileges or powers of the President. There is a passage in the ancient Catechism which warns us "not to think more highly of ourselves than we ought to think." It sometimes occurs to me that the officers of the Association are not particularly in danger of forgetting their Catechism if they ever learned it. Already some of you are wondering what this statement is all about. Who, indeed, is the President of the Association to even consider shaping its policies? So I hasten to acknowledge that only in part will the President during these next four years shape the destinies of the Association. Yet in all humility I want to make plain that my policy will be to plant new churches. Let us not spend our money in founding new departments or their equivalent. And then I want to add that while the President proposes, the Board of Directors disposes. Decisions in the main do not rest either with the President or the executive staff. They rest with you and your Board of Directors. If new departments or their equivalents are started during the next four years, they will be started by the Board of Directors, which is the Supreme Court.

Now this apportionment of power I consider wholly healthy and right. No one man should shape the policies of the Association. We have been blest in the past by the ability and great devotion of our Directors. Never have we had a better Board than we have to-day. Further, your officers and directors work together in harmony and we shall continue to do so. I have been expressing not only my own opinion, but I believe I have been expressing also the opinion of your Supreme Court. All of us want every dollar that you give, and every dollar that the Association receives from the income of endowments, just as far as possible to go into new churches.

And now let us turn our eyes away from details to matters of national and international moment. The world is growing smaller; distance and space disappear; the nations draw together. It is far easier for groups of Unitarians in different countries to communicate one with another than fifty years ago it was for our churches in this country to communicate with each other. Many international enterprises are now possible which before this were impossible. We desire to see the International Congress of Religious Liberals, founded here in 1900, made a more effective instrument for expressing the growing solidarity of the Unitarian groups in different lands.

Now note what this means. Let us concede that it is good for every one of us to belong to our local church. By banding together we gain strength and we exert strength. Now let us go a step further. It is good for each church to join in the broader fellowship of this Association. Our local churches thus gain strength and exert strength. Now carry the thought a step further. It is good for our separated fellowship of Unitarian churches all the earth over to be welded together into a single fellowship. We are beginning to understand what such cooperation between groups all over the world might accomplish, particularly in promoting good will and peace upon the earth.

The International Congress grew steadily during the years before the war, nurtured by Dr. Eliot and Dr. Wendte, who started it, and carried on by Dr. Drummond in England. Obviously, during the war and immediately afterward its work became exceedingly difficult. It is essential now that the Congress should be rehabilitated and become a really effective instrument in coordinating great liberal groups. Let the Congress mean to our liberal groups scattered throughout the world what this delegate Association means to our parish churches. It is my hope that during the next four years we may be able to help the International Congress to become a really powerful international influence. There is nothing new in this statement, but I bring you the emphasis.

Let me now say a few words in conclusion. Would that I could tell you in any adequate way of my belief in the supreme worth of what we are doing together. We are carrying on and enlarging a great work. What a magnificent inheritance is ours of truth-seeking and freedom, of forbearance and perseverance, of hope triumphing over experience, of assistance given to a thousand causes! How human life has been raised and straightened and made sane; how discouragement has given place to hope, and ignorance to faith! What a wonderful privilege it is to share in the present moment of our national life and of the world's history!

Children were playing by the shore, and a high wave struck away their sand castle, and one little lad cried out to his playmate, "Now we can rebuild it higher up!" The waves of change are beating upon many a cherished illusion. A decade brings more sweeping changes than once a century brought. Let us not mourn unduly for that which is swept away, but let us build higher up. The forms change, but if we perpetually interpret human life in terms of service and of faith, then are we building what in principle and in spirit, under the blessing of God, shall endure.

With all our hearts we pray: "Blow, winds of God, and bring us on our way."

Louis C. Cornish.

PUBLICATION DEPARTMENT

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

During the last year we have printed 264,000 tracts in the several series. The following tracts have been added to the permanent lists during the year:—

"The Beauty of Holiness," by Charles E. Park, D.D.

"Understanding the Bible," by Clayton R. Bowen, Th.D.

"Making the Grade," by Minot Simons, D.D.

"The Voice of Unitarian Youth," Young People's Religious Union sermons.

"The Proceedings of the Unitarian Historical Society," Vol. II.

"Charles W. Eliot's Talks to Parents and Young People," by Edward H. Cotton.

"One Thousand Sayings of History," by Walter Fogg.

"Why Religion for Ourselves or Our Children," by Lee Friedman.

"Grace Seasoned with Salt," preached at the Memorial service to Paul Revere Frothingham.

"Report of the Commission on Comparative Values."

The total number of volumes sold of our general publications during the past year, including the Hymn Book, The Beacon Hymnal, the books in The Beacon Course and our general list has been 32,746. In 1919, ten years ago, the total sales in the Publication Department and The Beacon Press were 28,226, so this is an increase of 4,520. The value of sales from books and merchandise has been $35,365.04 in comparison with $37,889.05 in 1928. The number of charge sales was 6198 in 1929, compared with 4608 in 1928.

The general public is exhibiting a markedly increased interest in our books, particularly those which are liberal in outlook, but not of a strictly religious nature. During the year we have, for instance, had such comments about "Great Companions" as: "It is a fine service you have rendered . . . one of the most helpful anthologies imaginable . . . of inestimable merit . . . a treasure house of inspiration . . . every word of praise can be multiplied a thousand fold . . ."

"One Thousand Sayings of History" has been recommended by the American Library Association for large and small public libraries and high school libraries—it has, in fact, extended its recommendation to all the libraries within its field. This book is increasingly being adopted as a class book in high schools, and negotiations are pending for the syndication of some of the quotations as illustrated articles in newspapers throughout the country.

In this connection, we might say that three of the last four books we have issued have gone into more than one printing, and one of them is now in its fourth printing.

The panoramic view taken from this building, which appeared in papers in Boston, Chicago, Denver, Colo., and San Francisco, received a great deal of favorable comment.

The total receipts from all sources including $16,107.88 check exchange have been $68,460.86, the expenditures $66,189.44. Receipts including $16,107.88 check exchange were $76,889.51 and expenditures were $72,278.62 in 1928. The merchandise receipts were $35,888.04 and expenditures $20,741.27 in 1929. Although we are very liberal in granting credit, our total loss from bad debts was only $87.54.

Copies of Channing's Works have been sent free to settled ministers of various denominations, and outfits of books, including sets of The Beacon Course, have been sent to a limited number of libraries.

The cost of printing 3,000 copies of the Year Book was $1,519.07, compared with $1,319.93 in 1927-28, and printing 6,000 copies of the Annual Report $1,342.31 as against $1,495.42 in 1927-28, for 9,000 copies.

Subscriptions to The Christian Register have been supplied, as in previous years, to reading rooms in all parts of the country.

Seventy-nine manuscripts have been submitted to the Department for possible publication as books or tracts. This is three times the number submitted in 1918-19. The Publication Director has carefully read each one and submitted all that seemed to have any possibilities to the other members of the Publication Committee.

We have printed 217,060 miscellaneous sheets, 35,500 sheets of books and charge material, 297,500 copies of The Beacon, and 1,000 copies of Word and Work, a total of 551,060 sheets, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have issued during the year 1,000 Religious Education catalogues, 1,000 Beacon Course catalogues (Unitarian), 2,500 Beacon Course catalogues (non-Unitarian), 4,500 lists of books, and 5,000 tract catalogues, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have mailed over 43,100 circulars announcing our books, and we have inserted 475 inches of advertising matter in prominent newspapers and periodicals, including The Christian Register. The direct mailing campaign is well above last year, and the newspaper advertising is 25% larger.

We have had a sales agent, in addition to the Treasurer, visit the bookstores in Boston and vicinity with our publications, two representatives covering New York, New Jersey, and Philadelphia; we have opened another depository at the Meadville Theological School in Chicago, and our representative will call on the bookstores in Chicago and vicinity. Negotiations are under way to have a representative cover San Francisco and surrounding towns. There is still a large territory uncovered, but this is a beginning.

During the year we have also made quite a few improvements in the appearance of the book room, at very moderate cost.

The total number of shipments made through the Shipping Department, including the free and charge material, was 10,559 in 1928-29, compared with 10,180 in 1927-28.

During the year we have averaged 8,000 printed copies of The Beacon each week. This is slightly less than last year. The expense of publication and mailing has been $5,131.87 and the receipts, including a $1,000 subsidy from the Association, $4,974.32.

The Wayside Pulpit continues to grow in strength and appeal, due in part no doubt to the active interest of the Wayside Pulpit committee.

W. Forbes Robertson.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

I have the honor to submit this annual report for 1928-1929 and my observations as Secretary of the Department of Religious Education.

The Reverend Edwin Fairley, Associate Secretary, and I have divided our time and effort quite evenly between field work and administrative duties.

Field Work

The central and most effective part of our field work is the annual Institute for Religious Education held at Star Island in cooperation with the Unitarian Laymen's League. Professor Hugh Hartshorne and The Reverend Dilworth Lupton headed the list of ten speakers who addressed the record number of 198 delegates at the Ninth Annual Institute, July 7-14. It is the purpose of Mr. McDougall and your Secretaries to maintain each year the highest possible standard in the choice of our two principal lecturers on philosophy, psychology and religion, and in the selection of leaders for the Methods Conferences. The generosity of the Unitarian Laymen's League has made it possible for us to bring our delegates under the personal influence of a lengthening series of the leaders in American educational and religious life.

Star Island is a powerhouse for faith and works. Ours would be a renewed fellowship were it possible to have every one of our churches represented at these Institutes.

For the latter part of the year Mr. Fairley has been giving full time to the work of the Department. He has spoken or held conferences principally in the Middle Atlantic states and, with The Reverend Charles P. Wellman, has added the record of another successful Rowe Camp Conference to this growing tradition of our Connecticut Valley and New York State churches. Mr. Sharp has met New England engagements. Together with The Reverend Lyman V. Rutledge, President of the Unitarian Sunday School Society, the Secretaries served as delegates to the Twenty-sixth Annual Convention of The Religious Education Association in Des Moines, Iowa, making en route a pleasant contact with the faculty and students of Meadville and conducting an institute at Buffalo.

To Mrs. Graham P. Spencer, Chairman of the Committee on Religious Education of the General Alliance, this Department and many of our churches are indebted for much advice and consecrated speaking during the year.

Your two Secretaries unite in incorporating by reference the several recommendations and the observations which appear on pages 21 and 22 of the Annual Report for 1928. In spite of increasing friendship with Boston and New York Headquarters and resort to their services, and in spite of growing understanding of The Beacon Course, our churches need a philosophy of religious education and a baptism of purpose. That can only be a happy or an effective church which is taking its part with the public schools and the homes of its community in the supremely important task of education for selfhood and for democracy. Your Secretaries sense the widespread need for a clearer understanding of the unique functions of our church schools and of the shared functions of our church schools. To this, as well as to technique, they address themselves in the field.

More frequent and more rewarding than ever have been our reciprocities with The Religious Education Association of which Dr. Samuel A. Eliot and Dr. Francis G. Peabody were founders a quarter of a century ago. Mr. Fairley is Secretary of the New York Chapter and Mr. Sharp Secretary of the New England Regional Committee. During the year Mr. Fairley has conducted three profitable meetings of the New York Chapter and secured the cooperation of Jews, Catholics and Protestants in contributing religious education materials to the great Parents' Exposition held annually in New York City. Under the leadership of Dr. Eliot, a remarkably representative gathering of seventy-five leaders in the religious and educational life of New England met at the University Club on November 26th for dinner and addresses. A continuing committee was formed of Jews, Catholics and Protestants who on May first and second presented a well attended and timely conference at Phillips Brooks House, Harvard University, on the topic: "Character Education: A Community Responsibility."

Work such as this widens our range of friendships and our own outlook; it makes for comity and better understanding of our Unitarian position.

The Office

There has been the usual resort to Headquarters for advice in person and by correspondence and for the use of the slides, mimeographed plays and costumes for pageants.

Mr. Fairley has devoted himself to preparation of the Primary Hymnal. Miss D. Louise Henderson, Mrs. S. R. Mayer-Oakes, The Reverend Harvey Loy and Miss Marguerite Emilio have loyally assisted in the collection and composition of new hymns and music and services of worship. This book is planned for use with younger children than can use The Beacon Hymnal and especially for use in the home.

The new book of plays and pageants edited by Marie W. Johnson is on the press. This is a collection of sixteen of our most popular and effective religious dramas which it is hoped our churches and the general public will welcome in a convenient form.

In cooperation with The Universalist Leader and the General Sunday School Association of the Universalist Church, this Department has added to its publications "Teaching Religion in an Age of Science," an article by The Reverend Norman D. Fletcher.

The Reverend Lyman V. Rutledge, President of the Unitarian Sunday School Society, has contributed a series of five articles to The Christian Register entitled "Unitarian Progress in Religious Education." These are reports of distinctive programs of religious education which have been developed at Yonkers, N. Y., Cleveland, Minneapolis, Lexington, Massachusetts, and Schenectady.

Subscriptions to The Beacon total 7969 this year as compared with 8566 last year.

Sales of The Beacon Hymnal, published in 1924, total 13,701 copies to date. The first edition having been exhausted, a second has been printed without change.

Sales of "A Friendly World," most recent addition to The Beacon Course (1926), have totalled 547 Teacher's Manuals, 417 Teacher's Envelopes, 2453 Pupil's Envelopes.

The Committee on Religious Drama has been reorganized by The Reverend Chester A. Drummond, Chairman, to meet more completely the dramatic needs of our churches by the recommendation and creation of religious plays and pageants, simple and detailed, for both the parish house and the church auditorium.

A brief homily in conclusion: Some persons of the staunchest scientific conviction seem in their thinking to exempt social institutions from the operation of the law of cause and effect. This is due of course to the fact that most physical and chemical effects follow quickly and appreciably upon their causes, while "the mills of God grind slowly." But the truth persists that our liberal churches—almost purely dependent upon personalities and, less than any others, dependent upon ritual and organization—are what they are and promise what they promise only as each person conceives of his church as a household inevitably stronger for his faith and works, and less than a household without him.

And the first care of our household is our children—for they shall inherit.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH EXTENSION

During the year just closed fifty-four churches have been aided by the appropriation and distribution of approximately $54,000, and eighteen churches have benefited through the Building Loan or Church Investment to the extent of approximately $90,000. This does not include the distribution from the Sustentation Fund of $17,210 among the ministers of sixty-eight parishes.

Perhaps the most important work, however, which has been done by the Association in regard to the strengthening of our churches has been the personal visits which have been made to these churches at the request either of the minister or the Board of Trustees for conference in regard to the local situation and advice and suggestions as to how the strength of the church might be increased. More and more not only the aided churches but independent churches are turning to the officers of the Association and asking them to give to them the benefit of their experience and wisdom. The increase in the number of these requests is due no doubt to the changing conditions religiously and industrially which affect the life of the church with the social life of the nation. It is always a pleasure to respond to these requests and to be of any assistance we can.

The same difficulties confront our new churches as confront our older and more established churches. One finds, however, as he visits many of our churches which have been more recently organized, a sense of the need of the liberal faith on the part of the members and of the community which is very real and very compelling. One finds, too, in spite of the difficulties, an undaunted courage and the hope that the difficulties must be and can be overcome and a strong church can develop in the community on the basis of the existing organization which will have a real ministry for the city in which it is located. It is always refreshing to be bathed in the spirit of this sense of spiritual need and it is one of the rewards of anybody who undertakes this field of work to feel that his visit has been of real help and may prove of lasting benefit. Letters of deep appreciation which often follow such visits on the part of the local church are in themselves a compensation for whatever hardship and anxiety there may be in a long and arduous trip.

During the past year your officers have visited nearly every one of our aided churches. Besides responding to these personal appeals for counsel, the churches of which mention was made in the last Annual Report as being newly established are showing steady and consistent growth. Harrisburg, Pa., is now entering upon its third year. The first year the services were conducted by settled ministers within a radius of two hundred miles. During the past year Rev. William A. Vrooman, minister of our church at Wilmington, Del., has preached regularly on Sunday evenings and has assumed responsibility for the pastoral and organizing work of the church. The same plan will be continued during the coming year. The church itself desires it and Mr. Vrooman is willing to undertake it. This church has shown a consistent and steady growth.

Rev. John C. Petrie, minister of our church at Lynchburg, Va., has been going regularly for some two months to Roanoke, Va., sixty miles distant, and holding services in the ballroom of the hotel. This venture was undertaken on the basis of a report made by Rev. Frank W. Pratt of Richmond after he had conducted a Bible mission in Roanoke last year, which Mr. Petrie attended, met several of the people and now definite Unitarian work is under way. The group has been organized and plans will be made for the continuance of this work next winter. There is a reasonable prospect that under this plan a group may be organized of sufficient strength to warrant a settled minister in the not distant future.

Tampa is among the most recent members of our family of churches. The work was begun a little over a year ago and from its inception has been increasingly successful. The movement grew out of a real desire of a group of people in Tampa to have a Unitarian Church. Before the Association was asked to participate the local people canvassed their own resources and expressed their willingness to assume the overhead plus $1,000 toward the minister's salary. Now comes their announcement, without any request from the Association, that they feel sure that they can raise $200 additional for the minister's salary this year. In addition to this they have started a Building Fund and are considering the purchase of a lot. From the first they have been under the efficient leadership of Rev. Thomas Turrell. He has gained steadily in the affections of his people and in the esteem of the city.

At Salina, Kans., where some three years ago a Congregational Church sought fellowship with us, owing to the resignation of Mr. Burke, Rev. Adolph Rossbach assumed charge April 1st. Since the coming of Mr. Rossbach there have been steady gains in attendance, interest and support. Surely in this region where Unitarian Churches are even rarer than a warm day in June there is an opportunity to establish a center of religious liberalism.

The Metropolitan Conference in New York City is alive to the many and varied opportunities which present themselves for service within its borders. It has a committee which has carefully studied the finances of the Bronx Free Fellowship and made an exhaustive report, upon the basis of which the Association is this year making an appropriation of $1500 toward the Bronx. This movement itself is gaining continued strength under the ministry of Mr. Land. Beside the work incident to the establishing and maintaining of this Bronx Free Fellowship, Mr. Land has taken the time to go regularly to Poughkeepsie to conduct services in our church in that city. Under this continued double ministry of his both churches are prospering and gaining in strength and influence.

The Conference has also on the recommendation of one of its committees raised funds to place prominent advertisements in the daily press of New York City. The responses to these advertisements received at New York Headquarters have been interesting and stimulating, showing a desire on the part of many people hitherto unacquainted with our organized church or its message to be brought into closer contact with it and identify themselves with it. Perhaps the outstanding event of the year was the conference of suburban ministers and trustees. Those attending came away feeling that the afternoon spent in considering some of the major problems of church work was worthwhile and should be repeated. This work will probably be continued by the Metropolitan Conference in their Group Conferences planned for at their Spring Meeting.

The following are some of the churches which have made notable improvements in their church buildings and property or are actually constructing new church buildings: The old First Parish at Norwell, through the generosity of one of its members and in memory of his parents and grandparents, has renovated entirely its church auditorium in a very beautiful manner. The First Parish at Bridgewater has done substantially the same with its church. Ministering as it does to an increasing degree to the students of the State Normal School, it is now equipped to render this service in a more inspiring way than ever before. The church at Oklahoma City, through the generous gift of one of its members, with the help of the Association and with sacrifices on the part of its own members, has nearly completed the erection of a beautiful building with parish house and parsonage all in one unit. It is located upon one of the prominent corners in the city and attracts the attention and interest of citizens and visitors who had not up to this time known that there was such an organization as the Unitarian Church. This group of buildings will probably be ready for dedication in the fall.

With the aid of the Association the church auditorium used by our congregation at Chattanooga, Tenn., has been renovated, redecorated and made much more suitable for the use of the congregation in its morning service of worship. The fortieth anniversary of the founding of the church together with the rededication of the renovated building was celebrated on April 14th. Rev. Henry Wilder Foote, representing the Association, was present and preached the sermon.

In Nashua, N. H., a beautiful and commodious parish house has been finished and dedicated. At Winchester, Mass., a parish house has been added and the entire church renovated and beautified. At Arlington Street Church the Paul Revere Frothingham Memorial Doors were dedicated October 21st, 1928, the old vestry has been made into a beautiful chapel and commodious social rooms have been finished underneath the church. At Roslindale the parish house has been completely renovated. At Bolton the new church has been completed and dedicated. At Clinton the chancel has been redecorated and through the generosity of Dr. and Mrs. Duncan a beautiful damask curtain hung. At Wellesley Hills a new parish house is under construction, being the second of a unit of three which eventually will include a manse for the minister. At Salina, Kans., the entire plant has been redecorated. At St. Petersburg, Fla., the plans have been accepted and the building of the new church will go forward during the summer. At Underwood, Minn., a parsonage has been purchased. At Rutherford, N. J., there have been extensive alterations and additions to the church building. At Wollaston a new parsonage has been purchased. At Riverton, Man., a new church has been built. At Blaine, Wash., a lot has been purchased and a church is under construction. At Norton, Mass., the entire church interior has been redecorated.

Last year a special request was made to the churches working under appropriations from the Association that they name a smaller amount by at least 5% than the preceding year. This request was acceded to in every instance where it was at all possible. Most of the churches accepted this reduction.

During the year Dr. Hunt has made visits to fifty-five parishes. He has made two long trips to Tennessee and is planning our missionary work in that state as one unit; one trip to Oklahoma, two extended trips to New York and Pennsylvania, one to North Carolina and Virginia. He has made frequent visits to New York headquarters for conference with ministers and Boards of Trustees. He has taken part in two installations.

Dr. Blake covers a territory from Edmonton, Alberta, and Denver, Colorado, west to the Pacific Ocean. While it contains less than forty churches, each is visited at least once a year and the bulk of them oftener and the vast distances require almost constant travelling. Fourteen aided churches are included in this territory but most of the independent churches also look to him for advice and counsel. During the past year he has delivered over sixty addresses and sermons, all in connection with our church work in the west. Two Universalist churches also are visited regularly. Two churches have been definitely abandoned (Victoria, B. C., and Hollywood, Calif.) while two new ones have been opened (Blaine, Wash., and Seattle, Wash., both Icelandic). Dr. Blake also has looked after the property interests of the Association at two Montana points and one in Edmonton. He also represents the Women's Alliance, the Laymen's League and the Y.P.R.U. activities in the churches of his territory.

Dr. Patterson has visited sixty-eight parishes, has attended five conferences, officiated at eleven installations and three ordinations. Two extensive trips have been made in Maine, one to Iowa and Minnesota to attend the gatherings of the young people at Hanska and Humboldt, and another to the meeting of the Southwestern Conference of Religious Liberals at Salina with visits to our churches at Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Okla., and Dallas, Texas. In February a visit to the South was arranged with speaking engagements at St. Petersburg, Tampa, Orlando and Jacksonville, Fla., and Atlanta, Ga., with a conference at Charleston, S. C.

During the year in New England alone more than thirty settlements have been effected.

Aside from this Dr. Patterson has spoken at various Alliance meetings and other gatherings and held many conferences with representatives of parishes with reference to their various problems. The close of the year finds us with few vacancies and most of these are well on the way toward the solution of their pastoral problems.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS

Our churches have continued to watch with anxiety throughout the past year the condition of our sister churches in Roumania. It is to be remembered that in the late autumn the Bratianu Government fell, and Juliu Maniu became the Premier of Roumania, and he was elected to office with enthusiasm because among other pledges of improvement he promised relief in the administration for the minority groups. Up to the present time these pledges have not yet been fulfilled. Perhaps it is too early to expect marked improvement. The public opinion of the world awaits the issue. Meantime, our churches have suffered no more than in the years preceding and in some cases the conditions have slightly improved. Our Unitarian churches in America have given approximately $5,000 to the Chief Consistory for the schools and parishes, and it is exceedingly important for the furtherance of our liberal cause that our assistance continue.

Our beloved colleague, the Rev. Gabriel Csiki, D.D., of the Mission House in Budapest came to us from the Hungarian churches and was a welcome visitor in our pulpits and spoke at many of our meetings. He stayed with us about three months, and returned to Hungary carrying our affectionate greetings to the Hungarian churches. The condition of our churches in Old Hungary in general continues to improve. The Mission House work steadily grows in influence and in importance. The new church auditorium built at one end of the Mission House by the City of Budapest has been finished and dedicated, and is in every way a credit both to the city and to our whole work. We can count it as one of our new churches. With this increased equipment, the work should grow more rapidly during the next year. This work continues to be under the devoted leadership of Dr. Csiki.

In Prague the work of the Free Religious Society shows a steady growth. An assistant minister will soon support Dr. Capek. The plans mentioned last year for extensive alterations in the building owned by the British and our own Association have been delayed. Dr. Pierce of Washington and Mr. Fuller of this Association visited Prague in the summer for conferences and advice. It is probable that during the next fiscal year the plans will be carried forward.

Representing our Association, Rev. John H. Lathrop, D.D., Rev. Curtis W. Reese, D.D., and Rev. Franklin C. Southworth, D.D., LL.D., were present at the Centennial celebration of the Brahmo Samaj in India. They traveled extensively, spoke in many places, and enthusiastic testimony of their effective work has come to us from India. Mrs. Southworth, Mrs. Lathrop and Mrs. Sidney B. Snow were also members of our delegation.

The religious attitude of the Brahmo Samaj has been from its inception and still is the attitude of the Unitarian movement in America, uniting modernism with a broad catholicity and a passionate humanitarian zeal. The Brahmo Samaj has been and still is an important factor in the higher life of India.

The Brahmo Samaj is not growing in numbers. Its professed adherents number about 6,000 out of a population of 320,000,000. It attained its position of importance through the personality and spiritual genius of its three great leaders: Ram Mohun Roy, Devendranath Tagore and Keshub Chunder Sen. It consists of a group of loosely connected, inadequately organized societies, no one of which possesses the machinery to function with the maximum of efficiency as a religious organization. Particularly are they defective in the organization of women, young people, and children.

This situation is in part the result of the conditions out of which the Brahmo Samaj has grown. It has no method of organizing its devotees into congregations with weekly meetings for worship. It has sought with much success to replace a religion of form by a religion of the heart and life, but it has not availed itself of the agencies which have been found necessary in occidental Christian churches.

As a result of conferences of leaders of the Brahmo Samaj in which English and American delegates participated, there was introduced at their annual meeting a resolution calling for a vigorous effort for the securing of more men and more money with which to launch a new forward movement and for such modification of existing machinery as is necessary to promote such a movement.

The few visits of English and American ministers in previous years have been of great benefit to the Brahmo Samaj. It was felt very strongly that these visits ought to be more frequent and that additional points of contact between workers in the Brahmo Samaj and workers in our English and American churches would be of much mutual benefit.

The delegates strongly recommend an immediate investigation of the missionary opportunity possible through the Brahmo Samaj in India, involving a report to the Board at a future meeting of the amount of money needed for the beginning, with recommendations of ways through which the funds may be provided.

At frequent intervals during the year word comes to us of the growing interest in foreign countries and need of our advice in assisting in its guidance and organization. It seems improbable that the Association can include in its annual budget any considerable appropriation for these causes, but here exists a field of enormous potential importance. The Association would welcome and most eagerly spend the income of any funds given us for foreign work, and perhaps in no other way could the Association so promote liberal religion, international fellowship, and that understanding between races which make secure the peace of the world.

Louis C. Cornish.

DEPARTMENT OF COMITY AND FELLOWSHIP

The Association continues to assist in every possible way the friendliness and cooperation between different denominations. A number of events that have happened during the year show the good spirit now existing. Among them may be mentioned the Tercentenary of the First Church in Salem. At one of the meetings Dean Lee S. McCollester of the Crane Divinity School at Tufts College, Rev. Frederick H. Page, D.D., President of the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches, and the President of this Association, conducted together the Communion Service.

Just after the May Meetings, the Pan Presbyterian Council held a notable session in Boston. It was the privilege of the President to entertain a number of distinguished delegates, including Bishops of the churches in Roumania and Hungary, the United Church of Canada, the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and others particularly interested in the treatment of minority groups. The President was also asked to address one of the meetings of the Conference.

These and other similar events of which it would be easy to exaggerate the importance, none-the-less do indicate the growing friendship and cooperation between denominations. We take pleasure in recording our belief that cooperation and understanding between the Universalists and Unitarians increases. We promote it in every way that lies within our power.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL RELATIONS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE second year at a task has certain disadvantages and compensating advantages. The newness has worn off but at the same time the building up of contacts makes for more effective work. The educational task is still paramount in a department of this kind but there is less need than there was a year ago to inform either the churches or other bodies of the existence of the department. More and more such speaking and writing as the secretary is called on to do is concerned with matters of general policy or particular local situations rather than an exposition of the aims and purposes of the department. During the year there has been an even larger number of requests for addresses than in the preceding year. The secretary has made eighty-seven public addresses during the course of the last twelve months. That means an average of two or three a week during the church year. As in previous years these addresses have extended over a very considerable portion of the country and have been before all kinds of organizations, although a larger number than last year have been in connection with the Sunday morning church services.

The liason work of the department continues to grow in interest and value. This year the secretary has served as chairman of the International Relations Committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches and as recording secretary of the conference on the Churches and World Peace of all the Protestant denominations held at Columbus, Ohio. He has also just been asked to serve as one of three representatives of Protestantism in Massachusetts in helping to get together a most important conference of Catholics, Jews and Protestants to consider their differences and resemblances. During the summer he was the one Unitarian delegate from the United States at the preliminary meeting of the Universal Religious Peace Conference at Geneva. The department was also active as the executive agent of the special Board Committee on the Kellogg Pact. The department was honored by being asked to head up one of the round tables at the conference on War and Christianity of theological students and young ministers held by the Friends at Brown's Mills, N. J.

One of the encouraging things this year was the joint conference held in Boston by the Congregationalists, Universalists and Unitarians on the Church and New England Industry. Certain results of this conference have been of the greatest importance and the department is still working to carry out certain plans which were there developed. A similar conference will be held in Boston next autumn.

The secretary has also been asked several times to speak before college groups during the year and this demand seems to be on the increase. Partly as a result of these contacts, the secretary has attempted to interpret various social activities and naturally the current literature dealing with social, international and economic problems through the columns of the Register.

The most encouraging thing about the work this year has been the increasing demand from our own churches and ministers both for addresses and for counsel. One of our churches without a minister requested the secretary to spend three or four days with them, with the idea that he might help in working out their program. Many more times than last year ministers and church officials have written or come in person to the office of the department with problems ranging all the way from desires to secure certain definite information on social and economic problems to requests for assistance in dealing with problems of need in their own parishes. The cooperation with the Women's Alliance and the Laymen's League and the Y.P.R.U. has been of very great value. The cooperation of the Alliance, particularly through its social service committee, has been of inestimable value.

One added feature of the work this year has been the administration of the Cruft Memorial Fund, which is a sum of money left to the Association for the assistance of aged Protestant women. This has enabled us to be of very real service to many of our own ministers and parishes and helps, although it does not entirely solve, the problem of the aged which was referred to in our last report and which is still with us.

Next year's work will be built up on the basis of past experience but it is the hope of the secretary that there will be opportunity for one or two special projects and studies.

Robert C. Dexter.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICITY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

An increasing number of ministers and denominational leaders recognize the Department of Publicity as a useful source upon which to draw for photographs and publicity material in connection with conferences and other meetings of religious liberals, or with ordinations, installations and special lectures. The daily press, especially in New England, makes frequent calls upon this Department for such information, which is usually on file or quickly obtainable.

Publicity has not been localized about the Boston offices of the denomination. Material has been forwarded, frequently in response to requests, to the Middle West and South, the Rocky Mountain district and the Pacific Coast in this country and to the Unitarian centers in the Canadian Northwest. Pictures and publicity sent from the Department office found their way into the newspapers as far afield as Calcutta. Events of general interest to the fellowship have been given to the press, and special events have been written up for the sections in which they were of particular interest. The Department is gratified that so large a proportion of the manuscript material sent from its office during the year has appeared on the printed page.

The secretary is building up a file of biographical sketches and photographs of ministers and officers of the general organizations of the fellowship, which is available for denominational publicity upon application to this Department. The secretary has continued to serve as editor of the Association's Word and Work department in The Christian

Register and has supplied The Register with a large quantity of denominational material for its general pages.

Through this Department scores of sermons and addresses from a Unitarian standpoint have been printed in newspapers which have been widely distributed about the country. Feature stories and interviews have been used generously in the output of denominational newspaper stories from this Department, and publicity material for ministers and the general press has preceded Billings lecturers and other speakers from the central offices of the Unitarian organizations.

The work of the Department has shown steady expansion during the last two years.

JESSIE E. DONAHUE.

RECRUITING THE MINISTRY

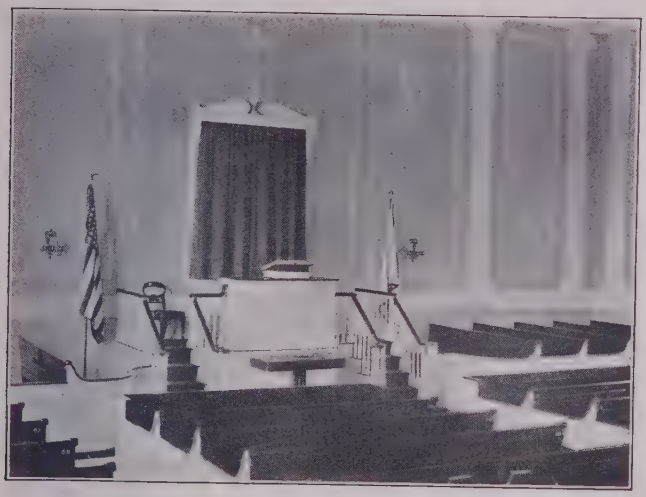
To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

There are now fifteen young men in the Theological School in Harvard University preparing for the Unitarian ministry while four of our younger ministers, already settled over churches, are taking additional courses. The total enrollment at Meadville Theological School is now twenty-six, while the enrollment at the Pacific Unitarian School for the Ministry is ten. Eleven young men in other colleges or theological schools are preparing for the Unitarian ministry and there are ten young men now engaged in business or teaching who hope to enter our ministry eventually.

The Recruiting Committee offered three prizes of $100, $50 and $25 respectively for essays on "The Worth of the Ministry" to be competed for by Unitarian ministers. Twenty-three papers were submitted and the prizes awarded as follows: First prize, Rev. Charles J. Staples; second prize, Rev. Clifton M. Gray; third prize, Rev. Earl M. Wilbur, D.D.

Several exchanges have been arranged by the Recruiting Committee in order that several of our ministers might speak in the churches visited upon the need of young men in the ministry.

Many of our churches have printed in their calendars a paragraph calling special attention to the need of training young men to supply our pulpits.



FIRST PARISH CHURCH, NORWELL, MASS.

FREE CHURCH, BLAINE, WASHINGTON

Financial aid has been provided for six students for the ministry out of the Perkins Fund, the Bullard Fund and the appropriation of the A.U.A. for Recruiting the Ministry. As for several years past, the Alliance has again assisted our work with an appeal for $500.

FRED R. LEWIS.

REFERENCE LIBRARY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

The Reference Library may now be used with the assurance that most of the material in the Library is available.

The Library has been used far more than the year previous, an average of four to five persons or inquiries a day. Requests vary, the following will give an idea of the scope covered: Biographical accounts of ministers; History of the Unitarian movement in Hartford, Conn., tracing the lives of each minister; Data regarding the Unitarian movement in and about New York City; History of early Boston churches as requested by the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary Committee.

All unbound sermons and addresses have been sorted and arranged in folders alphabetically by author. (Of these folders there are 111, about 3 inches thick, which gives a slight idea of the quantity.) All biographical pamphlets relating to ministers have been arranged alphabetically by name of minister and placed in folders. Parish histories in pamphlet and manuscript form have been sorted and arranged alphabetically by name of town, these are placed in boxes, numbering fifty-eight.

The file of The Pacific Unitarian has been completed and bound, covering the years 1892-1928.

All duplicate books and pamphlets have been given to the Minister's Shelf, in the Unitarian Building and to Meadville and the Pacific School.

All lantern slides in the Library have been placed with those of the Department of Religious Education.

During the year the Library has received many gifts, the books numbering 179. Of these books and other memorabilia the most interesting perhaps are the following: A collection of letters given by Dr. Francis G. Peabody, relating to Unitarianism during the nineteenth century; A miniature of William Ellery Channing, given by Miss Twitchell of Greenfield; "Unitarian Women Ministers" given by the author, Rev. Clara C. Helvie; The full reports of the Brooklyn Ethical Society; A complete set of pictures of the Lancaster, Pa., church, given by Mr. Milton T. Garvin.

There is yet work to be accomplished in the Library. The file giving all ministers who have ever been in our Fellowship, needless to say is useless unless kept up. To make the Library of greater use books and pamphlets should be added in order to keep the Library up to date. All pictures of individuals and churches should be arranged so that they may be consulted, for there is an increasing demand for these pictures. The file of Unity and The Inquirer should be checked and the missing numbers obtained, and then they should be bound for reference, as it is, it is almost hopeless to use them. The early file of The Christian Register should be rebound as the old bindings are fast falling off.

Cynthia Griffin.

REPORT OF THE FELLOWSHIP COMMITTEE

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

During the year four regular meetings have been held. There were thirty-two Final Certificates granted and Probationary Certificates were granted to eleven Unitarians, eight Universalists, five Congregationalists, two Presbyterians, one Quaker, one Methodist, one Mennonite and one Lutheran.

Your Fellowship Committee has given its first attention to the men coming out of our Divinity Schools and we believe that practically all of them have been settled.

Despite the ebbing of the fundamentalist agitation against the liberals in orthodoxy, a large number of men have applied for fellowship. Every effort has been made to use all who in the judgment of the Fellowship Committee are academically and temperamentally equipped to serve the cause of religious liberalism. Your committee has carefully avoided opening our ranks to all and sundry and has endeavored to govern its selections with great care both for the good of our own cause and for the happiness and the welfare of the men who have sought to come to us. In all cases advice against the severance of present religious affiliations until there was some reasonable certainty of usefulness and opportunity within our own body has been given. At the present time there are a number of very promising prospects, men of outstanding ability and large experience, awaiting opportunities within our ranks.

During the year a voluminous correspondence has been carried on and our records show a considerable number of applications that have been filed pending either the completion of academic requirements or opportunities of settlement.

The Committee, realizing the very great importance of leadership, feels deeply its responsibility and will gladly welcome all helpful suggestions.

GEORGE F. PATTERSON.

FUNDS FOR SPECIAL AID

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

The capital of the Ministerial Aid Fund has not changed this year and stands at $161,405.34. In addition to this the Association holds four other funds aggregating $16,420, the income of which is available for the purposes of ministerial aid. From these incomes grants have been made during the year to eighty-eight ministers to the amount of $9,983.77. This aid is given when evidence is confidentially laid before the Committee that these friends, by reason of illness or sickness of members of their household or some pressing financial emergency, are in need of sympathy and immediate help.

The income of the Chandler Robbins Fund, with a principal of $12,970, has been a help to two persons, who were eligible under the terms of the trust.

The Association further acts as trustee of the Endowment Fund of the Unitarian Service Pension Society which is called the Unitarian Service Pension Society Permanent Fund and which was increased during the year by $7,235.79. The following bequests were received: from Mrs. Lucy E. Emery of Deerfield, Mass., $1,235.79, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Lombard of Plymouth, Mass., $1,000.00, Mrs. Evelyn M. Ordway of Lynn, Mass., $1,000.00, Rev. Mary A. Safford of Orlando, Fla., $3,000.00, and Miss Mary Woodman of Portland, Maine, $1,000.00. The capital of this fund is now $491,073.06.

The income of this fund, together with the incomes of the Aaron Bancroft, the Mary A. Butler, the Louis B. Carr, the Jed Frye, the Davis Reed, the Caroline Southwell Root,

Chapel,
ARLINGTON STREET CHURCH, BOSTON, MASS.

the Clara M. Rotch, the Emily E. Shepard, the Esther M. Whitney and the Joshua Young, D.D. funds, with an aggregate principal of $43,533.50 is available to be applied to pensions.

The Association acts also as agent for the transmission of the contributions made to the Society and the pensions have been distributed under the instructions of the Directors of the Society to the qualified beneficiaries to the amount of $46,594.50. The Association has faithfully discharged these duties.

During the year the Association, by decree of the Probate Court, was appointed succeeding trustee of a trust fund which was established in 1915 by the will of Miss Harriet Otis Cruft. The principal of this fund is $170,493.08, and the income is to be distributed to women of American birth, and Protestant religion of good character, over 60 years of age, who from illness or misfortune are in great need. The fund is called the Cruft Memorial Fund, and during this year income to the amount of $2,160.75 has been distributed to twenty-one beneficiaries.

HENRY H. FULLER.

SUSTENTATION FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

I am pleased to submit the following report for the Committee in charge of the Sustentation Fund for the year ending April 30, 1929.

The principal of the fund on April 30, 1929 is $256,399.04 and the income for the past year totalled $15,616.61.

During the year the Committee has held several meetings, and grants have been made to seventy ministers. The amounts of the grants vary in sums up to $500. and in many cases this help from the Sustentation Fund has been the cause of an addition to the salary of ministers from the local churches.

The total amount appropriated from the income of the fund for the year 1928-1929 was $17,205.47.

JAMES C. DUNCAN.

THE BUILDING LOAN FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

Churches and societies planning to erect new buildings, to enlarge or improve their present facilities turn to this fund. On approval of applications by the Administrative Council and the Building Loan Committee the loans are made without interest and repaid in annual installments.

The capital of the fund amounts to $367,674.66, having been increased during the year by the amount of $881.30.

Six societies have completed payments of their loans. Ten new loans to the amount of $62,675.00 have been made to the churches in Blaine, Wash., Bridgewater, Mass., Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oklahoma City, Okla., Pittsburgh, Pa., Reading, Mass., Rutherford, N. J., Underwood, Minn., Wellesley Hills, Mass., and Wollaston, Mass.

The balance on hand $7,261.93 has been promised on applications for loans which have been approved by the Building Loan Committee. There are now loans outstanding to seventy-seven churches.

The total amount loaned since the foundation of this fund and the Church Building Loan Fund of 1884 has been $1,186,199.76. There have been during this time 337 separate loans.

PARKER E. MAREAN.

UNITARIAN BUILDINGS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

The year 1928-1929 has seen very few changes as far as the buildings of the Association at 16 and 25 Beacon Street are concerned. The Annex continues to be used as the headquarters of the Unitarian Laymen's League, Benevolent Fraternity of Churches and the Ministers Hostel, and the building at 25 Beacon Street houses not only the Association with its various departments, but also The Beacon Press, General Alliance, Young People's Religious Union, Christian Register, and the Religious Arts Guild. No major repairs have been necessary during the year, and I think that the expenses as shown in Table P of the Treasurer's report may be considered representative as the annual maintenance cost of the buildings.

The Ministers Hostel has been in demand as usual, and the rooms have provided 723 night lodgings to 75 different individuals. The length of visit by any one person is limited to two weeks but sometimes by special arrangement this has been extended, although Miss Routledge, who continues to manage the Hostel for us, tries to discourage this extra privilege, especially when there is a heavy call for rooms. We were fortunate this Spring in having Dr. Gabriel Csiki of Budapest as one of our guests.

The President, Rev. Louis C. Cornish, D.D., delivered his Inaugural Address, which had been scheduled for the morning session.

Rev. George F. Patterson, D.D., administrative Vice-President of the Association, reported briefly in regard to Church Extension work.

The Committee on Findings reported through its chairman, Mr. A. L. Rohrer, and the following resolutions were adopted:

(1) Resolved: That the democratic and liberal spirit of our Fellowship requires that all resolutions submitted to the Association be read in their original form to the Association by the Committee when it makes its recommendation.

(2) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association gathered in Boston for its one hundred and fourth annual meeting, sends cordial greetings to the session of the Universalist General Convention to be held in Washington next October. The free churches here represented own with gratitude the deepening appreciation of the historic and spiritual kinship between the two Fellowships and rejoice in the accumulating evidence of the increasing and mutual will of these two branches of the Church Universal to labor together in the Unity of the Spirit and in the Bond of Peace.

(3) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association at its one hundred and fourth annual meeting, calls the attention of the churches of our Fellowship to the modern progress toward Church Unity, and to the desirability of fostering that growth in order that unnecessary denominational divisions, which bring undesirable rivalries contrary to Christian Spirit, may be done away, and that churche of like spirit may make their different beliefs work toward the realization of their common aims. We note with satis faction the number of Unitarian churches which have se the example of such unity by combining with churches o kindred liberalism, and have demonstrated its practicability and we call attention to the large number of Unitarian ministers who are also ministers of the Universalist denomi nation. We commend proposals of federation, or of stil closer relationship, of our churches with this denomination or with any other which may welcome such cooperation, con vinced that they who make one church grow where two did not grow before deserve well of their kind.

(4) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Associa tion in annual meeting assembled hereby reiterates its sup port of the adherence of the United States Government to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

(5) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Associa tion hereby expresses to the President of the United States its appreciation of the important step toward world peace taken in the negotiation of the Pan-American Arbitration Treaties and urges upon the Senate the early ratification of these treaties without reservation.

(6) Resolved: That the one hundred and fourth annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association heartily endorses the policy of establishing new churches and urges upon the directors of the American Unitarian Association the advisability of releasing all funds possible for that purpose.

(7) Resolved: That the delegates assembled at the annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association heartily commend the action taken yesterday by the executive committee of the Board of Directors of the Association in offering the use of the building at 25 Beacon Street to the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice when no other meeting place seemed to be available.

(8) Resolved: That in view of the recent passage of the Kellogg Pact, the American Unitarian Association recommends to all of its member churches a serious study of the question as to the correct attitude of the churches and church members toward governments which, in violation of their solemn agreements, make war; specifically, the question as to whether or not the churches are ready to "condemn resort to the war system as sin" and "should support and sustain with moral approval individuals who in the exercise of their right of conscience refuse to take part in war or in military training."

(9) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association heartily endorses the law obedience and law enforcement policy of President Hoover and pledges itself to its support.

Mr. Fuller, Treasurer of the Association, then introduced an amendment to the By-Laws which was proposed last year. The amendment was as follows:

> To strike out the first sentence in Article II, that sentence reading: Article II. Churches and other religious, educational, and philanthropic societies which in each of the two financial years previous to an annual meeting shall have made a contribution to the Association, shall be members of the Association.

The substitution reads as follows:

> Article II. Organization Members.
> Churches and other religious, educational and philanthropic societies which make annual contributions to the Association shall be members of the Association. Churches and organizations not members of the Association shall become such whenever their contributions are received and have been accepted by the Board of Directors.

The amendment was adopted.

Rev. Thomas H. Billings, of the First Church in Salem, Mass., gave an address in regard to the Bay State Tercentenary and its significance to Unitarians.

Rev. Curtis W. Reese, president of Lombard College, reported on the condition of the College and mentioned his hopes for the future.

Rev. Sydney B. Snow, president-elect of the Meadville Theological School, told of the success of the recent campaign for funds and of some of the plans for the coming year.

Rev. Maxwell Savage, president of Proctor Academy, spoke on the work of the school and outlined the plan of a campaign for funds which is to be made this fall.

The greetings of Iceland and of the Icelandic churches in the Northwest were brought to the Association by Rev. Ragnar E. Kvaran, of Winnipeg.

Rev. John H. Lathrop, D.D., minister of the Church of the Saviour, Brooklyn, N. Y., described his recent visit to Japan, the Philippines, and the Brahmo Samaj celebration in India.

Rev. Gabriel Csiki, D.D., of Budapest, Hungary, brought the greetings of the Unitarian Mission House in that city and told of the progress of that enterprise.

Upon a motion from the floor, the Directors of the Association were asked to consider the motion laid on the table to recommend Mary Ware Dennett's pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life."

The President of the Association conducted the closing devotional exercises.

The meeting adjourned at 5.25 P.M.

FUNDS INVESTED IN CHURCH PROPERTIES

The Association has interests in a number of church properties which have from time to time been conveyed to it. In a few cases the title is unconditioned; in most cases the property is held by deed or mortgage upon conditions which give the use of the property to the society as long as it maintains religious services and remains in the Unitarian fellowship.

When any part of the money needed to accomplish this object has passed through the treasury of the Association, it appears on the books as a non-income bearing investment. The amount so invested is, in most cases, but a part of the value of the property.

When the interest of the Association does not represent any monetary investment on the part of the Association, it is carried on the books as an investment of $1.00 for each item.

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT

AT the request of your Program Committee the President has the first few moments this morning. I rather welcome this arrangement, because the president has usually come last, and last year I had to cut my speech in less than half.

Let me begin by reminding you that the reports of your officers are in print and before you. They are the records of hard work faithfully done in the several departments, and I beg you to read and ponder them.

Let us start this meeting by referring to one or two matters in which we can feel great encouragement.

We have forty-nine students preparing for our ministry in the Berkeley, Meadville, Harvard and Tufts schools, and at Oxford University. They are as able and devoted a group of young men as ever have entered the ministry, and we look forward to their work with great confidence and good cheer.

My next word is financial, and it is withal a hearty, encouraging word, although there is just a shade of regret. The churches have not given as much this year to the Association as they did last year. Explicitly, we have dropped from $57,000 to $53,000. Perhaps this drop was inevitable. During the Campaign, when we raised $2,500,000, and again when we raised just under $700,000 for the Foundation, the Association received less than the usual annual contribution. Now the same thing has happened this year. We have lost $4,000, we of the Association; and, my friends, it restricts our work by just that much. But with this said, here is this splendid, dominant financial fact—that in the past year, with monetary conditions exceedingly difficult, the Alliance, the League, the Young People's Religious Union and the Association have raised close on to half a million dollars for Unitarian work.

Had we been told twenty years ago that in any single year we could raise so much for our cause, we just should not have believed it. Nor would we have believed it had we been told that in the last ten years $4,000,000 would have been given for Unitarian work. These figures witness the generosity of our people and their hope in our movement, and we all ought to rejoice today together. If we have not reached singly some mark which we think we ought to have reached, collectively we have gone over the top.

Now if there is any note that ought now to be sounded, it is this togetherness. Let us get the sense today of the great stretch behind us of the three centuries on which we are builded. Let us get the sense of all we do together in this one hundred and fifth annual meeting. We, the Association; we, including all those who have worked together through these past centuries, and all those present—yes, and those who shall follow us. We, the Association.

There is grandeur in our sustained effort. Behold our faith and our hope coming to us out of the past century and continuing on into the centuries that are before us. We have done these things; we are doing them; we shall be doing them on and into the future. I plead that we get that sense out of the past. What we do here will help to mould conditions yonder. The business of this one hundred and fifth annual meeting is not a mass of unrelated details. It will bear fruit decades hence. We are a part of the heritage of those who will follow us. Let us dignify every task that we have done and every one that we shall do.

I submit to you that our work will be vastly strengthened if only we can acquire the habit of thinking and planning in decades. We, in decades. We, in centuries.

Let us look back across the century since its organization and ask, what is the main purpose of this Association? My friend, it is the planting of churches and their nurture until they become self-supporting and permanent centres of liberal religion. This has always been our main purpose. Why again speak of it? Because I observe a tendency to somewhat lose sight of this purpose. During the Great War and since, there has been great confusion in all church work, our own included. Wisely, we have followed new methods. These new methods are good, but they never can take the place of our main purpose. We must plant new churches. If we are to spread the liberal faith, then planting churches must continue to be our main method. In these days it is a difficult method. It always has been difficult. Today it is imperative, as it ever has been.

Last year you heartily endorsed this statement. I speak of it again because I believe we must bear down hard on the helm of our denominational policies, just as hard as we are able, so that our ship may find a freer course. This past year we started four churches; we tried to start a fifth. Mr. Joy is to tell you the story. This year we shall do our best to start five more new churches. We are breaking through all hampering circumstances and trying to surmount difficult obstacles. But let me say once more, we are creating new churches in centres of large population where they will become self-supporting and permanent. Brethren, the fields are white unto the harvest. Let us pray the Lord of the harvest that he will send laborers into the vineyard, and let us be of their number.

The president's address should not always have new things in it. There should be old familiar paragraphs that give a touch of home to each annual address. Two years ago and last year I begged you to take back to the churches your endorsement of a plan to increase all our activities by five per cent. When I spoke of it last year I detected signs of friendly amusement. Yet again I urge this plan for a five per cent increase. I give friendly warning that as long as I have the privilege of standing here I shall continue to urge it. Teaching must be "line upon line; here a little and there a little." The plan is humble but practical. If we could increase all our activities and our membership by five per cent every year, then in seventeen years we should double our strength. I beg you to ponder this recommendation.

Now I turn to international matters. Today marks more than the Tercentenary; it marks the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the International Congress. In this room, thirty years ago this morning, the International Congress of Religious Liberals was organized. You recall that that was the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Association and there were delegates here from many countries. The Congress was then known as the International Council. Ten years later, at Berlin, the name was changed from Council to Congress. In all, nine meetings have been held: in London, 1901; Amsterdam, 1903; Geneva, 1903; Boston, 1907; Berlin, 1910; Paris, 1913; Boston again in 1920, Leyden, 1922, and Prague, 1927.

This summer we take part in forwarding this enterprise. What are we trying to forward? We must reorganize the Congress so as to make it more truly representative, so that it shall serve the several liberal fellowships throughout the world just as this Association serves the American churches.

Forgive me if again I repeat in part what I said last year, but for reasons that you will understand in a moment I want to get the picture clearly before you—exactly what we are trying to do.

Grant, then, that it is good for every person here in Tremont Temple to belong to his own church. Next, grant that it is good for our local churches, wherever they may be, to belong to this national group; in this way we accomplish more than we could accomplish alone.

Now carry the thought one step further. It is good for our American Association of churches to belong to the International Association so that each great liberal group can become more effective than it ever could be alone.

Now note again the sense of expansion but togetherness: we liberals everywhere, all together. Why, if we could realize that, we would be one of the most potent influences on earth. Whether we can realize it immediately or not, let us feel our hearts go out to the vision of the federated liberalism of the world.

So in July there will meet in Holland five representatives from our American groups—the number five was decreed by our foreign friends and we have fallen in with it—five from the British group, five from the two million united liberals of Holland, five each from the groups in France, Germany, Hungary and Roumania, and perhaps a few from other associated groups. We rejoice that the Universalist churches are also to send delegates, as they have done in the past.

These delegates will meet at the Retreat House of our Dutch friends in Arnhem, Holland, and will there consider plans for making the Congress more effective, looking to a meeting of the Congress itself in the summer of 1931.

With this background of thirty years of work and achievement, interrupted by the war but continuing again after it, and with this purpose before you, I have an important announcement to make. Our beloved leader, Dr. Charles W. Wendte, has given his life and his thought to this International work. For many years you recall he was the secretary of the Congress. He is now eighty-six years of age, frail in health but as indomitable as ever in spirit, and he announces through me his own and Mrs. Wendte's intention to endow the International Congress.

It is essential at this time that we, in conjunction with our colleagues of other groups, reorganize this work under the good wishes and the advices of Dr. Wendte.

Let me touch next on one or two matters connected with our voyaging.

This summer we are asking Dr. Patterson to go as a delegate officially to Iceland. He alone can reap the whole benefit of such a trip, for each year he visits our Icelandic churches in the Canadian Northwest. His going will strengthen his influence in Iceland, give him an opportunity to confer with the leaders of liberalism there, and he will be almost an Icelander when he comes back from Iceland and visits our Icelandic churches, and so the journey will give him increased influence among our Icelandic friends on this continent. His going is most important.

It seems somewhat important that I should attend the meeting in Holland, and as it costs no more to go across the ocean by way of Iceland, and also because as a humble individual I wish to be present when the millennium comes, I am also going to Iceland.

Just a word more on international matters. This afternoon we receive greetings from representatives of a few of the groups of religious liberals in various parts of the world and immediately we are to hear from the commissioners recently returned from the visit to the Independent Church of the Philippine Islands. How the world grows smaller, how distances vanish! Far away is now next door. We welcome every opportunity for closer religious fellowship with our brethren just a little yonder.

And now, friends, I come to my last topic, ministerial pensions. I must ask you to consider the retiring allowances or service pensions of our ministers. I have for a long time urged every Conference and every church to make contributions. Every church, in my judgment, should give ten or twenty or a hundred dollars a year for this cause, and for two reasons. The gifts would increase the amount of the pension money, and further, the constant reminder in our churches would slowly increase the endowment. This recommendation is wholly my own. The Unitarian Service Pension Society is entirely independent of the Association. I have asked no one's permission to bring this matter up. I feel, as the Friends say, "a concern laid upon me," and with all my heart I am going to try to lay that concern upon this annual meeting.

What are the facts about our ministers' salaries? Well, at the most we pay our ministers only enough to live upon in modest comfort. Rare indeed is the parish that pays enough so that a minister can save. The salaries paid are often disproportionate to the responsibilities involved. I maintain that every Unitarian minister should have a right to retire at sixty-five if he so wishes, with a modest but adequate compensation.

Last year our ministers over sixty-five years of age who had served our parishes for twenty years or more each received $725. This amount ought to be $1,000. I wish it could be $1,500. The retiring pension of every minister who has served our churches at least twenty years ought to approximate a modest salary. There is borne in upon me in my journeyings the extreme spartan-like simplicity and often grinding frugality which many of our ablest men bear without complaint when their working days are ended.

What has happened this past year? In addition to bequests of $6,000, the Unitarian Service Pension Society received gifts from ten ministers, from 28 laymen, from 92 churches, and—this last is a splendid record—from 182 Alliances, a total of $13,000, which, my friends, is $1,000 less than was received the year before.

The reason for this drop of $1,000 is no doubt the extraordinary amount of money raised by our whole body. We are not ashamed of the whole record. But I beg of you, feel a concern for these service pensions and let those individuals who have not given contribute, and let those organizations of churches which have not given contribute, and then this whole matter will take care of itself.

Toward what goal does all this lead? Look at it in a broad way for just a moment. Time out of mind the great historic Christian churches have said to young men, "Give us your lives; we will give you a living—not much more—and then we will see you through."

Up to twenty years ago we had never paid any attention to this matter at all—perhaps because of our extreme independence. Now we have been working together and we have done much. But we ought to keep on doing it. Forty years ago a fine group of young men entered our ministry and they have given themselves to our churches. Today, in retirement, they are receiving each a pension of $725 a year, which with many of them constitutes the larger part of their livelihood. Today forty-nine splendid, able young men twenty-five years of age in our schools are about to enter the ministry. They have the best profession in the world before them, a satisfying service, a great quest and a great challenge. We rejoice that they are going to pour their lives into our churches. With all our hearts we welcome them. Shall we not say to them:

"True, you will never receive much more than a comfortable living wage; we will do what we can to make the wage better; but we feel a concern that forty years hence, when you have served our churches faithfully and have reached the age of sixty-five, you shall not come to want. We will see you through."

PUBLICATION DEPARTMENT

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the last year we have printed 301,000 tracts in the several series, which is 27,000 more than last year. The following tracts, two more than last year, have been added to the permanent lists:—

"What Do Unitarians Believe," by Rev. Charles G. Girelius.

"Are We Losing God?" by Rev. Palfrey Perkins.

"Paul, the Radical," by Ulysses G. B. Pierce, D.D.

"The Challenge to Youth of a Modern Religion," by Minot Simons, D.D.

"Unitarianism—A Faith of Affirmations," by Frederick R. Griffin, D.D.

"Was Paul a Trinitarian?" by Augustus P. Reccord, D.D.

"The Impact of Science upon Religion," by Kirtley F. Mather, Professor of Geology, Harvard University.

We also printed an edition of 10,000 copies of Channing's Baltimore sermon, "Unitarian Christianity," in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the birth of William Ellery Channing.

We have published four new books, one more than last year, as follows,—

"Plays and Pageants for the Church School," edited by Marie W. Johnson.

"Responsive Readings."

"The Will to Fellowship," by Joseph Fort Newton.

"Modern Religion from Puritan Origins," by Henry Hallam Saunderson, D.D.

We have also printed the following miscellaneous pamphlets:—

"The Worth of the Ministry."

"Present Prospects for Larger International Co-operation," by Louis C. Cornish, D.D.

"Report on Conditions in the Southern Textile Industry," by Robert C. Dexter, Ph.D.

The total number of volumes sold of our general publications during the past year, including the Hymn Book, The Beacon Hymnal, the books in The Beacon Course and our general list, has been 32,518. In 1920, ten years ago, the total sales in the Publication Department and The Beacon Press were 29,924, so this is an increase of 2,594. The value of sales from books and merchandise has been $40,496.04 in comparison with $41,720.25 in 1929. The number of charge sales was 3,644.

The total receipts from all sources including check exchange have been $60,348.18, the expenditures $52,073.31. Receipts including $16,107.88 check exchange were $68,460.86 and expenditures were $66,189.44 in 1929. The merchandise receipts were $24,914.07 and expenditures $14,862.67 in 1930. Although we are very liberal in granting credit, our total loss from bad debts was only $71.05.

Seven copies of Channing's "Discourses and Essays" have been sent free to settled ministers of various denominations, and outfits of books, including sets of The Beacon Course, have been sent to a limited number of libraries.

The cost of printing 3,000 copies of the Year Book was $1,464.53 compared with $1,629.07 in 1928-29, and printing 5,500 copies of the Annual Report $1,237.81 as against $1,342.31 in 1928-29 for 6,000 copies.

Subscriptions to The Christian Register have been supplied, as in previous years, to reading rooms in all parts of the country.

Eighty manuscripts have been submitted to the Department for possible publication as books or tracts. This is about twice the number submitted in 1919-20. The Publication Director has carefully read each one and submitted all that seemed to have any possibilities to the other members of the Publication Committee.

We have printed 216,250 miscellaneous sheets, 41,100 sheets of books and charge material, 262,500 copies of The Beacon, and 792 copies of Word and Work, a total of 520,642 sheets, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have issued during the year 1,250 Religious Education catalogues, 1,000 Beacon Course catalogues (Unitarian), 3,000 Beacon Course catalogues (non-Unitarian), and 5,000 tract catalogues, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have mailed over 34,500 circulars announcing our books, and we have inserted 550 inches of advertising matter in prominent newspapers and periodicals, including The Christian Register. The direct mailing campaign is less than last year, and the newspaper advertising is 25% larger.

We have had a sales agent, in addition to the Treasurer, visit the bookstores in Boston and vicinity with our publications, two representatives covering New York, New Jersey, and Philadelphia; we have continued our depository at the Meadville Theological School in Chicago, and our representative calls on the bookstores in Chicago and vicinity. Negotiations are still pending to have a representative cover San Francisco and surrounding towns, in addition to our depository at Berkeley, California. There is still a large territory uncovered, but this is a beginning.

During the year we have also made quite a few improvements in the appearance of the book room, at very moderate cost. We have also instituted a system of budgetry control, which should be increasingly effective from year to year.

The total number of shipments made through the Shipping Department, including the free and charge material, was 10,371 in 1929-30, compared with 10,559 in 1928-29.

During the year we have averaged 7,500 printed copies of The Beacon each week. This is slightly less than last year. The expense of publication and mailing has been $4,651.76 and the receipts, including a $1,250.00 subsidy from the Association, $4,768.94.

The Wayside Pulpit continues to grow in strength and appeal, due in part no doubt to the active interest of the Wayside Pulpit committee.

W. Forbes Robertson.

CHURCH EXTENSION

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE main objective to which the Department of Church Extension has addressed itself this year has been to make real the earnest hope expressed by the President of the Association in his address to the Annual Meeting in 1929 that new Unitarian churches be started in carefully selected large centers of population. It seemed wise and possible to try this year to start five such new churches. A careful survey was made of the population of our larger cities, the rate of growth during the last five years, together with any other information which might be of assistance in deciding what cities to select. In one or two of our large cities attempts have been made in years past to start churches and a partial organization had been effected. For different reasons the work had not succeeded and little was left of the former attempt. These cities, however, seemed to furnish a real opportunity for a Unitarian church and in spite of the fact that they were not entirely new attempts work has been undertaken. The first of these is Houston, Texas. No service has been held there for several years. There was, however, a nucleus of people who still retained their interest and their belief that eventually a Unitarian church could be established. We succeeded in enlisting the interest of Rev. Thomas H. Saunders, D.D., formerly minister of the federated Unitarian-Universalist church in Utica, New York, in the Houston enterprise. Mrs. Saunders shared the enthusiasm of her husband in regard to the possibilities at Houston. The way was prepared by letters sent from headquarters in Boston to the names and addresses of former Unitarians in Houston and Dr. and Mrs. Saunders reached there the first of October and immediately began to make contacts. By the end of the month the ground had been prepared and plans made for the beginning of church services. These have continued without interruption during the year. There is a good prospect that within a reasonable time Houston will have an independent self-supporting church. Sixty-two people have actually signed the roll of membership and the minister has a list of some 250 people who are known to be interested.

Another of these new ventures was that at Roanoke, Va. Some two years ago, Rev Frank W. Pratt of Richmond held a series of Bible lectures at Roanoke under the auspices of the Laymen's League which attracted much attention. This seemed to promise that a church could be started in Roanoke. During 1928-29 Rev. John C. Petrie, then minister of our church at Lynchburg, went to Roanoke to see what could be done toward interesting people in the establishment of a Unitarian church. Here, too, there had been a small Unitarian movement which lapsed during the period of the war. Mr. Petrie gathered a group of people small in number but deeply interested and, upon his departure to take up his new pastorate at Memphis, we commissioned Rev. Robert C. Douthit to undertake the work at Lynchburg and, as a part of his duties, this missionary field at Roanoke. During the past year Mr. Douthit has been to Roanoke to hold services each Sunday evening. A mission under Dr. Westwood was arranged for and was held during the winter. Both through the ministry of Mr. Douthit and through the mission a strong attempt was made to gather together people of sufficient interest and number to achieve our object of making a real start toward the founding of a church. While some progress has been made, it has not been quite what we hoped for. Perhaps we hoped for too much. Just what will be done at Roanoke next winter has not yet been decided.

Two of our new movements in their inception are cooperative enterprises undertaken with the generous and efficient help of the Laymen's League. At Norfolk, Va., under the joint auspices of the League and the Association, Rev. Frank W. Pratt, D.D., delivered a course of five lectures on the Bible, which has been followed by regular Sunday preaching services. Rev. Samuel G. Dunham, Rev. Harry Lutz and Rev. Arthur H. Winn have assisted in this work. Almost fifty names have been secured of those who are ready to join the church organization which is about to be formed. It is expected that a settled minister will be in residence in September.

At Flint, Mich., Rev. Horace Westwood, D.D., has conducted a mission, again under the auspices of both the League and the Association, and since that time regular services have been conducted by Rev. John H. Applebee, D.D., and Rev. Carlyle Summerbell, D.D. The church has already organized with a constitution and officers and has affiliated with the American Unitarian Association. It is an eager, enthusiastic group which has long been hungry for our kind of church. The movement, though very youthful at present, gives exceptional promise of success.

Partial surveys in regard to the fifth church have been made but the results of these surveys are not yet definite enough to determine the selection of the place where the fifth new church shall be started.

In addition to these new churches which we are establishing, we have set up six preaching stations at Wilmington and Asheville, N.C., at Columbia, S.C., and at Macon, Augusta and Savannah, Ga. Our purpose in this new venture is in part to secure the information necessary for the starting of a new church and in part to mould opinion in important communities not now touched by our preaching. Two lectures have been given in each of these cities by Rev. Miles Hanson of Boston and almost a hundred names of men and women vitally interested in Unitarianism have been secured. It has proved to be a very successful experiment. It is possible that in two of these communities an effort will be made during the coming year to start new churches and to the other communities occasional speakers will be sent as opportunity presents itself.

By no means the least interesting part of the work of the Department during the year has been the aid which it has been able to give to several churches in the way of definite suggestions for carrying on their work. The Harvard Street Church, Cambridge, for instance, found itself, owing to removals of its members from the neighborhood of the church and to the deaths which inevitably occur, in a rather discouraged frame of mind, so far as its outlook was concerned. Its finances were at low ebb. We were able to develop a plan and furnish some of the means by which that plan was carried out, as a result of which the courage of the congregation has been restored and the vision of its mission enlarged. The plan consisted briefly in letters sent by the minister of the church to some 3700 names of residents in the neighborhood of the church. This was followed by personal visits by a man of long experience in church work. A part of the plan was a series of five Sunday evening services in which was enlisted the cooperation of the churches of the neighborhood, their choirs, together with a series of sermons conducted by Rev. Carlyle Summerbell, D.D. The net result has been a quickening of the life of the parish, addition of new members, the raising of more funds for the budget of the church and in every way strengthening the work of the Harvard Street Church. It is interesting to note that the publicity given to this plan has attracted much attention to it and the minister of the church, Mr. Nicholson, was invited by the Boston Federation of Churches to explain its details at a public meeting recently held in Boston. Others of our churches, hearing of this work, have consulted with the officers of the Association and plans are being made by which during the coming winter this or other similar plans may be suggested and carried out. The officers of the Association have deeply at heart this matter of extending our Unitarian influence by the actual founding of new churches and the strengthening of some of our older churches, and place themselves and their experience, whatever inventive power they have, at the disposal of all who desire it, to the end that the number of our churches may be increased and our whole influence more widely extended.

During the past year sixty-nine churches have been aided by the appropriation and distribution of approximately $70,000. These figures do not include grants from the income of the Sustentation Fund amounting to $19,580.00 to the ministers of seventy-two churches. In addition to this, the Association has aided a number of churches through its Building Loan Fund and other funds, in repairs and alterations to church property to the extent of about $60,000.

Extensive improvements have been made in the church buildings or grounds at Ann Arbor, Mich.; Beverly, Mass.; Arlington Street Church, Boston; Brooklyn, Conn.; Parish house of the First Parish in Dedham; Dighton, Mass.; Dunkirk, N. Y.; Lowell, Mass.; North Andover, Mass.; Lincoln, Neb.; San Diego, Calif.; Scituate, Mass.; Sharon, Mass; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Greenfield, Mass.; First Parish in Hingham; Indianapolis, Ind.; Northampton, Mass.; Pomona, Calif.; and Westboro, Mass.

New churches have been built or are in process of construction at Riverton, Man.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Santa Barbara, Calif.; Santa Monica, Calif., and First Church in Chicago. Weston, Mass., has built a new memorial chapel and Wellesley Hills, Mass., a new parish house.

Settlements have been effected at Alton, Ill.; Amherst, Mass.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Barre, Mass.; Bedford, Mass.; Billerica, Mass.; Blaine, Wash.; Bloomington, Ill.; Second Church in Boston; Channing Church, Dorchester; Third Religious Society, Dorchester; Brockton, Mass.; Erie, Pa.; Evanston, Ill.; Ellsworth, Maine; Flushing, N. Y.; Germantown, Pa.; Hackensack, N. J.; Houston, Texas; Iowa City, Iowa; Jamestown, N.Y.; Lancaster, Pa.; Lawrence, Mass.; Lincoln, Mass.; Lynchburg, Va.; Memphis, Tenn.; Needham, Mass.; Norton, Mass.; Westside Church, New York City; Omaha, Neb.; Pittsburgh (Allegheny), Pa.; Pomona, Calif.; Pasadena, Calif.; Quincy, Ill.; Quincy, Mass.; Roanoke, Va.; Salem, Ore.; Stoneham, Mass.; Stow, Mass.; Shelbyville, Ill.; Sherborn, Mass.; Underwood, Minn.; Wayland, Mass.; Waverley, Mass.; Westford, Mass.; Wichita, Kans.; Winchendon, Mass.; Warwick, Mass.; Winthrop, Mass.; Whitman, Mass.; Wilton Centre, N. H.; English Speaking Church, Winnipeg, Man.; and Woburn, Mass.

During the year Dr. Patterson has had fifty-three preaching engagements in twelve states and Canada. He has officiated at three services of ordination, two installation-ordination services, and four services of installation. He has attended seven conferences in six different states; has made twelve addresses before various auxiliary organizations and has attended one service of dedication. Seven long journeys have been undertaken which have approximately covered 20,000 miles. Aside from this, there have been many short trips over the weekends.

Besides his office as Administrative Vice-President of the American Unitarian Association, Dr. Blake is also (without additional salary) secretary of Unitarian Headquarters for the Pacific Coast and of the Pacific Coast Conference, and Field Secretary for the Women's Alliance, the Laymen's League and the Y. P. R. U. Much of his time is given to conferences with the various representatives of the churches and their auxiliary societies. These vary from private meetings with ministers to conferences with building committees of new churches as at Blaine, Wash., and Santa Monica, Calif., and program committees of League branches. He accompanied Dr. Cornish on most of his trip of over two months to the Pacific Coast. During the winter, with Dr. Eugene R. Shippen he made a trip of over fifteen thousand miles to the Philippine Islands and made addresses at points as widely separated as Framingham, Mass., and Manila, P. I. His Easter Sunday sermon was preached on board the S. S. President Grant at sea between Shanghai, China, and Kobe, Japan. He made formal addresses before five Alliance branches, two League chapters, nine Y. P. R. U. groups, including the Big Pines Camp in Southern California, and preached eighteen sermons.

Since the first of the year Mr. Joy has preached fourteen times and in addition has conducted a preaching mission in Framingham. He has given seven addresses to various church organizations, attended three conferences as a speaker, has delivered one installation sermon and participated in the exercises at the dedication of a parish house. In addition to a number of short trips he has taken four long trips covering about eight thousand miles.

Dr. Hunt has made visits to sixty-five churches in various parts of the country. He has also made two long trips to Oklahoma, one to Texas, one to Tennessee and one to Virginia.

WALTER R. HUNT.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

I have the honor to submit this annual report for 1929-1930 and my observations as Secretary of the Department of Religious Education. Technically, I make my report to yourself as President of the Association. Actually and in spirit, I address these words to all the people of the Fellowship.

Field Work

Our year's review begins with the Tenth Annual Institute for Religious Education held at Star Island, July 13-20, 1929. It was the most notable faculty in our history, headed by Dr. Douglas Thom, Professor Henry N. Wieman, Professor Ambrose W. Vernon and Professor Kirsopp Lake, and supplemented by able authorities on the technical matters of religious education. Especial tribute must be paid the ambassador from the Universalist Fellowship, Reverend Laura B. Galer. Her three lectures were among the most effective ever given at the Institutes. Our family totaled 214 delegates and speakers. Nearly fifty spent the week-end with us.

The worship and the teaching of church after church in our Fellowship have been recreated, deepened, modernized by the sending of delegates to these Institutes. Mr. Fairley and I wish that all our people could sense our gratitude for the financial contribution of the Unitarian Laymen's League, which makes so high a standard of program possible. We record here our indebtedness to the laymen of our churches whose generosity has enabled the League to assume the preponderant share in these Institutes. And we suggest that many an inadequate church school would be on its way to better things if more of our ministers pledged themselves to accompany at least one delegate a year to this work of education and inspiration.

During his first year of full time with the Department Mr. Fairley has conferred with or preached to forty different parishes, from Northern Maine south through the Middle Atlantic States and well into the Middle West. He has visited and advised with the Rowe Camp Conference (our powerhouse in the Berkshires), the Connecticut Valley Conference, the Hancock County Federation of Churches, the Mohawk Valley Conference, the Channing Conference, the Metropolitan Conference of New York City, the Bronx Free Fellowship and other organizations too numerous to mention.

Mr. Sharp delivered a series of six lectures on "The Educational Function of the Church" at the Universalist Summer Institute in Galesburg, Illinois, June 16-21, and addressed young people's conferences at Hanska, Minnesota; Humbolt, Iowa; and Vermillion, Ohio. During the winter he has met principally New England engagements and has served on the board of The Tuckerman School, The Norfolk House Center, The Lend A Hand Society, the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, and as Secretary of the New England Regional Committee of The Religious Education Association.

Again we record our friendship for The Religious Education Association and our pleasure in its local and national work. Mr. Fairley is serving as Chairman of the New York Chapter. Both of us attended the National Convention in Cleveland, April 23-25, 1930, which addressed itself to a study of "Current Social Changes and Their Implication for Religion, Ethics and Education." Here is the most vital religious forum in the world—a common meeting place for religionists of every persuasion. We warmly urge all our ministers and laymen who are genuinely interested in religion to acquaint themselves with and contribute to the R. E. A. Every other religious body in the world is exclusive of some one on some grounds. But the spirit of the R. E. A. constitutes an actuality for which men long have prayed; it is that of our own Clay MacCauley in establishing his Japanese mission: "We come here not to convert, but to confer."

The Office

There has been the usual resort to New York and Boston Headquarters for advice in person and by correspondence and for the use of slides and costumes for pageants. Not since undertaking the work of this Department have I seen such evidence of information about new books and fresh procedures, such interest and resourcefulness, as workers revealed last Fall in discussing their plans for the season. This is highly encouraging.

The Committee on a Primary Hymnal, Reverend Edwin Fairley, Chairman, Reverend Grace R. Mayer-Oakes, Reverend Harvey Loy and Miss D. Louise Henderson, has submitted its manuscript. These brief words can do no justice to the great amount of time and effort which has entered into this work and the labor of love of Mr. Fairley's colleagues.

"Plays and Pageants for the Church School," a book of fifteen popular and effective religious dramas edited by Marie W. Johnson, has been published. This is not only a respectable representative of our Fellowship but greatly relieves the office of carrying the mimeographed manuscripts.

Miss Helen J. Destemps has served as Chairman of the Committee on Slides which has made a thorough survey of our stock and a study of what additions and revisions are desired by our schools.

The Committee on Religious Drama, Reverend Chester A. Drummond, Chairman, has had regular meetings throughout the year. All manuscripts of religious drama submitted to the Department or to The Beacon Press pass first through the appropriate sub-committee of this larger Committee and then are voted on by the larger body. Thus a repertoire of high standard religious drama is being collected for publication or for recommendation to the churches. Now the problem is: How shall this Committee go beyond criticism to the more serious task of the creation of new forms?

Two new bulletins have been published, "The Fourth R" by Reverend Augustus P. Reccord, D.D., and "Business Men and The Boys of The Church" by George G. Bradford. I consider the latter the most important idea of the last ten years in religious education. Since the advent of higher criticism and the passage of the traditional "Men's Bible Class," the educational man-power of our liberal churches has been going over the dam instead of into the penstock. Mr. Bradford calls for a thorough reconstruction of our idea of the layman's place in the teaching of our churches.

Miss Gertrude Taft, for nine years director of religious education at the First Unitarian Church in Cleveland, Ohio, has been elected Associate Secretary of the Department. She enjoys the confidence of all who have worked with her. Her experience and training will increase the effective reach of the Department.

In cooperation with the Unitarian Laymen's League, this Department has instituted at 16 Beacon Street a loan and circulating library of 800 modern books on religion, education, philosophy, psychology and allied subjects for the use of all the people of our churches. We have done this because we believe that the greatest need of our teachers is constant reading and study. Too many teachers of religion are going around in circles from year to year, using the same old ideas, and textbooks, and practices. Religious education is work only for the unfinished, the eager, the teachable—and those who, above all things, often go out to meet themselves in solitude.

Also I have initiated The Reporter, an occasional paper to be published by this Department and broadcast to all our ministers, superintendents, and interested teachers. The first issue of 850 copies has been quickly exhausted. That we have long needed such an house organ and exchange is proved by the numerous favorable comments on this first issue of April, 1930, and contributions from the churches for succeeding numbers. This project—in which Miss Taft will help greatly—is also dedicated to introducing our workers to new ideas, new books, new procedures in religious education.

Your secretaries urge upon the whole Fellowship a redefinition of the term "religious education." It is our conviction that in its greatest and widest sense—and none other is good enough for us—religious education is the sole and supreme function of our churches. What adult who reads these words can point to a perfected religious life or an uncompromised ethical code in himself or in his neighbor? We must learn to see ourselves as forever:

"standing in the need of prayer"

all along the line of life—and not our children so needy as ourselves.

Mr. Fairley and I are heartily glad to be in at the death of the terms, "Sunday School" and "Sunday School work." We hope that neither of these survives except as they must in the titles of antique corporations and of obsolete "lesson helps." And we hope that never again will a competent church architect build a "Sunday School room." These four terms carry a load of wrong connotations and archaic ideas over from the Nineteenth Century. Let us break with them.

But we must reinterpret our new terms, "church schools" and "religious education," for the Twentieth, most challenging and most confusing of centuries. We must conceive of education as occurring in the shared life of the whole community and of education for religion as arising out of the shared life of prayer, and philosophy and moral pioneering. Can less than these conceptions justify the presumption of a church to teach a child?

WAITSTILL H. SHARP.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL RELATIONS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

GROWTH and integration are the two words which best describe the developments in the Department of Social Relations for the past year.

Growth is evident on every hand. More and more churches and ministers are applying to the Department for advice and suggestions. More and more church organizations of one kind or another are asking for the Secretary of the Department to present specific social-religious problems for their discussion; an increasing number of national and international agencies are coming to depend on the Department to represent the Unitarian Fellowship in social endeavors; and in order to meet these varied demands the Department has had increasingly to develop the possibilities of research, and has hence been able to serve not only our own Fellowship but the wider community in a more efficient manner.

It is somewhat more difficult to describe the phenomenon of increasing integration, but it is there. In the beginning the Department was necessarily more or less a new and a separate activity but as time has gone on it has become much more closely tied up with the general functions of the Association. The Association exists for two purposes: first, to strengthen our liberal message, which means the strengthening of existing churches, and second, to develop new centers of liberal religion. As the existing churches have come to rely on the Department of Social Relations, it has become one of the sources from which they derive help and receive cross-fertilization from the activities of other churches. In regard to the second function of the Association, the founding of new churches, the Department has been able in some limited manner this year to help in the development of the Southern field. This came primarily as a by-product of the investigation of the textile industry which was undertaken this winter, but it will, it is hoped, be of real value in spreading the liberal gospel in this hitherto sparsely covered section of the country. In addition to these somewhat definite contributions, the contacts which the Secretary of the Department has been able to make in the field, and the increasing cooperation with other officers and Departments of the American Unitarian Association have helped to build up a solidarity so that there is a common effort and a common aim.

Growth is shown in the fact that during the past year the Secretary of the Department has been able to make one hundred twenty-nine different addresses, as compared with eighty-nine the previous year and eighty-seven two years ago. In the three years that the Department has been in existence, the Secretary has visited one hundred twelve of our churches located in twenty-seven states and in the District of Columbia. Practically all of these visits have been on request of the minister or some church organization. There is no longer so much need of explaining the reason for the existence of the Department, and more and more it can devote itself to its primary function of focusing the social interests of the Unitarian churches so that they may most effectively contribute to all cooperative efforts for social welfare and international goodwill.

In this brief report one can only list the more significant features of the year's work. The day by day contact personally and by letter with our widely scattered churches must pass unnoticed. Immediately following the May Meetings last year the Secretary was asked to give a series of addresses at four of our Western College Young People's Conferences. These were well attended and seemed to be appreciated. During the summer the Secretary attended the Williamstown Institute of Politics. During the winter months the Secretary was continuously in the field, three months being spent in the South and Middle West. Altogether he has traveled some six thousand miles. On the southern and western trip a special attempt was made to visit all of our college centers, and some institutions where we are not represented. In each case an opportunity was given for meeting the students and faculty, either in assembly or in smaller groups.

In addition to this field and general educational work the Department has had under way during the year several special projects. In the first place, with the cooperation of the Ministerial Union, the Department has secured several hundred case histories of the relation of Unitarian ministers to family and sex problems. These case histories are to be analyzed, and we hope will be of value. One thing that they have proven beyond any doubt is that the minister and the church are still called on to deal with complex and delicate family situations. A second and most important project which is still under way is the investigation of the human aspects of the textile situation. This was undertaken last autumn following the General Conference in Chicago, and the first part of the report dealing with the southern textile situation is now in your hands. The Department is at present engaged in a similar investigation of the New England textile situation. There is little question that the textile industry will present during many years a very important economic problem which affects the welfare of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children, and that as a body we should have available as much accurate information as possible. In the field of international goodwill there have been important developments during the year. The Department has cooperated with our special committee of the Board on the Kellogg Pact and has made available to our ministers and in turn secured the cooperation of our churches in supporting the London Naval Conference. In addition, plans are already laid for cooperation in the efforts to secure American adhesion to the World Court. In many respects this work for peace is the most important activity which the Department has undertaken.

In addition to our own study of the family, the Secretary of the Department has been asked to review the data which the Federal Council of Churches is securing from the evangelical churches of their activities in family relationships and to present a report on this and our own study at the National Conference of Social Work to be held in Boston in June. He has also been asked to act as consultant for the National Conference on church and family relationships.

Again the Department wishes to express its appreciation of the cooperation which is received from the President and the officers of the Association, the Social Service Committee of the Women's Alliance, the Laymen's League and the Y.P.R.U.

A new departure this year has been the undertaking of a general course in sociology for the students at the Tuckerman School. This course has been given by Mrs. Dexter and me jointly.

The above is a mere catalogue of ships. The true poetry of the adventure is known only to those of us who have the intimate day by day contacts.

Robert C. Dexter.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RECRUITING THE MINISTRY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the past year, thirty-nine Unitarian students for the ministry have been enrolled in various theological schools. Eighteen men now in college are thinking seriously of the ministry as a life work, while four who are in a preparatory school and three who are now in business, are giving the ministry serious consideration. Doubtless, there are other "prospects" who are not yet known to this Committee.

The Recruiting Committee has sent a letter signed by four prominent Unitarian laymen, to about seven hundred Unitarian college students, and several replies have been received. This letter called attention to the ministry as worthy of serious consideration when choosing one's life work.

Prizes have been offered to Unitarian young men for essays on the subject: "Does Our Country Need Ministers?" It is hoped that interest in the ministry will be quickened by this competition. The essay on the ministry that was awarded first prize in the competition of last year has been printed for free distribution. It was written by Rev. Charles J. Staples of Northboro, Massachusetts.

The Unitarian students for the ministry in Greater Boston have been entertained by the Recruiting Committee. Rev. George H. Reed of Winchester gave an address on his experience in the ministry.

The Recruiting Committee is grateful to the General Alliance for the $500 which for several years past it has raised to aid students for our Unitarian ministry.

The Committee also wishes to express its thanks to the increasing number of our ministers who are cooperating to help increase both the number and quality of the young men entering our ministry. Several of our ministers have been able to send young men from their churches and Sunday Schools to prepare for the ministry, and here is an example that might well be multiplied many times for the strengthening of our Unitarian ministry. What greater satisfaction could there be for a minister than to raise up one or more young men to carry on his work after him?

FRED R. LEWIS.

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

A REVIEW of the work in the Department of Publicity for the past year shows that its established activities have been continued and extended, so that a large volume of material has gone out from this office. While it is impossible to check up absolutely upon the amount which has appeared in print, a large proportion of it was used. For the benefit of those who attended the May Anniversaries, the department made a limited exhibit of the year's publicity on the fifth floor of the Unitarian Building at 25 Beacon Street.

The enlarged program of church extension carried out by the American Unitarian Association in the past church year has necessitated a considerable amount of cooperation from the department of publicity. Advertising material, posters, circular letters, press notices and sermon abstracts have been sent systematically into fields where the Association has been assisting in organizing new churches or revitalizing old ones. Specific instances of this cooperation include the movements in Flint, Michigan; Norfolk, Virginia; and in other points of the Southern Atlantic district, and the Harvard Street Church in Cambridge, Massachusetts, in which the Association has taken a leading part.

Unusually large quantities of Star Island Conference material was placed in 1929 in the Transcript, Globe and Herald in Boston, New Hampshire papers, The Christian Register and other religious periodicals, and in newspapers at a greater distance. Gift copies of the Boston Transcript were sent during the conference season to a mailing list of ministers remote from the Shoals. The publicity for the General Conference at Chicago was taken care of by this department at its Boston office and in Chicago during the meetings. Local ministers or newspapers, or both, were provided with pictures, press notices, and abstracts of addresses when possible in connection with the long three months' journeys taken by Dr. Louis C. Cornish and Dr. Robert C. Dexter last winter. Similar publicity went in advance of other speakers who filled briefer speaking engagements. Through the newspaper publication of Unitarian sermons and addresses delivered here and there by visiting ministers, it has been possible to penetrate into some of the more conservative sections of the South and West with liberal religious views.

The Department's file of photographs and biographical sketches of ministers and other denominational leaders and of church pictures has grown more complete and has made it possible to comply with most of the numerous requests which have come for such material. These requests have been from individual churches and heads of state, district and other conferences, especially in New England and the Middle West, from the offices of newspapers, of religious and other journals, of universities and occasional places in foreign countries.

Almost without exception the press has been generous in devoting space to sermons and addresses unmistakably Unitarian in their tenor, even in sections which are well known for their religious orthodoxy.

Jessie E. Donahue.

REFERENCE LIBRARY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE Reference Library after having been closed from the early part of June until the last of September opened on a part-time schedule September 30th, the plan being to keep the Library open all day Monday and Friday afternoons.

The immediate work to be done was to sort, weed out and file a box 15x20x10 inches of miscellaneous pamphlets, current pamphlets which had accumulated during the time the Library was closed, and a large number sent up from the Circulating Library. The work of filing large numbers of sermons in pamphlet form is retarded due to the fact that as yet there is no alphabetized list and the sermon folders themselves must be consulted in order to weed out duplicate copies.

Miscellaneous pamphlets relating to denominational activities, having outgrown the capacity of the letter files in which they were placed, have been arranged alphabetically and chronologically and placed in new box filing cases.

A modern steel file has been added to the Library equipment for the filing of pictures of Unitarian churches and ministers for permanent preservation. All pictures of churches have been classified and arranged alphabetically by name of location. Those too large for the file have been numbered and placed in order in a closet with cross reference cards in the filing case. This greatly facilitates the work of the Library, as many calls come for these pictures and the picture of any church may now be found at a moment's notice. Over one hundred pictures have been mounted on cardboard mounts. Two hundred and twelve churches are now represented in our picture collection. The pictures of ministers are still to be done.

The green catalogue containing the names of all Unitarian ministers in the Fellowship has been brought up to date.

The Library has received as gifts nearly two hundred books and many sermon pamphlets. Two Libraries of special significance to Unitarians have recently been broken up: that of Mrs. John A. Jeffries of Milton, granddaughter of William Ellery Channing, who inherited Dr. Channing's Library, and that of the late Dr. L. R. Stone of Newton. The Librarian has had the opportunity to choose many books and pamphlets of very special significance to the Reference Library from these Libraries; in the former instance through the generosity of Mrs. Jeffries and with the assistance of Dr. Henry Wilder Foote; in the latter through the generosity of Mrs. Charles Batchelder, daughter of Dr. Stone, and with the assistance of Mr. Julius Lucht, Librarian of the Newton Public Library. The greater number from the Channing Library bear Dr. Channing's own signature.

Books presented to the Library which have been found to be duplicates have been placed, with the consent of the donors, on the ministers' shelves in the Reception Room.

The Library has had 110 patrons since October 1st. The tendency has been toward increased patronage, due probably to two reasons: first, patrons are becoming used to the days the Library is open; second, a growing interest in the Tercentenary has directed the attention of people to the treasures to be found in historical archives.

HELEN P. PATTERSON.

REPORT OF THE FELLOWSHIP COMMITTEE

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the year the Committee has held four meetings, three in Boston and one in Chicago at the time of the General Conference.

Thirty-two Preliminary Certificates have been issued. These represent seven denominations, one Disciples of Christ, one Lutheran, five Congregational, two Baptist, two Episcopal, twelve Universalist and nine Unitarian. Of these, twelve will appear in the affiliated list; that is, those who for fraternal reasons have joined our fellowship but hold pastorates in denominations other than Unitarian. Of the thirty-two granted Preliminary Certificates, fifteen have been settled over Unitarian churches.

Twenty-three Final Certificates have been issued, six of which went to ministers who are retaining their old affiliation, five Universalist and one Congregational, and whose names will appear on the affiliated list. Of the twenty-three who were granted Final Certificates, seventeen are settled over Unitarian churches or Federated churches.

During the year nine names were dropped from the roster.

The Preliminary Certificates this year show a gain of two over those granted last year, while the Finals this year show nine less than were granted last year.

As in years past the first consideration has been given to the men coming out of our Divinity Schools, and of these practically all have been settled before or very soon after graduation.

Much care has been taken to guard the Fellowship against those who seek it merely as a platform for the propagation of their personal opinions, peculiarities and prejudices. The Committee is convinced that it takes more than dissatisfaction with orthodoxy to make an effective Unitarian minister. At the same time, it is not to be forgotten that some of our best men have come from other denominations and we realize that there are those who seek the larger liberty of our pulpits, fully realizing that it lays upon them a greater responsibility and demands higher and more complete consecration to the ideals of truth, righteousness, love and service.

MEMORIAL CHAPEL, FIRST PARISH, WESTON, MASS.

The work of the year shows that an increasing number of parishes have availed themselves of the information gathered by the Committee.

Your Committee would reiterate its conviction that in high-minded, self-forgetting and wisely directed leadership lies the beginning of the solution of most parish problems. To this end, all helpful cooperation will be most welcome.

George F. Patterson.

REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS

OUR deep interest in the churches of Transylvania, Roumania, has continued, and our churches this year have again given to the maintenance of Transylvanian schools and colleges and churches. We are encouraged to believe that the condition of the religious minorities is somewhat improved, but great suffering continues, both because of economic conditions and misgovernment. Our churches are glad to remember their brothers as bound with them in conditions hard to describe briefly, but cruelly real. These Unitarian friends in distant Transylvania are singularly like ourselves in their love of independence and freedom and a great free faith. Our churches have continued to do well in helping carry these heavy burdens.

Our friendly intercourse with the churches in Great Britain, which happily has continued for the 105 years of our existence, has been deepened this year by increasing cooperation. Efforts were made to secure a visit from the Secretary of the General Assembly, Rev. Mortimer Rowe, but he was unable to accept our invitation. It is hoped that he will visit us in the near future.

We have sustained the work at the Mission House in Budapest, which has grown very largely in the past two years.

Our church in Prague has also grown vigorously during the past year. It is interesting to note that Dr. Capek's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Haspl, are taking their degrees at the Berkeley Divinity School this year and returning to Prague to assist in the work.

A notable event in our denominational life was the welcome visit of Rev. Dr. Professor G. J. Heering and Mrs.

Heering in the autumn and early winter. The Meadville Theological School, Crane Theological School of Tufts College, and the Association combined in inviting Dr. Heering to visit this country. He lectured in both schools and spoke in a number of our churches. Not only were Dr. and Mrs. Heering cordially welcomed personally, but Dr. Heering was also welcomed as the chief officer of the Remonstrant Churches in Holland, which are in effect Unitarian churches and have a history in many ways singularly like both the British and American Unitarian churches. In Holland four groups of liberal churches are joined together in a liberal association called the Centrale Commissie Voor Het Vrijzinnig Protestantisme, which numbers two million constituents. We believe Dr. Heering's coming to have been the first official visitation of a representative of this body to our churches. We hope it may be the beginning of frequent visits.

For several years we have had occasional communications from our friends in the Independent Church of the Philippine Islands. As Dr. Sullivan has said, it is the only movement in the Protestant world which has in one brief period seceded from the Roman Catholic Church and arrived at the Unitarian position. In Mr. Forbes' recent History of the Philippine Islands he credits the church two million members. Dr. Sunderland visited these churches in 1913, and Dr. Lathrop and Dr. Reese visited them in 1929 on their way to India. This year the Association delegated the Rev. Eugene R. Shippen, D.D., a Director of the Association, and the Rev. Berkeley B. Blake, J. D., an Administrative Vice-President, to visit the Philippines and express our cordial interest and good wishes.

Much time has been devoted this year to plans for making the International Congress more effective. The Association has appointed five delegates to sit with five delegates from several other national groups of liberal people at an executive committee meeting of the Congress to be held at Arnhem in Holland in July. The delegates appointed are Dr. Auer, Dr. Savage, Dr. Pierce, together with the President and Mr. Henry H. Fuller, the legal adviser of the Association. It is the earnest hope of our delegates that a Congress of free churches can be set up which will be to the several national groups of liberals what the American Unitarian Association is to the scattered churches of our fellowship on this continent. We dream of making this International Congress a continuing organization for the planning and sustaining of liberal movements throughout the world.

Louis C. Cornish.

DEPARTMENT OF COMITY AND FELLOWSHIP

UNDER this title are gathered various efforts to assist in the cooperative religious work going on all about us. We make a modest appropriation to the Massachusetts Federation of Churches. Perhaps this is not strictly logical, as we are a national and not a state organization. Yet we happen to be the only Unitarian body comprising all the Unitarian churches in the Commonwealth, and it has been decided for some years that we ought not to withhold assistance.

We give each year to the National Federation of Religious Liberals. We have given for the churches in the World Peace Foundation. We have sent delegates to several meetings. These and other similar activities, some of them perhaps small and all of them costing little, are when taken together important as showing our friendliness and goodwill. They represent a very considerable amount of work in conference.

Louis C. Cornish.

SUSTENTATION FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

IN submitting my annual report as secretary of the Sustentation Fund, which during the past year has aided seventy-one ministers with inadequate salaries to the extent of $19,603.87, I should be glad to quote at length extracts from many of the recipients expressing their appreciation. Space forbids, but here are a few fair samples:

"I do not see how it would have been possible for me to educate my children and meet my living expenses without the aid received from the Sustentation Fund."

"Without the grant from the Sustentation Fund we could not remain on the job."

"It has made all the difference between financial worry and financial stability—I should say that from the point of the minister of the small church the foundation of the Sustentation Fund was the most encouraging act of recent years."

"Although I wrote you some three years ago expressing my heartfelt appreciation of the benefits derived from the Sustentation Fund, I feel impelled to write you once more to tell you that the contributions from this Fund have been a God-send to me. The Sustentation Fund has enabled me to remain long enough in my present parish to bring about much needed improvements and to have erected a Parish Hall which serves the youth of the community—I have derived from the Fund many personal benefits: books which otherwise I would have been unable to purchase, a vacation study course which without this aid I could not have attended, and contribute more generously to the support of my aged father . . . should I attempt to enumerate all the help I have gained from this fund, I would have to write a much longer letter. However, I want the Committee to know that the contributions from the Sustentation Fund have been vital to my welfare and still are—and that I deeply and sincerely appreciate them. May God bless those who have made this Fund possible through their contributions and their wise administration of it."

James C. Duncan.

FUNDS FOR SPECIAL AID

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE capital of the Ministerial Aid Fund has not changed this year and stands at $161,405.34. In addition to this the Association holds four other funds aggregating $16,420, the income of which is available for the purposes of ministerial aid. From these incomes grants have been made during the year to one hundred and three ministers to the amount of $11,302.72. This aid is given when evidence is confidentially laid before the Committee that these friends, by reason of illness or sickness of members of their household or some pressing financial emergency, are in need of sympathy and immediate help.

The income of the Chandler Robbins Fund, with a principal of $12,970, has been a help to five persons, who were eligible under the terms of the trust.

The Association further acts as trustee of the Endowment Fund of the Unitarian Service Pension Society which is called the Unitarian Service Pension Society Permanent Fund and which was increased during the year by $16,376.04. The following bequests were received: from Miss Nancy J. Bullard of Middleboro, Mass., $2,000.00; Lucius K. Sprague of Brookline, Mass., $1,000.00; Miss Annie E. Howard of Brookline, Mass., $2,876.04; Miss Annie H. Brown of Stoneham, Mass., $10,000.00; Miss Emma L. Sallaway of Dorchester, Mass., $500.00. The capital of this fund is now $507,449.10.

The income of this fund, together with the incomes of the Aaron Bancroft, the Mary A. Butler, the Louis B. Carr, the Jed Frye, the Davis Reed, the Caroline Southwell Root, the Clara M. Rotch, the Emily E. Sheppard, the Esther M. Whitney, and the Joshua Young, D.D., funds, with an aggregate principal of $43,533.50 is available to be applied to pensions.

The Association acts also as agent for the transmission of the contributions made to the Society and the pensions have been distributed under the instructions of the Directors of the Society to the qualified beneficiaries to the amount of $50,387.50. The Association has faithfully discharged these duties.

During the year the Association has distributed $11,212.13 from the income of the Cruft Memorial Fund to seventy-five beneficiaries. It will be remembered that this fund with a principal of $170,493.08 was established under the will of Miss Harriet Otis Cruft and in accordance with her wishes the income is distributed to women of American birth and Protestant religion of good character over sixty years of age who from illness or misfortune are in great need.

HENRY H. FULLER.

THE BUILDING LOAN FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

CHURCHES and societies planning to erect new buildings, to enlarge or improve their present facilities turn to this fund. On approval of applications by the Administrative Council and the Building Loan Committee the loans are made without interest and repaid in annual installments.

The capital of the fund amounts to $368,399.75, having been increased during the year by the amount of $725.09.

Nine societies have completed payments of their loans. Eight new loans to the amount of $36,800.00 have been made to the churches in Blaine, Wash., Manchester, N. H., New Orleans, La., Ridgewood, N. J., Santa Monica, Calif., Seattle, Wash., Stowe, Vt., St. Petersburg, Fla.

The balance on hand, $14,812.02, has been promised on applications for loans which have been approved by the Building Loan Committee. There are now loans outstanding to seventy-four churches.

The total amount loaned since the foundation of this fund and the Church Building Loan Fund of 1884 has been $1,222,999.76. There have been during this time 345 separate loans.

UNITARIAN BUILDINGS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

AS custodian of the Unitarian Buildings I am pleased to render my report for the year ending April 30, 1930.

The Annex which is the building at 16 Beacon Street and which was left to the Association in 1920 by Mrs. Martha B. Angell continues to be used as the headquarters of the Unitarian Laymen's League, Benevolent Fraternity of Churches, Unitarian Foundation, and the Ministers' Hostel. Also space has been provided this year for the staff of the Maintenance Fund.

The Unitarian Building at 25 Beacon Street houses not only the Association with its various departments but also The Beacon Press, General Alliance, Young People's Religious Union, The Christian Register, and the Religious Arts Guild. No major repairs have been necessary during the year and the expenses as shown in the Treasurer's Report have been less than those of the past two years.

The Ministers' Hostel has been very much in demand as usual and the rooms have provided 1,013 nights lodging to seventy-seven different individuals. The length of visits by any one person is limited to two weeks, but sometimes by special arrangement this has been extended.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock with Devotional Service by Rev. Raymond B. Bragg.

The President then introduced Rev. E. Subbukrishnaiya of Bangalore, India; Rev. H. Lismer Short of Great Britain; and Rev. Geza Lorinczi of Transylvania, who brought greetings from the religious liberals of their respective countries.

Reports from the field were given by Rev. Thomas H. Saunders, D.D., who has charge of our church at Houston, Texas, and by Rev. Howard B. Bard, D.D., of San Diego, Calif.

Dr. A. Warren Stearns, State Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Correction, delivered an address on the subject, "What Are We To Do About Crime?"

The report of the Findings Committee was then in order and the following resolutions were finally passed by the Meeting:

(1) Resolved: That the delegates to the American Unitarian Association in Annual Meeting assembled would express their sympathy with the efforts of the China Child Welfare Association, Inc., and the Chinese leaders associated with this committee, to encourage and help organize child welfare centers of education, training and relief in Shanghai, Nanking and one or two other large cities, a program of modest proportions but full of hope and promise for the future.

(2) Resolved: That the President be authorized to send greetings to Czechoslovakia, Transylvania, England, Holland, India, and the new churches recently established.

(3) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association, in Annual Meeting assembled, sends cordial greetings and fraternal good wishes to the Philippine Independent Church through its honored head, Monsignor Gregorio Aglipay, Obispo Maximo, realizing that the principles of a free and national faith, acknowledged by both groups, constitute an enduring bond between them. Moreover, the Association desires to express its warm appreciation of the courtesies and hospitality extended to its representatives, Rev. Drs. Shippen and Blake, by the dignitaries of the Philippine Independent Church. May the spirit of fellowship thus manifested lead to closer relations between Philippine and American liberals enlisted in the common cause of religious liberty and universal brotherhood.

(4) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association commend the work of Tuckerman School and invite our churches to consider the advantages of trained parish workers.

(5) Resolved: That the President of the American Unitarian Association is hereby authorized to appoint the Committee on Findings for the next Annual Meeting at least one month in advance of such meeting, to the end that resolutions intended for the action of the delegates may be submitted to him for reference to the members of the Committee prior to the Annual Meeting, thus giving opportunity for consideration of resolutions on the part of the Committee.

It is understood that this does not in any way bind delegates to send in proposed resolutions in advance.

(6) Whereas: It is becoming increasingly clear that, in the interest of social betterment, racial progress and a more wholesome family life, parenthood should be undertaken with due regard for the mother's health and the children's welfare, both physical and moral, be it therefore, recommends to its constituent churches and members an earnest consideration of the fundamental social, economic and eugenic importance of birth control to the end that they may support all reasonable efforts in their communities for the promotion of the birth control movement.

Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association

(7) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association sends cordial fraternal greetings to the Massachusetts Universalist Convention in session at Lowell, and expresses gratification in the increasing measure of fellowship and co-operation between Universalists and Unitarians, anticipating the coming of a United Liberal Church.

(8) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association, assembled in Boston for its One Hundred and Fifth Annual Meeting, sends affectionate greeting to the Universalist General Convention, so closely united with it in loyalty to the high principles of liberal religion. We rejoice with you in the completion and dedication of the National Universalist Memorial Church in Washington, and we see in this happy fulfillment of a long-cherished dream an augury of the day when our common faith shall be honored and cherished throughout the land.

The meeting closed with a hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," followed by a prayer by Dr. Cornish.

Adjournment.

Secretary.

MINUTES OF THE THIRD BIENNIAL CONFERENCE held in Chicago, Ill., October 15-17, 1930

THIRD BIENNIAL CONFERENCE

Chicago, Ill., October 15-17, 1929.

All the conference sessions were held at the Drake Hotel except the Wednesday evening session, which took place at the People's Church. On Thursday afternoon following the conference, the delegates attended the breaking of ground for the new Library and Administration Building of the Meadville Theological School, the laying of the cornerstone of the First Unitarian Church and the Induction of Rev. Sydney B. Snow, D.D., as President of the School.

The opening session of the conference was held in the Ballroom of the Drake Hotel at 3.30 P. M. Tuesday, October 15th, President Louis C. Cornish in the chair. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. H. Lismer Short. Hon. Morton D. Hull of Chicago delivered an address of welcome and was followed by Judge Roger S. Galer of Mt. Pleasant, Ia., who brought the fraternal greetings of the Unitarians of the Central West. The following committees were appointed:

Committee on Resolutions

Mr. Emmet L. Richardson, Milwaukee, Wis.
Mrs. Thomas G. Rees, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Rev. Clifton M. Gray, Topeka, Kansas.
Mr. Charles H. Strong, New York City.
Rev. Frederick M. Eliot, St. Paul, Minn.

Credentials Committee

Rev. Curtis W. Reese, D.D., Chicago, Ill.
Rev. John Malick, Cincinnati, O.
Mr. W. Forbes Robertson, Boston, Mass.

Nominating Committee

Rev. Dilworth Lupton, Cleveland, O.
Miss Louise Brown, Boston, Mass.
Mr. Percy W. Gardner, Providence, R. I.

Rev. Curtis W. Reese, D.D., chairman of the General Conference Committee, delivered the Biennial Message on the subject, "The State of Our Organized Church Life and the Outlook for Our Cause." Dr. Reese's thesis was that we Unitarians can best serve mankind in two ways: first by attending religiously to our major concerns; and secondly, by concentrating our energies and resources on a specialized type of missionary activity. The major concerns which Dr. Reese outlined are two: first, spiritual liberty; second, social progress. Our missionary endeavors Dr. Reese would forward by a wider use of the printed page, the spoken word and by the establishment of churches in strategic centers.

The Second Session on Tuesday evening was devoted to two addresses on the general topic, "The Need for a Reinterpretation of Religion in Terms of Modern Life." The first address on Industrial Affairs was by Dr. James Mullenbach, who took the place of Sidney Hillman, General Secretary of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. Mr. Mullenbach interpreted for the conference the springs of action which animate the workers of the world. "The workers as well as the people of the church want," said the speaker, "something that appeals to their human spirit; the aspiration of the human mind, the enlargement of our vision, the pushing back of our horizon. That is what the workers want." The second address by Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, editor of The Christian Register, stressed the need for more attention and deeper interest in matters of theology.

The session on Wednesday morning was presided over by Dr. James A. Tufts of Exeter, N. H., Regional Vice-President of the American Unitarian Association. Reports were made of the group conferences which had been held previous to this meeting, one on Character Education in the Church School by Joseph M. Artman, General Secretary of the Religious Education Association; second, Personal Adjustments by Rev. George R. Dodson, D.D., St. Louis; third, Parish Organization by Rev. Dilworth Lupton of Cleveland, O.

The Fourth Session on Wednesday evening was held in People's Church. Dr. Anna Garlin Spencer interpreted for the conference the social situation especially as regards the family and the place of the church in relation thereto. The second address was by Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison on world affairs. Dr. Morrison expressed the opinion that for all the grounds which we have for dismay and pessimism, we have also very good grounds, substantial and new, for optimism, for hope and for confidence. "The peace movement," said Dr. Morrison, "is growing just as fast as it healthily can." He spoke of the visit of Mr. MacDonald, Prime Minister of England, of his conference with President Hoover and of the results which he hoped would follow.

The session on Thursday morning was devoted to group conferences: one, the Church School and Curriculum, led by Professor Charles H. Lyttle; second, Social Adjustments, led by Dr. John H. Lathrop; third, Reaching the Public, by Dr. Preston Bradley.

The fifth session was devoted to reports by the leaders of the discussion groups, giving their findings and recommendations, which brought forth much discussion. At the close of the fifth session, the conference adjourned to attend the important ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the First Unitarian Church and the Induction of Dr. Snow, with an Induction Address by Dr. Charles E. Park of Boston.

The following resolutions were passed by the conference:

(1) WHEREAS, The Unitarian Churches of Great Britain and America share a common faith and purpose, speaking one spiritual language; and

WHEREAS, The influence of such free churchmen as Dr. Martineau and Dr. Carpenter has notably helped to shape the thinking and to inspire the lives of American Unitarians; and

WHEREAS, Personal contacts and friendships have strengthened the common bonds,—be it

RESOLVED: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, assembled in Chicago, October 15-17, 1929, gladly welcomes the British delegate to its meetings and extends to the British General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches its most cordial greetings, with the hope that the affiliation between the kindred groups may be confirmed in every generation, with the assurance of American willingness to cooperate with British associates in every possible way and with a declaration of unwavering confidence in the ultimate triumph of the rational and progressive principles professed by the free churches.

(2) RESOLVED: That the hearty congratulations of the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, assembled in Chicago, October 17, 1929, be sent to the Brahmo Somaj in India, on the completion of the first hundred years of their history. We are proud of the record they have made. We rejoice in the work they have done for pure religion, for the destruction of superstition and caste, and for the elevation of the depressed classes. We of the Occident are indebted to the seers and saints of India for wisdom and inspiration, and hope to discover new and more effective means of cooperating with them for the promotion of our common ends.

The Unitarians of the United States and Canada, assembled in General Conference in Chicago, October 15, 16 and 17, 1929, send to the bishop, clergy and members of the Filipino Independent Church their most cordial and fraternal greetings. We rejoice in the achievement by this church of religious liberty and its efforts to reinterpret religion in terms of modern thought. We recognize in the aims and spirit of the church kinship with our own, and look forward to such interchange of information and sympathy as may strengthen us both in the fulfillment of our common task.

(3) Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, assembled in Chicago, October 15, 16 and 17, 1929, convey to the President of the United States its congratulations upon the steps which he has taken looking toward an International Conference on the Reduction of Armament, and pledge to him its support for such action as he may deem necessary to accomplish the results for which the Conference is to be called.

(4) Whereas, The protocol for the adherence of the United States to the Permanent Court of International Justice protects in all respects the interest of the United States, and

Whereas, The signing of the Kellogg Peace Pact for the Renunciation of War makes it vitally important that the United States be officially connected with the Permanent Court of International Justice,—

Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association assembled at Chicago October 17, 1929, urgently requests the Senate of the United States to take such steps as may be necessary to bring about the adhesion of the United States to this international tribunal, and that copies of this resolution be sent to every member of the Senate at the time that the protocol is before the Senate for consideration, and that Senator Gillett be asked to see that this resolution be read into the Senate Record.

(5) Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, assembled at Chicago, October 17, 1929, does hereby render and record its gratitude to the Right Honorable James Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, for his service in the cause of international friendship and peace.

(6) Resolved: That the Secretary be and is hereby instructed to transmit to Mr. MacDonald this resolution and to Miss Ishbel MacDonald a copy thereof.

(7) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association, assembled in General Conference at Chicago, Ill., October 15, 16 and 17, send to our Universalist comrades gathered in General Convention at Washington, D. C., its cordial greeting. We bid you Godspeed as you together with us seek the larger truth and the clearer light, and we pledge to you our cooperation in that divine quest.

(8) Further Resolved: That Dr. U. G. B. Pierce, minister of All Souls' Church, Washington, D. C., be requested to convey this message of greeting and goodwill to the Universalist General Convention.

(9) Whereas, The attention of the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association has been called to the plans of the Unitarian Laymen's League and the Young People's Religious Union to raise in the coming year a joint fund for maintenance and development purposes; and

Whereas, It is the sense of this Conference that the vigorous growth of these two bodies and the extension of their activities are essential to the present and future welfare of the Unitarian Churches in the United States and Canada,—be it therefore

Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association assembled at Chicago hereby heartily endorses the joint plan of the League and the Union, commends to the individual churches of the denomination the plan to strengthen these two essential activities of our church, and expresses the hope that, at the proper time, the churches will lend their active support to this vitally important movement.

(10) Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association heartily endorses the plan of the General Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women to obtain a modest endowment of one hundred thousand dollars for the continuance and extension of its effective work, and wishes the Alliance the fullest realization of its hopes.

(11) Whereas, At the Conference at Washington in 1927 the preparation of new Service of Worship Materials was declared to be one of the immediate and important needs of the denomination, be it hereby

Resolved: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association calls to the attention of the Directors of the American Unitarian Association and of the Commission on Service of Worship the increasing urgency of this need, and asks that as prompt publication of such material be effected as is consistent with careful and satisfactory workmanship.

(12) Resolved: That the American Unitarian Association be urged to prepare and publish material concerning modern systems of raising money, budgeting and accounting, membership campaigns, church school management, and other features of church management, including the preparation and distribution of forms to be used in connection therewith, to the end that the business conduct of our churches may be more uniform and more efficient; and

FURTHER RESOLVED: That our Theological Schools be urged to give adequate place and emphasis in their curricula to instruction in the conservation and apportionment of a minister's time, and in the business management of churches.

(13) RESOLVED: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, assembled in Chicago, October 17, 1929, recommends to the General Committee of the next Conference that a place on its program be given to a discussion of the moral aspects of secular education with which many among us conceive our aims and ideals to be closely related.

(14) RESOLVED: That the Third Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association hereby expresses its appreciation of the inspiring addresses of the speakers who have made the sessions of the Conference interesting and valuable because of their contributions to our spiritual life; and

FURTHER RESOLVED: That the Conference express its thanks to the members of the General Conference Committee for their successful efforts in providing a stimulating program and perfecting the arrangements for the Conference meetings; and

FURTHER RESOLVED: That the thanks of the Conference be expressed to the Unitarians and the Unitarian churches of Chicago for their courtesy and hospitality; and FURTHER RESOLVED: That the management of the Drake Hotel be thanked for the many comforts and conveniences placed at the disposal of the Conference.

Secretary.

FUNDS INVESTED IN CHURCH PROPERTIES

The Association has interests in a number of church properties which have from time to time been conveyed to it. In a few cases the title is unconditioned; in most cases the property is held by deed or mortgage upon conditions which give the use of the property to the society as long as it maintains religious services and remains in the Unitarian fellowship.

When any part of the money needed to accomplish this object has passed through the treasury of the Association, it appears on the books as a non-income bearing investment. The amount so invested is, in most cases, but a part of the value of the property.

When the interest of the Association does not represent any monetary investment on the part of the Association, it is carried on the books as an investment of $1.00 for each item.

Minutes of the One Hundred and Sixth Annual Meeting 67

Henry H. Fuller

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT

I PRESENT the President's Report to the One Hundred Sixth Annual Meeting of the Association. It is mainly for your hearing and partly for record. As a preface, let me repeat briefly what has been said before. We deal with things new and old, enterprises which begin and end, and also with enterprises which continue on through the decades. It is good sometimes just to repeat.

So I hold before the churches the alluring certainties of the benefits which come by slow, steady growth year after year, organization by organization, the gaining annually of at least five percent in personnel and in resources. It is my privilege to refer to this simple plan at each annual meeting again and yet again. It has been endorsed by this Association. It is in operation successfully in many of the churches. It is worthy always of your reconsideration.

Next, I refer to a hope postponed about church extension. Last year we announced our plan to found five new churches. To-day we wanted to tell you that these five churches had been founded. But much has happened since last May. In the autumn we were obliged to postpone starting this work. Mr. Joy will speak upon the whole matter. I will present only one aspect of it. Imagine then that a chart hangs before you, dividing all our churches into three columns. In the first column stand the newly organized churches; in the second column the aided churches; in the third column the self-supporting churches. Those in the middle or aided column must move over each year into the last, or self-supporting churches, in order to make way for the new churches in the first column to move into the aided column. It takes a new church a decade or longer to attain self-support. So new churches tend to tarry in the middle column. Only as the aided churches become self-supporting can the Association undertake new churches, because the number we can assist is of course limited by the sum of money we can spend. Imagine these three columns, the new, the aided, and the self-supporting churches, and understand that an essential part of our plan for new churches last year was to graduate a group of aided churches into self-support. But in this past year the aided churches simply could not raise more money, and so it came about inevitably that we could not assist more churches. Therefore we simply could not start new churches. The reason for these difficulties is obvious. Utter confusion reigns in our industries, the like of which the country has never known. Aided churches this past year could not become self-supporting churches. Nor is this all of our financial story. Self-supporting churches, through no fault of their own, have been forced to ask for help. We simply have not dared to commit you to increased expenses. We have done all we could to carry on, but we simply dared not increase the number of new churches. Mr. Joy will explain these matters more fully. I beg you to understand that there has been no change of heart among the officers of the Association regarding starting churches. We have simply had to face the exigencies of these times.

Much has been said about the general financial situation, yet one or two further comments should be made in this meeting. The entire country is going through a period of financial depression and readjustment. We are, of course, part and parcel of American life, and we must bear our share of difficulty. But we have very much to be thankful for. Our churches year before last gave $53,000. This year they have given us $50,315.31. It is a heartening record in this time of anxiety and uncertainty. In short, our church ship has been sailing over cross-currents, meeting head winds and storms, and I have the honor to report that the ship is in good condition and the crew cheerful. We have indeed much to be thankful for.

What the financial outcome is to be from this period of depression no one seems able to foretell. Some of our prophets say the good old days will never return and some that they will. Well, just for the moment suppose that things do not swing back to normal. Other nations have lived on a high spiritual level with far less income and with fewer mechanical contrivances. We need to remind ourselves that spiritual life depends neither upon mechanical contrivances nor on affluence. It is time we thought more about the riches of our inheritance, and the wealth of the spirit, and plain living and high thinking. Evidences are not lacking that just this is happening. The present time is by no means all shadow. Many bright lights shine in the darkness. Unemployment and the terrible anxiety which haunt many lives to-day are terrible evils. May we banish them from all the world. Meanwhile, it remains true that the things seen are transitory, and it ever remains profoundly true that the unseen things are eternal.

It is always heartening to turn from our own immediate affairs to the affairs of our great international fellowship of liberal churches. I present to you the greetings sent by letter and cablegram from the churches in Hungary and in Transylvania. Five other groups send us visitors to-day whom we joyously welcome. I would call your attention to the united strength of these liberal churches. All of them have survived difficulties such as we never dreamed of and certainly never endured. Their churches have come through bitter trial the stronger for the test. We will confess no discouragement. Their strength and courage and hope quicken us. Our friends in Holland have an ancient motto "Right dur Zie", "Right through the sea". Let this be our motto. In all the perplexity of this mechanistic age, in all the perplexity of the present hour, we will steer our course, right onward through the sea.

I turn now to a last suggestion. What do we regard as the hall mark of religious liberalism? Practicality, yes; intellectual clarity and rationality, yes; and also certain sane mysticism. We do not forget either practicality or rationality in our gatherings. But perhaps sometimes we forget the mystical, the experiential side of our religion. In our denominational life there has always been a deep strong undercurrent of mystical appreciation or apprehension. Witness our hymns. The depths of the spiritual life are found in definitions measurably, but they are forever exceeded by our individual experiences. We Unitarians dare to believe more and hope more than we can either prove or define. And herein is our strength. With this statement in mind I would call your attention to the marked tendency within our fellowship toward the holding of Retreats. Let us briefly examine this habit.

Thirty-five years ago summer meetings were established at Star Island. It has been called our Isle of Iona. The name is itself an indication of the purposes which people follow in going there. For thirty-five years Star Island has been a blessed religious retreat. We rejoice on the thirty-fifth anniversary. Next, I mention Fisherman's Island, at Boothbay Harbor in Maine, the home of the Rev. and Mrs. John Henry Wilson. Spring and autumn the stone mansion shelters Retreats. Two already have been held.

Next should be mentioned the estate given us by the Whitney family and located at Stow, Massachusetts. Two years ago announcement was made of this gift together with a large bequest. You have not heard much about our Stow estate recently because it has been in litigation. This is now fortunately settled and without loss to the Association. During the summer the Stow property will be improved and in another year we trust that it will be ready for our use. It is too early to go into detail as to the special uses to which it may be put.

I mention last the Retreat House now nearing completion but not yet complete, at Senexet, near Pomfret, Connecticut. It stands among primeval pine trees, on an estate of forty acres, which borders on a beautiful lake. The interesting old mansion contains some thirty rooms, and by no means the least interesting feature is a lovely little chapel. This Senexet Retreat is destined to render high service to our whole fellowship. By an unfortunate error, our program states that it is ready for occupancy. Before it can be opened a little more money must be raised. The whole undertaking is no less than a miracle of generosity and devotion and foresight.

Rev. Von Ogden Vogt, minister of the beautiful new First Church in Chicago, which is said to be the finest example of Gothic architecture on this continent, had carved across the door at the front entrance the words: "Up from the world of the many to the overworld of the one". On leaving, you read another inscription "Back to the world of the many to fulfil the life of the one". What we are all trying to do is to go back into the world of the many reconsecrated to the fulfilment of our continuing task, "to fulfil the life of the one".

Louis C. Cornish.

PUBLICATION DEPARTMENT

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the last year we have printed 203,000 tracts in the several series, which is less than last year. The following tracts, have been added to the permanent lists:—

"The Importance of Spiritual Integrity," by Charles E. Park, D.D.

"A New Attitude Toward Jesus," by Addison Moore, D.D.

"Selections from The Wayside Pulpit." (Flier No. 10.)

We have published, or taken over from other houses, eight new books, four more than last year, as follows:—

"Selected Readings in Character Training," by Dennis C. Troth.

"Transfiguration of Life by a Modernist Faith," by Charles W. Wendte, D.D.

"Ninety Years at the Isles of Shoals," by Oscar Laighton.

"Samuel McChord Crothers, Interpreter of Life," by Frederick M. Eliot.

"Meadville Theological School Catalogue."

"Liberty and Religion," by Sydney H. Mellone.

"Divine Element in Art and Literature," by William L. Schroeder.

"Christianity and the Religious Drama," by R. H. U. Bloor.

"A Christmas Tableau," and "An Easter Tableau."

"Memorial Bells."

"How to get the Most out of the Coming Year."

"Urge of the Human Spirit" and "As A Man Thinketh," by John A. Cousens, President of Tufts College.

"List."

The total number of volumes sold of our general publications during the past year, including the Hymn Book, The Beacon Hymnal, the books in The Beacon Course and our general list, has been 30,531. In 1921, ten years ago, the total sales in the Publication Department and The Beacon Press were 24,028, so this is an increase of 6,503. The value of sales from books and merchandise has been $36,021.89 in comparison with $40,496.04 in 1930. The number of charge sales was 7,403.

Our book display at the Shoals, during the summer of 1930, was unusually successful, due to the enthusiasm and ability of Mr. Wallace Gray, who will represent us there again this summer.

The total receipts from all sources including check exchange have been $54,132.55, the expenditures $53,023.70. Receipts including $6,700.57 check exchange were $60,348.18 and expenditures were $52,073.31 in 1930. The merchandise receipts were $19,061.85 and expenditures $13,017.49 in 1931. Although we are very liberal in granting credit, our total loss from bad debts was only $83.89.

The cost of printing 3,000 copies of the Year Book was $1,780.45 compared with $1,464.53 in 1929-30, and printing 5,500 copies of the Annual Report $1,609.12 as against $1,237.81 in 1929-30.

Subscriptions to The Christian Register have been supplied, as in previous years, to reading rooms in all parts of the country.

Eighty-six manuscripts have been submitted to the Department for possible publication as books or tracts. This is about twice the number submitted in 1920-21. The Publication Director has carefully read each one and submitted all that seemed to have any possibilities to other members of the Publication Committee.

We have printed 183,595 miscellaneous sheets, 39,500 sheets of books and charge material, 252,000 copies of The Beacon, a total of 475,095 sheets, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have issued during the year 2,000 Religious Education catalogues, 1,500 Beacon Course catalogues, (Unitarian), 3,000 Beacon Course catalogues (Non-Unitarian), 5,000 Tract catalogues, and 5,000 List of Books catalogues, practically all of which have been distributed.

One of the most gratifying bits of publicity, was the selection by the New York World of two of our books as among the season's outstanding publications.

We have mailed over 38,270 circulars announcing our books, and we have inserted 471½ inches of advertising matter in prominent newspapers and periodicals, including The Christian Register. The direct mailing campaign is more than last year, and the newspaper advertising is less.

We have had a sales agent, in addition to the Treasurer, visit the bookstores in Boston and vicinity with our publications, two representatives covering New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia; we have continued our depository at the Meadville Theological School in Chicago, and our representative calls on the bookstores in Chicago and vicinity. In co-operation with the Association Press and the Woman's Press, we have had the services of Mr. W. H. Davies, who travels the Atlantic seaboard and the Middle West, bringing our new publications to the attention of booksellers.

We also assigned Mr. Gray to interview ministers of other denominations, in the vicinity of Boston, in the promotion of The Beacon Course and the Wayside Pulpit, but the results so far at least, were not very satisfactory. This leaves a large territory uncovered, but this is a start.

The total number of shipments made through the Shipping Department, including the free and charge material, was 8,959 in 1930-31, compared with 10,371 in 1929-30.

During the year we have averaged 7,250 printed copies of The Beacon each week. This is slightly less than last year. The expense of publication and mailing has been $3,402.37 and the receipts, including a subsidy from the Association, $3,402.37.

The appeal of The Beacon for the children has been materially strengthened by the contributions of Rev. George L. Thompson, who has served without salary, as Contributing Editor.

The Wayside Pulpit continues to grow in strength and appeal.

W. Forbes Robertson.

CHURCH EXTENSION

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE Unitarian faith is dear to me because I was born into it and educated in it. To propagate that faith is to my thinking a holy thing, a sacred duty." These words of Charles W. Eliot may well head the report of the work of church extension. To give to others what we have found helpful and indispensible in our own lives is not only a sacred duty but a deep satisfaction.

If one wonders what the compensations are for this expenditure of money, time and thought, he would be reassured could he hear testimony like this: "Friends, it is so glorious to be able to be free to search for the truth and to be in a fellowship that encourages free and full expression of the truth. The truly great things are the principles of freedom, justice and fellowship, for which this church stands. Let us in the year before us live them as never before." The church which nourishes the soul, which gives expression to these words, is only a little more than one year old.

We need to remind ourselves that the propagation of this faith finds a fertile field not in other states and in foreign countries alone. The opportunity is very near to every Unitarian church, to every liberal home.

When new churches are organized in cities which up to this time have not had them, the people must be organized, buildings erected and pioneer work done. In the cities where these facilities already exist, it ought to be possible to propagate our faith even more quickly and with greater results. It would strengthen the work of the liberal church tremendously if every one of our churches would appoint an active church extension committee to do "its sacred duty" in the city where it is situated.

The work of the Department of Church Extension has undergone serious modifications in the course of the past year. We began with the purpose of organizing if possible the five new churches which have been our accepted yearly goal since the President's Annual Address in 1925. Meetings were begun in Asheville, N. C., again with the generous cooperation of the League. A mission was held there under the capable leadership of Horace Westwood, who was assisted by Rev. Owen W. Eames of Springfield. Before and after the mission other ministers helped to strengthen the movement: Rev. Skillman E. Myers, Rev. Earl C. Davis, Rev. George A. Mark, Rev. A. R. Shelander. Suddenly in the midst of our endeavors, one of the worst financial catastrophes in the history of the nation came to the city. Most of the banks in Asheville and vicinity failed, leaving the city and Buncombe County literally bankrupt. We carried on for a while longer but the people, many of whom were ruined, had no mind for the work and it seemed wise to suspend our efforts for the time being. Meanwhile, Dr. Westwood had conducted another institute of liberal religion in Savannah, Ga., with the able help of Rev. N. Addison Baker of Richmond. By this time the widespread depression was beginning to cause us great concern for the state of our churches. It became evident that larger resources would have to be placed at the disposal of our existing churches in order to save some of them from complete disaster. After careful consideration, the Board of Directors upon the recommendation of the Administrative Council, voted to suspend all effort to establish new churches until the present crisis had passed. Accordingly we made no effort to settle a minister at Savannah and rested content in the organization of a lay group known as the Unitarian Association of Savannah, which has been carrying on regular meetings under its own direction ever since. In addition to these two efforts, the Department has sent out three preachers to carry our message into new territory during the past year. The Rev. Herbert Hitchen, of West Newton, Mass., lectured and broadcast in Evansville, Terre Haute, South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind., and in Lima and Canton, Ohio. The result was the discovery of the splendid opportunity for a new church at South Bend and the organization of the First Unitarian Society of Fort Wayne, a lay group carried on vigorously and successfully under the devoted guidance of a young man, Theodore Hugé.

Rev. N. Addison Baker lectured and broadcast in Macon and Augusta, Ga., in Columbia, S. C., and in Charlotte and Winston-Salem, N. C., with excellent results in the organization of small lay centers.

Rev. Joseph P. MacCarthy did a similar piece of work in Raleigh and Wilmington, N. C., in West Palm Beach, Miami and Lakeland, Fla. Out of his work have grown other lay groups and the organization of the First Unitarian Society of Miami, which has held preaching services through March. It is hoped that these meetings will be resumed in the fall.

This work has been very valuable in the arousing of interest and in the discovery of suitable places for the later organization of new churches. It is our hope to continue with this work another year.

This year as usual there have been many calls upon the staff of the Association for personal help and advice on the part of churches in cities and towns, where, owing to changing population or other reasons, there has been a decline in membership, resources and church morale. This reconstruction work is still going on, with varying results. The year has been a notable one in the number and quality of the new church buildings which have been erected. The First Unitarian Society of Chicago has builded what may well be called the Cathedral Church of the denomination. In a central location, adjoining Meadville Theological School, near to the University of Chicago, it is a fitting symbol and will become more and more a strategic center of the Unitarian faith. Santa Barbara, Calif. has erected a new church of the Spanish Mission type, to testify that our liberal faith is at home in that historic city. In Tulsa, Okla., a meeting house of Colonial type with a parish house adjoining, speaks to the people of that southwestern empire of the American origin of our faith. Stockton, Calif. has a church in every way adapted to its work and at Norfolk, Va. the newly organized church group worships in a building which had been erected by another missionary organization but had been outgrown. We hope and trust that the experience of the former owners of our present building is but prophetic of the growth and the development of the new Unitarian church in Norfolk. The extensive improvements of the church at Dighton, Mass. have been completed and the people of that society have rededicated both the building and themselves to the ministry of religion. The Old Ship at Hingham, restored to its original plan, celebrated its rebirth with a notable series of services. It will be visited annually by thousands who desire to see our oldest church building as it was in the beginning. Extensive improvements have been made to the church at Billerica. At Framingham a new organ has been installed in memory of Dr. Hosmer. These are but a few of the significant improvements which the year has brought to our churches and through them and their ministry to the world.

The following churches have effected settlements during the year: Amherst, Mass.; Atlanta, Ga.; Barnstable, Mass.; Bolton, Mass. (Federated); Arlington Street Church, Boston (Junior Minister); King's Chapel, Boston; Burlington, Vt.; Harvard Street Church, Cambridge; Unity Church, Chicago; Cleveland, Ohio (Associate Minister); Concord, Mass.; Flint, Mich.; Fort Collins, Colo. (Federated); Harvard, Mass.; Hingham, Mass. (New North Church); Leicester, Mass. (Federated); Leominster, Mass.; East Lexington, Mass.; Louisville, Ky.; Lowell, Mass.; Meadville, Penna.; Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Nantucket, Mass.; Nashville, Tenn.; West Newton, Mass.; Church of the Saviour, Brooklyn (Assistant Minister); New Brighton, N. Y.; Norfolk, Va.; Petersham, Mass.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Portland, Ore. (Junior Minister); Wollaston, Mass.; Randolph, Mass.; Richmond, Va.; Sandwich, Mass.; Sanford, Me.; San José, Calif.; Scituate, Mass.; Stoneham, Mass.; Sudbury, Mass.; Trenton, N. J.; Urbana, Ill.; Vineyard Haven, Mass.; Ware, Mass.; Winthrop, Mass.

During the year, aside from taking care of a large correspondence having to do with every conceivable problem concerning parish life and taking part in many conferences with parish representatives and parish committees, Dr. Patterson has taken part in seven installations, three ordinations and one dedication. He has preached forty-nine sermons, delivered thirty-five addresses and visited seventy-nine different parishes. Four long journeys have been undertaken covering the greater part of the country; the first to the Middle South, the second to the Middle West, the third to the Southwest and the fourth to the Far South. Despite the conditions of unemployment along other lines, there seems to be very little unemployment among the ministers, which is to say that at this time we have only a normal number of men out of work with probabilities of speedy settlements for the large proportion of them. Parishes, however, have not escaped the hard times that have spread over the entire country and parish after parish is having great difficulty meeting its obligations. It should be noted, however, that there is present everywhere the determination to take the responsibility and to carry the burden. In this effort the ministers by and large have enthusiastically co-operated, some refusing to take promised increases in salaries and others willingly taking the reduction made necessary by the lessening income of their supporters.

In addition to numerous short trips in the neighborhood of Boston, Mr. Joy has travelled extensively in the Southeast and Central West, covering a distance of approximately 17,000 miles, not including his long trip to the coast to welcome Archbishop Aglipay. In the course of these wanderings he has preached fifty-four times and has given thirty-three addresses and has participated in seven other services of various kinds.

The appointments of the Secretary have taken him to as widely scattered areas as Tennessee, Oklahoma, Canada, Pennsylvania, New York. He has made fifty visits to various churches, taken part in two installations, one ordination and has made an address at one conference.

WALTER R. HUNT.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

REPRESENTING the three Secretaries of this Department, I submit our Annual Report for 1930-31, outlining the significant work of the year and suggesting briefly our next obligations.

Sixty-five churches were represented by 130 delegates attending the Eleventh Annual Institute for Religious Education held at Star Island, July 12-19, 1930. The generosity of the Unitarian Laymen's League appropriation plus the $500.00 contributed by the Association, enabled us to present the usual high standard of faculty, our leaders-in-thought being Professor William E. Hocking of Harvard University and Mrs. Hocking who gave their talents to the program as no speaker and his wife in Shoals history and who left indelible impress of their great personalities upon the delegates; Mrs. Sophia Lyon Fahs, author and professor of religious education; Dr. Abraham Myerson, nationally known psychiatrist; Mr. James G. McDonald, Chairman of The Foreign Policy Association. In spite of repeated announcements by the Laymen's League office and this Department, there were fifty fewer delegates than in 1929-1930, and sixty-five less than we could accomodate. If our type of program or of advance publicity is at fault, we should be told. Without this information we can only feel that many ministers, superintendents and Laymen's League chapter officials are not cooperating with us in discovering available delegates and the funds to send them. This is serious and expensive business, dedicated to the enrichment and deepening of our educational function. Our New England churches alone ought to fill the Island with delegates—and the numbers, texts and practices in scores of them prove that they need its influence.

Mr. Fairley's activities during the year have been largely centered upon the perfection of the New Beacon Hymnal, the work of which is in an advanced stage and almost ready for the press. His purpose to publish only the highest standard book has necessitated interviews and letters innumerable, and careful searching for materials far and wide. In his chairmanship of this important matter he has been greatly and generously aided by friends too numerous to mention here, both within and beyond the fellowship. This thing is going forward, produced not by one denominational official at his desk but by many friends in the full light of day.

Mr. Fairley has met many field engagements in the Middle West, the New York Area and New England, preaching to or meeting with groups ranging from Cape Rosier, Maine, to Indianapolis. For a considerable part of the year he has been the only official of the Association in the New York office; this has entailed considerable work not directly that of this Department but in the end really serving the purposes of the fellowship, such as his membership on the Program Committees of the Metropolitan and Mohawk Valley Conferences, his acting as counsellor of the Rowe Summer Camp, his representation of the fellowship in planning two worthwhile regional conferences of the Religious Education Association, and his participation in the installation of four ministers during the year. His habit of wide reading, his genuine liberalism, and his capacity for maintaining a diversified and choice circle of friendships makes Edwin Fairley of great value to the Department and the Association. We rejoice in him as a colleague.

Miss Gertrude H. Taft has now had eight months' experience as the "new broom" in the Department. The fellowship has called upon her for forty-two addresses and seventeen visits to church schools on Sunday mornings, these occasions ranging from Charleston, South Carolina and Atlanta, Georgia, to points down Maine. In addition to this field work, Miss Taft has carried her full share of office interviews, correspondence and administration. She was widely and well known among us before her appointment last year; she has attracted a large clientele who continue their confidence in her judgment and experience. Our expectations of a year ago have been justified at every point by the quality of her field and office work.

Miss Marie W. Johnson, Office Secretary, serves as Editor of The Beacon which is published weekly from October to June and mailed to about 7,000 children in our and other liberal church schools. In cooperation with Mr. Robertson of The Beacon Press, Inc., various new features have been introduced into the paper. One hundred and ninety-six children have enrolled as Beacon Club members, making the enrollment 5,196 to date. Through this Club world friendship has been encouraged by correspondence with children of other countries, especially with children of the liberal churches in India. Miss Johnson also serves as Quartermaster of the Department, assisting in the selection of material for the observance of holidays, caring for the pageant costumes and arranging for the use of stereopticon slides which have been sent out to about forty churches during the year. The proprieties and the smooth-working of the Department depend upon her constant presence and her good memory.

The fellowship ought also to know that, in addition to hundreds of unsung administrative details, all of the correspondence and filing of Mr. Sharp, Miss Taft and Reverend Fred R. Lewis passes through the hands of Miss Elisabeth B. Manley, capable executive with a New England conscience and the patience of Job. There should be room in an Annual Report for the personal equations of a Department's work.

Mr. Sharp delivered a series of six lectures on the philosophy of religion at the Universalist Summer Institute at Galesburg, Illinois, June, 1930 and has met principally New England engagements during the year. He has represented the fellowship at interdenominational gatherings and in public projects to which he considered the Association should contribute through its educational department.

Once more we record our pleasure in the local and national affairs of the Religious Education Association, the professional group with which your three Secretaries are naturally allied. We attended the National Convention in Atlanta, Georgia, April 15-17, 1931 which was addressed to: "Religious Issues in our Economic Crisis." Reverend Samuel A. Eliot, D. D. and Reverend Frederick May Eliot are pointing the way to their brethren in generously allying their churches with this movement which thirty years ago came into being at the instance of liberals in religion and progressives in education.

The most important and promising project of the year has been the organization of a permanent Curriculum Committee, Reverend Lyman V. Rutledge, Chairman, Mrs. Ella Lyman Cabot, Miss Lillian B. Poor, Dr. Abigail Eliot, Miss Gertrude Taft, and Mr. Waitstill Sharp. A group meeting in correspondence in New York City is being established by Mr. Fairley, these two, and other interested persons, considering the whole problem of the philosophy, content, and form of the curriculum of liberal religious education. Such matters as religion in the economic order, the religious attitude toward international conflict, law and self-control in a democracy, the moral basis of the family, the concept of the unfailing care and friendliness and purpose of a personal God,—these and more summon us to their treatment and presentation. The first step taken was a thorough and scholarly survey of the present constitution, practices and apparent needs of our church schools, this made by Miss Taft on the basis of 122 reports received from the schools by March 1, 1931. The results have been summarized in statistical form and in a more general article in The Christian Register for April 16, 1931. Miss Taft was greatly hampered by the lack of cooperation of over 200 church officials who, receiving their report blanks early in January, had up to March 1 delayed two months in returning them. And many blanks when returned are so incompletely filled out as to be worthless in a compilation of figures. Such carelessness cuts the ground from under denominational officials; it speaks of serious lack of the organization of responsibility in our churches, a condition about which the fellowship ought to know and which it is squarely up to the theological schools to attack.

The Committee on Religious Drama, Reverend Chester A. Drummond, Chairman; Reverend Dan H. Fenn; Professor Frederick C. Packard; Miss Katherine M. Glidden, Secretary; Mrs. Marita M. Burdett; Mrs. Martha D. Sharp; Miss Annie E. Pousland; Miss Gertrude H. Taft; and Mr. Waitstill H. Sharp, has met regularly to criticize manuscripts submitted to the Department. A Prize Contest was conducted, though without success, in the hope of evoking an acceptable Easter drama. Though failing in one way or another to be prize material, several very promising manuscripts were submitted. The year's work has led to the plan to publish immediately a list of plays for group reading and a list of classified religious dramas.

The first edition of Bulletin Number 22, "The Fourth R," by Rev. Augustus P. Reccord, D.D., having been exhausted, the material has been revised and ordered reprinted.

One of the notable services of the Department has been its printing and distribution of 2,500 copies of a bibliography on "The Minister and the Family," a reference list of thirty-three books selected by the late Dr. Anna Garlin Spencer and commented upon by Dr. Robert C. Dexter. Fourteen hundred copies were sent to the public libraries of the United States with a letter enclosed introducing the list to the library clientele. The balance has been called for by social, religious, educational and philanthropic organizations all over America. In addition a free circulating library of all of these books was established at 25 Beacon Street for the service of our clergy.

This was conceived and executed as a contribution to family life in America. Incidentally, we believe that $145.00 could not have been more wisely spent to identify the Association with a project which is uppermost in the social, religious and educational organizations of this country. This is the type of service for which the Association should be known; the substantial reputation which leads to respect and goodwill comes by making these essential contributions.

One general condition revealed by the thorough study of our schools undertaken by Miss Taft is that there are practically no young people overtly and significantly joining our churches. Out of the 122 reports received up to March 1, 1931, only twenty-seven answer that any young people joined the churches, the total additions of youth to these twenty-seven churches being 181. Extended comment on this fact is unnecessary. Making full allowance for a practical affiliation, which is that of most liberals, we are greatly erring in our superiority and indifference to numbers and in our reluctance to suggest to young people that they formally join the liberal church of their neighborhood. To reply: "All our young people go away to college or preparatory school," is no full discharge of duty. What, we should like to know, are ministers who make that answer doing before their young people go away so that those young people will join the liberal church of their college town or so that they will join their home church and retain membership in it during their student years, if there be no liberal church in the college town? We are neglecting the significances in the ceremony of standing up to be counted. What kind of a future can issue from such neglect?

One year ago we published The Reporter, the first number of what was intended to be a Department journal to be issued every six weeks during the church season and sent to our 3,000 teachers to inform them of new texts and practices in the field of liberal religious education. The Department of Religious Education of the Diocese of Massachusetts broadcasts such an house organ, The Observer, among its churches; and in England, in the same month as our Reporter appeared, the Religious Education Department of The General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches began the publication of The Bulletin, a paper with exactly this purpose. The Reporter was committed to the larger fortune of The Unitarian News Letter to which the three Secretaries have contributed during the year and in which we have been granted freedom and ample space. However, our original feeling persists, and it was one cherished for years by Dr. Buck and Dr. Lawrance, that the regular publication and distribution of an exchange particularly dedicated to the interests, problems, and accomplishments of our teachers, would be the largest single service which this Department could render. It is quite unnecessary to point out the loneliness and isolation of many of our teachers most of whom never in their lives come into actual contact with the Department. It is also unnecessary to point out what a change has come into the educational efforts of those which we believe now to be the effective churches. Religious education is being shaken free of its clinkers. And yet hundreds of faithful teachers, who would do better if they knew of the fresh resources in texts and methods, are back in the style of worship and teaching of 1880. Pupils rejoicing in the self-government, socialized recitations and aesthetic satisfactions of modern public and private schools, are on Sunday forced to "worship" in battered church basements, their leader sometimes punching a desk bell to introduce and conclude the elements in the service! In scores of our churches our children are trying to worship and study in the worst part of the building; year after year in these places no regard has been paid to the psychological effect of harsh overhead lights installed twenty years ago, scarred Lally columns breaking up the unity of the room, musty odors from the kitchen, windows glaring into the eyes of the children, or the absence of a beautiful central object, like a table with flowers and candles, which may serve somewhat as a focus and satisfaction during a service. What support and membership can we expect for an institution which so disregards human needs? Scores of our teachers know only one book in all their teaching experience; year after year they walk the treadmill; fresh books on the theory of teaching or new texts for their own age group are to them as "beyond the gates of Hercules." What can be the quality of the liberal religion which issues from these? There will be work and expense involved in such a publication as The Reporter; but this should be tested for a full church season. The need for it is a fact.

This brings us appropriately to a closing homily. The conditions essentially demanded for the educational effort of our churches are those which bring success to any social adventure—be it a college, a settlement house, a home, or a religious organization:

(1) Order and System—a division of labor caring for the details with expedition, accuracy and a quiet which makes room for the spirit of the endeavor.

(2) Knowledge—a mastery of those facts and techniques which precede success in influencing human behavior.

(3) Intelligence—the ability to re-think the total situation and to bring the variety of new resources to bear upon emergent need, adaptation of that which has been the best to that which is the fresh event.

(4) A Philosophy of the Whole Endeavor—sight of those things among which we work, insight of that toward which we move.

Waitstill H. Sharp.

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE most significant single event in the history of the Department of Social Relations this year occurred in the autumn of 1930. At that time it was felt by several of the officers and directors of the Association that the Department had been functioning now long enough to provide a basis on which to consider whether or not the activities with which it concerned itself were of value in the work of the Association, which, according to its constitution, is "to diffuse the knowledge and promote the interests of pure religion, which in accordance with the teachings of Jesus is summed up in love to God and love to man." In order to have the matter properly brought before the Board of Directors, the Secretary of the Department was asked to draw up a detailed report of the work for the previous three years and a committee of the Board sent out a letter of inquiry to some sixty prominent ministers and laymen all over the country asking for their opinion of the worthwhileness of the work of the Department.

The report emphasized the various types of service which the Department had rendered to local churches and church organizations, the function of the Department as a channel of communication between our fellowship and other religious and secular organizations, which to my mind is its most important single function, the publicity value of the Department and the relation of the Department to church extension. My report also pointed out the fact that if the Department work continued it must be on a permanent basis, its budget must of necessity be increased and that there should be closer cooperation between this and other departments and the general work of the Association. The report also stated that our expenditure as a denomination for work of this nature was far less than that of many other religious bodies, even on a per capita basis.

The most interesting feature of the inquiry, however, was the response to the circular letter which was sent out by the Chairman of the Committee, Dr. John H. Lathrop. In the first place, the percentage of replies to letters sent was remarkably high, almost all of them being answered immediately and at some length, and the practical unanimity of opinions of our leading ministers and laymen as to the worthwhileness of the work of this Department was exceedingly gratifying. Various suggestions were made, many of them practical, others only possible provided a much larger appropriation were made for the work of the Department.

As a result of this inquiry, the Board at its November meeting voted unanimously that the Department should be continued as a permanent activity of the Association. There was also a very general agreement as to the necessity of making plans for additional services, which in themselves would require increased appropriation as soon as the money was available. I wish that it were possible in this report to quote from many of these letters which placed the accomplishments of the Department on a far higher plane than the Secretary himself would have felt justified in doing. The reaction was exceedingly gratifying to all of those who were interested in the Department and heartening in that it seemed to show that we were filling a very real need in our fellowship.

The general work of the Department through the year has followed the policy outlined in previous reports. The main objectives of our work have been threefold: first, the emphasizing and strengthening of a program of international goodwill in our churches; second, the developing of an increased interest in the problems of industry and economics, with especial emphasis this year on unemployment; and third, an increase in and a development of a more intelligent service in the field of family relationships. The task in these fields is also three-fold: first, research where the necessary information is unavailable or where it concerns work among our own people only, as for example the study of the minister's relation to family and sex problems; second, the securing of information and help from other organizations and institutions or jointly with other agencies; and third, and most important of all, education: the passing on through the spoken and written word of the best available information and inspiration.

The specific contributions of the Department during the past year have been the study of the New England cotton textile industry, which was presented to the Board of Directors at the April meeting and which will presumably be published in the near future if it is not in print at the time this report is issued; the publication, financed by the Department of Religious Education, of a special reading list on the minister and the family compiled by the late Dr. Anna Garlin Spencer and the Secretary; and finally, the publication of The Minister and Family Troubles. This latter study is published by Richard R. Smith, Inc. The publishers are issuing 3,000 copies and it is felt that this will be a unique contribution which our fellowship is making in this field.

In addition, the Department was largely responsible for the program of the Ministers Institute at Andover which centered around the subject, "The Minister and Family Problems." We also were represented by a delegation of five ministers and laymen at the Conference on Permanent Preventives of Unemployment held under the auspices of the Jews, Protestants and Catholics at Washington in January, the proceedings of which have been sent to all of our ministers. In addition, the Department has placed a great deal of emphasis, through articles in the Register and reports, on the problem of unemployment and the Secretary has been able to render advice and give addresses to various groups in this field. During the coming summer he expects to spend considerable time in Great Britain and Germany studying the effects of unemployment insurance on the morale of the workers in those countries. At the same time he hopes to be able to study the textile situation in Lancashire in England so that by the end of the year we will probably be as well informed in this field as any religious organization.

The Department was also able to help implement the resolutions of the General Conference in Chicago in regard to the World Court. We communicated with all of our Senators when the matter was presented by President Hoover to the Senate and a great many of our churches, ministers and Alliance groups responded to a letter sent out by Headquarters urging them to send communications to the Senators. This activity we will continue until the World Court Protocol is finally approved by the United States Senate, which we hope will be in the coming year. We shall also conduct a like activity in regard to general education for the forthcoming World Disarmament Conference in 1932.

An interesting development during the year has been the cooperation with the Cheerful Letter Committee of the Women's Alliance. This committee has been receiving through its correspondents for some time, especially those in the drouth area of the Southwest, request for material relief and we have been able to see that those requests were handled through the proper social agencies, especially the Red Cross. This has meant a considerable amount of work but on the whole I think both the committee and the Department feel that the results have been satisfactory.

A very heartening development during the year has been the appointment of the Y. P. R. U. Commission on Social Responsibility, which endeavors to promote through our young people the same interests as the Department sponsors through the fellowship in general. On this Commission the Secretary of the Department sits as one of its advisory members. It is planned during the coming summer that this Commission will inaugurate a Unitarian Peace Caravan, the responsibility for which is, at least, in part to be taken by the Department.

The demand for the publications of the Department has been increasing and the responses to such publications have been very satisfactory.

The demands made on the Secretary of the Department for speaking engagements have continued to be numerous and exacting. During the year just past the Secretary has spoken eighty-eight times to various church and other groups. This does not take into account innumerable committee meetings and conferences at which informal addresses were given. This is somewhat less than last year because of the fact that during that year the Secretary spent practically three months in the field, speaking day after day to churches through the South and the Middle West, but is about the same as the previous two years, which were eighty-nine and eighty-seven respectively. The number of committee and group meetings, however, is much larger than in any previous year and the demands on the time of the Secretary are increasingly great. The importance of addresses does not necessarily lie in the address itself but it gives an opportunity for informal contacts with ministers and laymen and gives them an opportunity to discuss their problems on the spot with a representative of the Association.

During the coming year it is the hope of the Secretary that he will be able to visit the Pacific Coast and the Far Western churches, which is the only large group with which he has had no direct contact in the field. During this year he was able to visit most of our Canadian churches, which opened up a new territory with very worthwhile results.

The Department has lost during the year, in the death of Dr. Anna Garlin Spencer, one of its staunchest supporters and the Secretary one of his greatest sources of inspiration. The source of inspiration will, however, remain in the memory of this great and good woman. During the present Anniversary meetings the Social Service Council is conducting a special meeting as a memorial to Mrs. Spencer's life and interests, which are so closely akin to those which the Department is striving to promote.

I could not close this report without a word of appreciation for the indefatigable work of the Chairman of the Board Committee on Social Relations, Rev. John Howland Lathrop, D. D., and the Chairman of the Alliance Social Service Committee, Mrs. Frank Elliott, who have been constantly ready to cooperate in every endeavor. Without their interest and enthusiasm it would have been impossible to do much of the work which has been undertaken. In addition, I must express my appreciation to the literally hundreds of ministers and laymen who have shown through their interest and willingness to make suggestions and follow them their deep and abiding concern for our endeavor to make the brotherhood of man something more than a mere phrase.

ROBERT C. DEXTER.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RECRUITING THE MINISTRY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

ACCORDING to the latest available statistics, Meadville Theological School has an enrollment of twenty-five students, The Pacific School for the Ministry has twenty-nine students enrolled, The Theological School in Harvard University has ten Unitarian students, Crane Theological School seven Unitarian students, Manchester College, Oxford, one American student.

The Committee knows of about twenty-five college students who are thinking more or less seriously of the ministry, while eight boys in preparatory schools are known to be interested, and one man now engaged in business. President Snow of Meadville Theological School writes that he has a list of 123 possibilities for the next few years. This large number is significant of the new interest in the ministry being shown by youth.

The Committee has sent a letter to several hundred Unitarian college students urging them to consider the ministry as a possible life work. It has brought together the Unitarian students for the ministry of Greater Boston for conference with Rev. Dilworth Lupton. It has conferred with a group of younger ministers on ways of improving our ministry. It has urged Conferences and Associations of ministers to bend their energies in this direction. It has corresponded and conferred with young men who have been interested, and advised with ministers who have the problem of educating promising young men for the ministry. It has aided theological students so far as its resources permit. In this particular it has been assisted by the contribution of $500. from Alliance Branches.

Every self-respecting church would wish to justify its claim to the service of a minister. This it can do by contributing to the denomination at least once in a generation a young man for the Unitarian ministry. Let it then stand ready to encourage and help any worthy youth who may be interested. The future of our churches depends upon leadership in our pulpits.

FRED R. LEWIS.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICITY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE general routine of publicity through the usual avenues has been continued and developed by the Publicity Department. Certain types of this work have become standardized and must be carried on. The methods are old but the approach must be kept fresh and varied.

The setting up of a house organ through which to acquaint the churches and denominational societies with the activities of the five major organizations has been the outstanding new venture of the Department this year. Dozens of commendatory letters received from all sections of the country show that this house organ, the Unitarian News Letter, has proved useful, especially as a means of passing on to others projects found worth while by individual churches. With some changes, the News Letter will be continued during the coming year, adapting itself to the need for increase in financial support for The Christian Register.

Greater cooperation between other Departments of the Association and the Publicity Department has made possible an increase in the volume of material sent out from this office and in the attention given by the press to denominational affairs. The important newspapers, textile and labor journals and other periodicals, both in America and in European countries, have used copiously material sent out on reports of textile conditions prepared by Dr. Robert C. Dexter.

The Publicity Department has been in close touch with the extension work of the Association. The preaching mission trips of the several ministers sent to the South and Middle West have been given publicity through a regular system of advertisements, advance material, radio stories and write-ups of addresses. Special emphasis has been laid on those places where the founding of liberal churches is a hope for the future. Some attention has been given in different sections to advertising liberal literature which may be had without charge.

As the year closes, the Department, through correspondence and stories for the press, is engaged in making details of the visit of Archbishop Gregorio Aglipay of the Independent Church of the Philippines widely known to the American public and in his own country.

Requests from ministers for photographs and biographical information have increased in number, and the Department's files of such material have had numerous additions.

During Anniversary Week in Boston, an exhibit of church calendars, including special issues for such seasons as Easter and Christmas, was made in the corridor of the fifth floor of the Unitarian building, to help ministers and church secretaries who make up church calendars.

The secretary believes that greater advantage should be taken by the local churches of the opportunities which exist to obtain favorable publicity for the Unitarian message. In many localities, especially in communities of medium size, the newspapers are cordial to church material if it is presented to them in practical and usable form.

The Department is never at a loss for ideas for the enlargement of its work. Suggestions, however, are welcome. The field is fertile.

JESSIE E. DONAHUE.

REFERENCE LIBRARY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the past year the routine work of the Library, such as the filing of sermons, programs of special significance and biographical and historical material relating to ministers and churches, together with the Green Catalogue, has been kept up to date.

The patronage of the Library has so increased and the reference work has been of such a nature that there has been less time than last year for the work that was incomplete when the Library was put on a part-time schedule. The biographical file of ministers is completed and all biographical material in the form of leaflets, pamphlets and photographs for each minister has been placed in a folder under his name. Many cross-reference cards relating to material published in books and periodicals have been added to these folders. There are 569 ministers represented in the file of those deceased or no longer in the fellowship, and 237 in the file for living ministers. That a minister's name does not occur in these files simply means that the Library is in possession of no material of a nature to be preserved in this way.

The files of the New Unitarian, The Unitarian and the Unitarian Advance, covering the years 1906 through 1917, have been arranged and bound. The file of Unity for over fifty years has been arranged and checked for missing numbers. An effort is being made to secure the missing numbers and when this is accomplished it would be of great advantage to the work of the Library to have them bound for permanent preservation as many biographical sketches of ministers occur within its pages which are not to be found elsewhere.

The Library appropriation for the mending of books has resulted in the mending of 150 books, nearly all requiring rebacking. All rebacked books have either been relabeled and lettered or have had the original labels removed and returned to the new backs.

The Library has received as gifts during the year over 600 books. Such of these as were found to be duplicates have either been offered to one of the other denominational libraries or, with the consent of the donors, placed on the Ministers' Shelf, thus finding their way into some minister's library. Through the generosity of Mrs. Frothingham and assisted by Dr. Henry Wilder Foote, more than two hundred volumes were selected for the Library from the library of the late Dr. Paul Revere Frothingham. The Library is also indebted to Mrs. Holden for many valuable volumes from the library of her husband, the late Rev. Francis Wilder Holden. As a gift from the library of her father, Dr. Thomas Van Ness, 325 volumes have come to us from Mrs. Ann Van Ness Merriam. Of these a possible 50 will find their place eventually among the regularly catalogued books on the shelves of the Library. Many gifts of old letters, photographs and pamphlets have added to the treasures of the Library. Printed records of the Benevolent Fraternity of Churches, from 1828 through 1918, and manuscript records of the South Middlesex Conference and of the Connecticut Valley Liberal Ministers' Association have been deposited in the Library for permanent preservation.

Including the three hundred volumes not yet catalogued when the present librarian took charge, there are now about six hundred volumes to be catalogued. Owing to the immediate need of arranging and preserving material of a nature that might otherwise be scattered and lost, the work of cataloguing books is only now getting under way.

HELEN P. PATTERSON.

REPORT OF THE FELLOWSHIP COMMITTEE

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

DURING the year three regular meetings of the Fellowship Committee have been held. Twenty-two (22) preliminary certificates have been granted. These represent seven denominations: Methodist Episcopal, Roman Catholic, Congregational, Friends, Evangelical Synod, Universalist and Unitarian. Among these denominations the applicants are distributed as follows: Two Methodists, five Unitarians, seven Universalists, one Roman Catholic, five Congregationalists, one Friends, and one Evangelical Synod. Seven of those applying for fellowship and receiving preliminary certificates have come to us for fraternal reasons and will hold double fellowship.

An extensive correspondence has been carried on and many applications have been received that had to be filed because of various reasons, one of which is, as always, the lack of Unitarian churches in which to place the men. Undoubtedly we have, owing to this shortage of churches, missed some very good material which might have yielded excellent returns for liberal religion. More and more your committee realizes that the ministry requires not only a particular training but also a particular temperament, and we have endeavored so far as we have been able to select men who will bring to the churches not only well stored and active minds but understanding hearts and cooperative habits. To be dissatisfied with one's own denomination is not to be construed as the final word in equipment for the Unitarian ministry. We believe that the quality of the men who have come to us during the year has been uniformly high.

During the year, for various reasons, among them change of occupation, resignations, etc., five names have been dropped.

The Committee deeply appreciates all who have assisted in furnishing helpful advice and begs the constituency to continue its interest in the vital business of a wise selection of ministers of the liberal interpretation of religion.

George F. Patterson.

REPORT ON THE DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS

REPRESENTATIVES of the liberal religious groups long members of the International Congress of Religious Liberals met last July at Arnhem, Holland, to consider the future of the Congress. Our Association was represented by Rev. J. A. C. Fagginger Auer, Ph.D., Rev. Maxwell Savage, D.D., Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, D.D., and the Treasurer of the Association, Mr. Henry H. Fuller, who was also legal advisor to the Commission. Representatives of eleven national groups of liberals conferred together and the following results should be at least briefly mentioned.

The Arnhem Conference drafted and tentatively adopted a constitution with provisions clearly stated and guarded concerning the scope, membership, procedure, and the holding of future congresses. It was decided to change the name to The International Association for the Promotion of Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom. The purpose of the change was to make plain the continuance of the work of the International Association from year to year. While the secretaries of the International Congress in the past have bravely carried forward the work of the Congress as far as they were able by correspondence, travel, and public speaking, the International Congress never had a staff of workers, nor did it ever enjoy the financial and moral support of the great body of religious liberals throughout the world. Building upon all the good work which the International Congress did in the past, the International Association expects vigorously to promote the cause of liberal religion from month to month and from year to year, to gain support from all the liberal groups, and to employ as large a number of workers as the contributions will permit. The International Congress continues under a new name and with a new organization. Dr. H. T. de Graaf was tentatively elected President, and Dr. L. J. van Holk Secretary, and the office of the International Association was established with our Dutch friends at Amsterdam. These selections, together with the proposed constitution, are to be passed upon at the Congress to be held in 1932.

Dr. de Graaf died shortly after his acceptance of this very important work. He was a distinguished professor at Leyden University, widely known throughout Europe. He had been warned to guard his health. He poured his strength without reserve into our work and it shortened his life. During his last ten days, he gave himself wholly to dictating letters and trying to establish through the International Association the great international work of which he had long dreamed. We pay him every honor, and remember that he literally laid down his life for this international cause.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the International Association will be held in Paris in July, and our Association will be represented by Dr. Auer.

Our churches have continued their assistance to the churches in Transylvania, which still suffer acutely, as do all the other racial minorities, under the misrule of the Roumanian Government.

It was our privilege to welcome at the Annual Meeting of the Association representatives of several liberal groups. Rev. Arthur L. Agnew came from Belfast, Ireland, to preach the Anniversary Sermon. Dr. L. J. van Holk presented the greetings both of the Remonstrant Churches of Holland and the International Association. We received friendly greetings from Dr. Hnik, representing the State Church of Czechoslovakia; from Dr. Khandwala, representing the Brahmo Samaj; and from Mr. J. L. Pronskus, who hopes to start work in Lithuania.

By no means least among the visitors welcomed was the Archbishop of the Independent Church of the Philippines, Rev. Gregorio Aglipay, D.D., who was accompanied by Rev. Isabelo de los Reyes, Metropolitan of the Independent Church of Manila and Senator Fonacier, who is also a priest. These three distinguished visitors came eastward accompanied by Vice President Charles R. Joy. Their visit was made possible by the generosity of a few laymen, and particularly by the large generosity of one of them. They desire that their names shall not be published. The Association made no appropriation for this visit.

We have had a report during the year from Mr. H. I. Katibah concerning his visit among the liberal Moslems. His investigations were made possible by the generosity of our beloved friend Dr. Wendte, who bore all the expenses incident to his journeying. Dr. Clay MacCauley's motto in Unity House, Tokyo, is to be recalled: "We come not to convert, but to confer". At no distant date we hope that the International Association will be able to confer with the liberal Moslems.

The liberal groups throughout the world are organizing in the International Association, built upon the work of the International Congress through the past thirty years. As this American Unitarian Association serves all parishes and represents them in co-operative action, so the International Association of liberals will help all the liberal forces of the world and make possible their effective co-operative effort. It is to be remembered that at the first Annual Meeting of the American Unitarian Association the Secretary was requested to get into touch with the groups of Unitarians in other countries, and this through the one hundred and six years of our existence we have continued to do. Our great hope for righteousness and peace and faith hold all these liberal groups together in effective co-operation.

Louis C. Cornish.

DEPARTMENT OF COMITY AND FELLOWSHIP

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THROUGH the past year we have endeavored to help on in every possible way the expressions of interdenominational good will. We have assisted by a modest contribution the Massachusetts Federation of Churches. We have contributed again to the National Federation of Religious Liberals. We have sent delegates to several meetings.

While many of the activities pursued under this heading are not sufficiently formulated to warrant detailed record, they have had the consideration of the officers of the Association, not a little time has been spent upon them, and we are not without confidence that these activities have made for real fellowship and understanding with our friends in other churches.

WALTER R. HUNT.

SUSTENTATION FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THIS fund was established in 1920 by an allotment from the Unitarian Campaign and its income is used to supplement the salaries of ministers. The principal is $256,399.04.

I am pleased to report that during the fiscal year which closed on April 30, 1931, $15,983.52 was distributed to sixty ministers in sums varying in amount up to $400.00. The list of ministers is chosen by the Sustentation Committee of the Directors which has its annual meeting in January.

JAMES C. DUNCAN.

FUNDS FOR SPECIAL AID

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

I AM pleased to submit to you the following report on the funds for special aid of which the Association acts as trustee:

1. Funds the income of which is used for pensions to Unitarian ministers:

The Unitarian Service Pension Society Permanent Fund was increased $1,681.75 during the year by the following bequests: from Miss Helen M. Lewis of Hudson, Mass., $181.75; Rev. Mary A. Safford of Orlando, Fla., $500.00; Miss Julia A. Sears of New Bedford, Mass., $1,000.00. The principal of this Fund now is $509,130.85.

The income of this fund, together with the incomes of the Aaron Bancroft, the Mary A. Butler, the Louis B. Carr, the Jed Frye, the David Reed, the Caroline Southwell Root, the Clara M. Rotch, the Emily E. Sheppard, the Esther M. Whitney, and the Joshua Young D.D., funds, with an aggregate principal of $43,533.50, is available for pensions to Unitarian ministers who are sixty-five years of age or over, and who have an honorable record of at least twenty years' active professional service in the Unitarian ministry.

During the year the Association, as agent for the transmission of the contributions made to the Society, distributed under instructions from the officers of the Society, $51,293.75 to the qualified beneficiaries.

2. Ministerial Aid Fund.

The principal of the Ministerial Aid Fund was increased during the year by a gift of $1,000.00 from the estate of Mr. John Edward Brown of Providence, R. I., so that it now stands at $162,405.34. In addition to the Ministerial Aid Fund the Association holds four other funds aggregating $16,420.00, the income of which is available for the purposes of ministerial aid. From these incomes grants have been made during the year to eighty-three ministers to the amount of $9,388.37. This aid is given when evidence is confidentially laid before the Committee that these friends, by reason of illness or sickness of members of their household or some pressing financial emergency, are in need of sympathy and immediate help.

3. Cruft Memorial Fund.

During the year the Association has distributed $10,159.67 from the income of this fund to fifty-seven beneficiaries. It will be remembered that this fund was established under the will of Miss Harriet Otis Cruft and in accordance with her wishes the income is distributed to women of American birth and Protestant religion of good character over sixty years of age who from illness or misfortune are in great need.

4. Chandler Robbins Fund.

The income of this fund, amounting last year to $768.86 has been a help to eight persons who were eligible under the terms of the trust.

HENRY H. FULLER.

THE BUILDING LOAN FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

CHURCHES and societies planning to erect new buildings, to enlarge or improve their present facilities turn to this fund. On approval of applications by the Administrative Council and the Building Loan Committee the loans are made without interest and repaid in annual installments.

The capital of the fund was increased during the year by $422.04 so that at the present time it amounts to $368,821.79.

Six loans have been repaid in full this year. Six new loans have been made to the churches in Marblehead, Mass.; Santa Barbara, Calif.; Seattle, Wash., Icelandic Liberal Church; Stockton, Calif.; Tulsa, Okla.; Westboro, Mass.

The balance on hand at the close of the year, $10,843.24, has been promised on applications for loans which have been approved by the Building Loan Committee. There are now loans outstanding to seventy-four churches.

PARKER E. MAREAN.

UNITARIAN BUILDINGS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

AS custodian of the Unitarian buildings I am pleased to render my report for the year ending April 30, 1931.

During the past year the Annex at 16 Beacon Street which was left to the Association in 1920 by Mrs. Martha B. Angell has continued to be used as the headquarters of the Unitarian Laymen's League, Minister's Hostel and several other activities, including the Unitarian Foundation, Maintenance Fund and the Benevolent Fraternity of Churches. The cost of operation of the Annex is an item in the budget of the Association, and in view of the efforts to save all unnecessary expenses this coming year and the fact that there is sufficient space in the building at 25 Beacon Street to house the Unitarian Laymen's League, it has been decided to close the Annex in September and to discontinue the Ministers' Hostel. It is hoped that a suitable tenant may be obtained for the Annex, thereby producing additional revenue for the Association.

The Unitarian Building at 25 Beacon Street continues to be occupied not only by the Association with it various departments but also by the Beacon Press, General Alliance, Y. P. R. U. and the Christian Register; and so far has been able to meet every need.

The expenses of maintenance and operation of the Unitarian buildings this year has been heavier than ever before due to several reasons. This year we have painted the exterior of the Annex and the iron and woodwork of the exterior of the Unitarian Building. For the first time the Association has borne the total expense of the Annex, including the heating, lighting, and janitor's services; and also there has been an additional expense of approximately $1,000. for repairing the flooring on the second floor of the building at 25 Beacon Street. Experts failed to determine the cause of dampness and subsequent rotting of the under-flooring so that a large area of the floor in the Reception Room had to be replaced.

Our guest register, at the main building, shows that several prominent and influential foreign ministers have visited us this year, including Archbishop Gregorio Aglipay and Bishop de los Reyes of the Philippine Islands, Dr. L. J. van Holk, Secretary of the International Association for the Promotion of Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, and Rev. Arthur L. Agnew of Ireland.

He spoke of the increasing tendency in our fellowship toward holding retreats, where in small groups the mystical and experiential side of religion may be nourished and communicated. Star Island and Fisherman's Island on the ocean and Senexet and Stow among the hills furnish opportunity for this development of the life of the spirit.

Reports from the field were presented by Rev. Walton E. Cole of the Third Unitarian Church, Chicago, who spoke on the sub-

The afternoon session began at two o'clock with Devotional Service by Rev. Kenneth C. Gesner of Waltham, Mass.

Rev. Frederick M. Eliot, Chairman of the Committee in charge of the Biennial Conference, told of the plans being made for the meeting in Philadelphia in October.

The afternoon session was in the nature of a parliament of religions and addresses were made by Rev. Joseph L. Pronskus representing Lithuania; Dr. T. C. Khandwala, representing the Brahmo Samaj of India; Dr. L. J. van Holk, Secretary of the International Association for the Promotion of Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, of Holland; Rev. Arthur L. Agnew, minister of the York Street N. S. Presbyterian Church, Belfast, Ireland, representing the General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches of Great Britain; and Rt.

(3) WHEREAS, The present and serious industrial depression which has continued for a period of eighteen months has resulted in decrease of salaries and of income from investments and in widespread unemployment and consequent suffering of millions of wage earners, be it hereby

RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association in Annual Meeting assembled,

1. Earnestly commends to all Unitarian ministers and congregations consideration of the causes and consequences of unemployment to the end that they may intelligently co-operate with the government and with industry in developing adequate relief and permanent prevention of unemployment.

2. It urges ministers and congregations to recognize the co-operative character of all business involving an obligation of employer to employee in good times as well as in bad times to divide a fair share of the profits of industry and to provide adequate assistance in periods of depression.

3. It urges on both state and national governments the necessity of immediate and far reaching action to the end that suffering from the present emergency may be relieved and plans adopted to prevent abnormal unemployment in the future.

4. And it requests the Department of Social Relations of the American Unitarian Association to continue and increase its attention to the problem of unemployment, keeping our ministers and congregations informed of the development in this field.

(4) WHEREAS, The forthcoming Disarmament Conference marks the most important crisis in world history since Versailles, and upon its outcome will depend not only the hopes of the peoples of the world for relief from the increasing burden of armaments, but also the course of international relations for a generation to come, and

WHEREAS, The preamble to Part Five of the Peace Treaties, including the Treaty of Berlin between the United States and Germany, contains a moral, if not a legal obligation to disarmament, and

RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association in annual meeting, call upon the churches affiliated with it to do their utmost to further intelligent study of the issues to come before the Disarmament Conference in order that the people of the churches may be prepared to co-operate with peace agencies, endorse and sign petitions to our government and take such other steps as may bring the force of public opinion in America to accomplish the successful issue of the forthcoming Disarmament Conference; specifically urging the government of the United States to formulate a constructive disarmament policy, to give serious consideration to proposals made by other nations who promise reduction in armaments, and to exert every influence at its command to insure the success of the Conference, and

FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED, That the Department of Social Relations be urged to devote special attention to such an effort on the part of the churches.

(5) RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association in Annual Meeting assembled regrets, at this time of financial and business depression, the great expenditures being made by the War Department for army air maneuvers and deplores such military gestures.

(7) WHEREAS, For many years and in many meetings of the respective constituencies of the Universalists and Unitarians, resolutions have been unanimously adopted expressing utmost friendliness and comradeship in the common work of liberal religion and a looking forward to closer affiliation,

THEREFORE, RESOLVED: That the President of the American Unitarian Association is hereby requested, if he finds it advisable after conference with officials of the Universalist General Convention, to appoint a Commission of such number as he may designate, whose duty it will be to look into the practicability of uniting these two communions for the common good; this Commission to meet with any similar commission that may be appointed by the Universalists and report at the next Annual Meeting of the American Unitarian Association.

(8) WHEREAS, The Unitarian Temperance Society, having dedicated itself to a year of intensive educational work to make known to its constituency and to others the facts concerning the use of alcohol as a beverage, be it

RESOLVED, That the secretary of the American Unitarian Association be requested to convey to Dr. Wilbur the deep appreciation of the delegates here assembled for his many years of unselfish and constructive labor on behalf of our free faith on the Pacific Coast, and

That the secretary also be requested to convey to Dr. Westwood the good wishes of these delegates for the success of the high venture to which he has been called.

(10) RESOLVED, That the President of the American Unitarian Association is hereby authorized to appoint a Committee on Resolutions for the next Annual Meeting at least one month in advance of such meeting, to the end that resolutions intended for the action of the delegates may be submitted to him for reference to the members of the committee prior to the Annual Meeting, thus giving opportunity for consideration of resolutions on the part of the Committee.

The meeting closed with a benediction by Dr. Cornish.

Adjournment.

FUNDS INVESTED IN CHURCH PROPERTIES

The Association has interests in a number of church properties which have from time to time been conveyed to it. In a few cases the title is unconditioned; in most cases the property is held by deed or mortgage upon conditions which give the use of the property to the society as long as it maintains religious services and remains in the Unitarian fellowship.

When any part of the money needed to accomplish this object has passed through the treasury of the Association, it appears on the books as a non-income bearing investment. The amount so invested is, in most cases, but a part of the value of the property.

When the interest of the Association does not represent any monetary investment on the part of the Association, it is carried on the books as an investment of $1.00 for each item.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TREASURER 95
Parker E. Marean

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT

May I begin by naming very briefly several projects which are dear to us. The beautiful Retreat House at Senexet, made possible by the indefatigable labors of Mrs. Theodore Williams, is ready to receive guests, by special arrangement, and as soon as a little more money has been raised, will open permanently.

The renovation of the Rest Houses at Stow, made possible for us by the generous provisions of the Whitney family, is nearing completion. Much repair work has had to be done there, in charge of a representative committee selected from our National Organizations. The Rev. Mrs. Budlong is to be the hostess. However, I am authorized by the committee to say that visitors, at any time from now on, will be welcome and it is expected that there will be a formal opening in June.

The Free Church of America

I turn now to a matter of great importance which is first in our minds and hearts today—the proposed plan of increasing cooperation between the Universalists and Unitarian churches. In the past there have been many friendly approaches between the two bodies. At the last annual meeting the president was authorized to appoint a commission to confer with a Universalist commission, if such a commission should be appointed by the Universalist General Convention. Both commissions were to study ways of cooperation. The Universalist Convention appointed a commission in October. The two commissions, numbering nine Universalists and nine Unitarians, met in November at Brown University in Providence. A preliminary report has been printed and is in your hands. I wish briefly to summarize it.

Two conclusions were reached in our meetings at Providence. First, the two commissions constituted themselves a continuing council, and took the name of "The Council of the Free Church of America," to study the elimination of duplication and to study cooperation. Secondly, it was decided to appoint an executive committee. The Universalist members of this committee are Mr. Victor A. Friend, president of the Universalist General Convention; Rev. Roger F. Etz, D.D., the secretary of the Convention, who is with us here this morning, and Mr. A. Ingham Bicknell, the treasurer. The Unitarian members are Mr. Percy W. Gardner, Dr. Hunt, Mr. William Roger Greeley and myself. This executive committee has held various meetings.

The council met a second time on May 6, and voted to recommend the plan of the Free Church of America in principle to both denominations, and to recommend it in detail as soon as the details should be worked out. Each denomination, it is planned, shall keep its honored name and its organization. Both hope that other liberal groups will join with them in making a great and effective fellowship of the churches of the free spirit in America.

I wish to become reminiscent for a moment. Here are two denominations, Universalist and Unitarian, of different origin, with equally important and noble histories. Under the honored leadership of Murray and Ballou, the Universalists fought against that terrible Calvinistic conception, the doctrine of the wrath of God. Their hearts rebelled against its horror. They believed in and proclaimed the goodness of God.

We Unitarians protested against the Calvinistic Trinity. It was more than just a protest against the thought of God as three persons, difficult though that may be. The doctrine carried with it far-reaching implications of the need of atonement and the threat of hell.

Each denomination has its own roster of saints, its rich history of good deeds, and friends, its own accustomed ways. We make our channels of common endeavor with great difficulty because of our extreme independence, and we cling to our accustomed ways. Both fellowships enjoy identically the same freedom. Both today are children of the modern scientific spirit, looking to the future rather than to the past. Both face in this mechanistic age the same gigantic task of bringing comfort and hope and righteousness into a troubled world. We have the faith to believe that we shall vastly help each other by going forward together.

The Council of the Free Church of America is now perfecting a plan which in due time will be submitted to this Association in formal meeting and to the Universalist General Convention. We must take all the time that is needed. Let us go forward together with patience and with faith.

International Association

I turn next to our International affairs. The International Association for the Promotion of Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom, through its able officers, Dr. de Graaf, President, Dr. Van Holk, Secretary, Dr. Noordhoff and their colleagues, has been steadily at work. It was expected that the International Congress would assemble in August. In these times of depression very few people could attend the Congress, and the Congress has been postponed. It will probably meet in Switzerland, a year hence.

The work of the International Association rests quite as much with its Executive Council as with the Congress itself. The Executive Council meets this summer and it is necessary for us to be represented. We were the founders of this work; we have been its constant supporters. To be explicit, Dr. Eliot started it in 1900. The first Congress was held in London in 1901. It has met twice in Boston. Its work was carried forward through many years under the vigorous leadership of Dr. Wendte. In advice, in guidance and support this Association gathered here has always played a leading part. Your directors have voted to send Dr. Auer, of Harvard University and Tufts College, and me, as delegates to the meeting of the Executive Council. We shall meet with the group in England, then in Holland, then in Czechoslovakia for the dedication of the church and for fraternal intercourse with the Patriarch of the Czech National Church, and then proceed to Switzerland for the meeting.

On this journey I shall go forward with far greater happiness if in this family gathering I speak with entire frankness. I have hesitated whether or not I ought to go—whether at this time the Association should spend one dollar even on sending the delegates. These considerations stand on the one hand. On the other hand stand the urgings for our attendance. There are many urgings, and I will name only one. As has been announced from this platform, a large endowment for the international work has been written into wills. It is wholly dependent upon the continuation of our guidance in the Congress. For the very work's sake it is necessary that our Association be represented. And, my friends, there is nothing we cannot do for the world through the international work if once we have the sinews of war—these great resources. They must not be imperilled.

We are entitled to five delegates. The commission will be composed as follows: Dr. Auer, to whom, with the late Mr. Fuller, we owe not a little of the present set-up of the International Association and Congress; Dr. Pierce of Washington; Dr. Griffin of Philadelphia; Mrs. Rees, president of the Alliance; and myself. The expenses of only two delegates, Dr. Auer's and my own, are to be defrayed by the Association. We are grateful to the three others for giving their services. Mrs. St. John encourages us to believe that she will go with us and be the welcome and honored advisor at the meetings.

You will pardon all these details. Please understand that, while this journey will be pleasurable, it is not a pleasure journey. We all shall undertake it with a realization both of its necessity and its importance.

The Five Per Cent Plan

The wise man takes from his treasure chest things new and old. I turn to a familiar statement. A friend asked me recently, "Are you going to urge the five per cent plan on the Annual Meeting this year?" I said, "Yes, I shall mention it." In all seriousness, perhaps there was never a time when it was more important that we ask people into a membership in all our organizations and into church membership than it is today.

We are sober-minded, as we have not been for years. It is an opportunity to put into operation in every way —except the budget perhaps—this five per cent plan. I resubmit it. It has been endorsed by this Association in several annual meetings. As long as I have the honor to stand here I shall each year repeat that little slogan, "Five per cent increase every year—at least five per cent."

The General Outlook

Now a few words on the general outlook. When the seas run high and the gales are blowing, the ship reefs her sails and rides the storm. Together with all the churches, the Association has felt this year the surging of the seas. Throughout the year we have made every possible economy. After last year's budget was adopted, not one additional appropriation was made by your directors. This is a record. It has been no easy accomplishment, in view of the great and increasing demands. We are living strictly within our appropriations. Your board of directors next Thursday will face a very, very difficult and sad task. They will probably vote an expenditure of $40,000 less than the budget for the year just ended. In these times this is inevitable. We are all determined to live within our expected income, while we continue to make every plea for increased resources. I beg of you to remember that these economies will demand your patience and your sympathetic understanding.

We are indebted to Mrs. Rees, the very able president of the Alliance, for the occasional recitation of a little poem. I wish I could repeat it. It tells how through the ages men have believed that the world was going to the dogs. The cave men knew the end was near. Medieval men saw it coming; modern men have feared it. The poem ends, "Those dogs have had a good long wait."

None of us believe that the world is going to the dogs! But with this said, out of the present wreckage I plead that we get new vision. Never were all the churches more needed. We must lay anew the foundations for the fundamental decencies of life. We must preach the prohibitions against sin and the admonitions toward good.

Look about us. Crime is rampant. Armored cars go along our streets. Honorable men are shot down before our eyes. Little children are killed. In America last year it is estimated that two thousand little children were kidnaped.

What are we to do? Obey the law ourselves; uphold its observance; support the government; teach decency of behaviour. Teach it, teach it, teach it! Teach that as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. Teach that he that sinneth, sinneth not against himself alone, but against his brother. Teach the Golden Rule. It is high time that we cease debating psychological theories of conduct, that we cease talking—some sense it is true but much nonsense—about self-expression, and teach instead that every man carries a citizen's responsibility, and should bear his brother's load as well as his own.

In education it is time we ceased emphasizing almost exclusively the acquirement of fact and looked instead to the motivation of our schools. What is all education for? What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his very soul?

The country looks to the churches, as it has not looked for many a day, to teach the fundamentals: "Thou shalt not lie, nor steal, nor commit adultery or murder." It looks to the churches to exalt the pure in heart, to hold high the vision of self-discipline and devoted service for the good of the world and for the preservation of these United States, which today are in peril from within.

Brethren, we are engaged in a vast enterprise. In our own churches we are trying to lift ourselves and others into knowledge of higher truths and higher ways. Through this Association we are trying to unite in this common cause with like-minded groups of consecrated people in the Free Church of America. Through this Association as part of the International Association we are banded together with perhaps twenty million people scattered throughout the world who are devotedly working to bring righteousness and hope to mankind. That hope is the wealth of our churches.

The wealth of a church is not in its physical equipment nor its riches. Its spirit, its faith, is its wealth. Too much we have been playing with the thought of material equipment, material perfection. Given the new parish house, or the new church organ, or the new physical adjustment, and then the next and the next, we have somehow believed almost with superstition that the spirit of the church would grow. Sometimes it has grown and sometimes it has not. And still stands the ancient sacrifice, a humble and contrite heart. Still the wind bloweth where it listeth. Still those who lead the life shall know the teaching, its worth, its truth, and whether or not it be of God. Even if our meeting houses fell asunder, the churches of the spirit would remain.

Finally, let us dignify our every endeavor with the knowledge that we are a part of the Holy Catholic Church of the aspiring mind and of the understanding heart.

Louis C. Cornish.

PUBLICATION DEPARTMENT

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THERE are three separate and distinct functions of this department, (1) the free publications, (2) the sold publications, and (3) the miscellaneous printing done for the various departments of the Association, although the last mentioned alone annually averages 200,000 sheets.

One of the five main purposes for the founding of the Association was "To publish and distribute books and tracts. . .", but, previous, to the year 1900, the publications of the Association, both books and tracts, seem to have been a hit-or-miss affair—when there was any money, books and tracts were printed, and when there was none available, no sustained efforts were made to continue publication. Several make-shift arrangements were also tried in the marketing of our books, none of which were, in the least, successful. Starting about 1900, by patient and earnest effort, a substantial list of free publications and also a similar list of book titles were published, totaling, in 1931, almost 500 tracts and over 400 books. Some of the tracts have had a remarkable distribution in this period, for example, A. U. A. No. 11, Sunderland's "What Do Unitarians Believe" has reached 258,000, or almost an average of 10,000 annually.

It is interesting to note, in passing, that this is the period during which the financial support of the Association grew most rapidly.

Previous to 1918, the Association, The Beacon Press, the Unitarian Sunday School Society and other Unitarian organizations, published, and attempted, individually, to market books, with none being able to give the proper attention to the details, with the result that all were operating at distinct losses. In 1918, The Beacon Press, took over all the book publishing and marketing, and has continued it ever since.

In addition to the three major sub-divisions of this department, there are also three minor ones which might be classed as follows: (1) Editorial, (2) Wayside Pulpit, (3) Special Committees. The Editorial Committee, composed of members of the American Unitarian Association Board of Directors has the selection and supervision of all material published, whether sold or free, and, in the course of its duties, examines between 80-100 manuscripts of various lengths, each year. The Wayside Pulpit Committee under the Editorship of Mr. Charles Joy, has charge of preparing the sentences which appear on the bulletin boards in front of our churches, and, in the course of its duties, examines a great amount of material and meets frequently for discussion and for the selection of the quotations. Special Committees are at work from time to time, such as the one now appointed to suggest a complete revision of the tract catalogue, eliminating those tracts which may seem to have outlived their usefulness, and to suggest new subjects and new writers. We publish and distribute, each year, anywhere from 200,000 to 400,000 tracts. In 1921, ten years ago, for instance, we distributed 224,000; in 1929-30, 301,000 and in 1930-31, 203,000. It will be seen, therefore, that despite the distractions of the present day, the demand for our free literature remains fairly constant. The Publication Committee feels that as we are a missionary organization, the literature which we issue should be addressed to the unchurched and the non-Unitarian, rather than for those already in our churches. Just what effect this literature has had, or how many people it has actually brought into our churches, is hard to say, but we do know that, two years ago, when I wrote forty-six ministers, whom I know have come to us from other denominations, one-half of them stated that they first became interested in our faith, through our free literature.

When, in 1918, The Beacon Press took over the publication of all the sold material for the American Unitarian Association, the Press relieved the Association of a heavy, annual, financial loss and the Press, likewise, assumed a similar burden. It was not until in 1921, a "good year," ten years ago, that the system really got working and then the total merchandise sales were $24,972, and with practically nothing spent for promotion work, showed a net loss of $3,251. In 1931, a "bad year," the sales were $33,385, with $4,100 spent for advertising, with a net profit of $106. In 1930, the net profit was $5,439. This increase has been due to the results of our sales efforts among non-Unitarian churches.*

The Beacon Press publishes and markets about ten new books each year, of which at least one each year, for the last five years, has been outstanding. It is our purpose, in conformity with the spirit of the founders of our denomination, to issue publications which will be progressive and liberal, but not radical, in the fields of religion, philosophy, ethics, sociology, and education. In 1930, for instance, we published the first guide book in the field of moral education, and, in 1931, we published an outstanding contribution to the field of penology. Books of this type put us in touch with other authors, who have the material which we wish to obtain and have the same interests which we wish to cultivate, in our plan to develop a Liberal Press.

*Sales to Unitarian Churches and Unitarian Church Schools in 1920-21 were $12,908; in 1930-31 it was $13,848, an increase of only $940.

It seems evident from the fixed demand for our literature over a period of years that the radio, and other modern inventions, will not, as has often been predicted, supplant the church, religious publications, and even literature, itself. I do not believe that the present economic and social unrest will result in the rejection, or ultimate destruction, of the church, as an institution, in the United States, as it seems to have done in some of the European countries. I do feel, however, that we, through our literature, should, and will, manifest a more active and even aggressive concern about the social and economic welfare of the struggling individual and, I hope, and expect, that the committee now at work will bring in concrete suggestions for the development of that article of our faith, "the progress of mankind."

As we are the only denomination which issues free literature, to any extent, I believe that such a program would markedly increase our influence and attract large numbers of the public to us. As the appropriation for this department was cut 33 1/3 last year, the development of this program would, however, hardly be possible with the funds now available.

The proposed federation with the Universalists should open avenues of opportunity, increased usefulness, and larger distribution of our free and sold publications. With this larger constituency, we should undertake more, and much larger, projects, with reasonable expectation of meeting the costs, than is now possible.

Although our work has trebled and our "results" have improved 50%, our personnel has remained the same as it was ten years ago. We feel that we ought to get more results, and particularly sales, from our Chicago, and Berkeley, California offices, although we appreciate that these are denominational headquarters and are established, primarily, to serve the churches. The New York Office has been increasingly effective over a period of years.

We now have agents covering the booksellers in Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and, in coöperation with the Association Press, the entire Eastern and Middle Atlantic states, but I feel that we ought to have more representatives, on a commission basis, and, as we publish more and more of the kind of books which we have been issuing during the last five years, these hopes will be realized. Suggestions regarding authors, subjects and means of greater distribution for our free literature and our books are not only always welcomed, but are earnestly requested.

During the last year we have printed 172,000 tracts in the several series. This is less than last year, due to the fact that we have printed practically few new tracts, pending the report of the special committee. The following have been added to the permanent lists:—

A. U. A. No. 321—"Unitarian Hymns," by Charles G. Girelius.

A. U. A. No. 322—"Liberal Religion and Southern Leadership," by John Clarence Petrie.

Flier No. 11—"United Denominations," by Stanard Dow Butler.

The Personality of Criminals, by Dr. A. Warren Stearns.

William Howard Taft, by Rev. William H. Cotton.

A Modern Theism, by Minot Simons, D.D.

Young George Washington, by Rev. George L. Thompson.

Proceedings of the Unitarian Historical Society—Vol. II, Part I.

"A Study of the New England Cotton Textile Industry," by Robert C. Dexter.

"What Jesus Means to Me," by Miles Hanson.

"The Inspiration of a Sanctuary," by John Henry Wilson.

"Fourth Biennial Conference Programs."

"Syllabus" for the Fourth Biennial Conference.

"Resolutions and Findings" adopted at the Fourth Biennial Conference.

The total number of volumes sold of our general publications during the past year, including the Hymn Book, The Beacon Hymnal, the books in The Beacon Course and our general list, has been 25,817. The value of sales from books and merchandise has been $30,743.34 in comparison with $36,021.89 in 1931. The number of charge sales was 6,523.

Our book display at the Shoals, during the summer of 1931, was again successful, due to the enthusiasm and ability of Mr. Wallace Gray, who will represent us there again this summer.

The total receipts from all sources including check exchange have been $44,291.35, the expenditures $61,097.53, of which $15,000.00 was placed on deposit as an investment. The merchandise receipts were $16,931.87 and expenditures $11,273.93 this year. Although we are very liberal in granting credit, our total loss from bad debts was only $83.01.

The cost of printing 3,000 copies of the condensed Year Book was $946.32 compared with $1,780.45 in 1930-31, and printing 3,000 copies of the Annual Report $688.13 as against $1,609.12 for 5,500 in 1930-31.

Subscriptions to The Christian Register have been supplied, as in previous years, to reading rooms in all parts of the country.

Sixty-six manuscripts have been submitted to the Department for possible publication as books or tracts. The Publication Director has carefully read each one and submitted all that seemed to have any possibilities to other members of the Publication Committee.

We have printed 262,600 miscellaneous sheets, 27,750 sheets of books and charge material, a total of 290,350 sheets, practically all of which have been distributed.

After a prolonged discussion, and with the advice and consent of the Department of Religious Education, the publication of The Beacon was discontinued with the June, 1931 issue.

We have issued during the year 1,500 Religious Education catalogues, 1,000 Beacon Course catalogues, (Unitarian), 2,500 Beacon Course catalogues (Non-Unitarian), 5,000 Tract catalogues, and 3,500 List of Books, practically all of which have been distributed.

We have mailed over 16,800 circulars announcing our books, and we have inserted 394½ inches of advertising matter in prominent newspapers and periodicals, including The Christian Register. The direct mailing campaign is less than last year, and the newspaper advertising is less.

We have had a sales agent, in addition to the Treasurer, visit the bookstores in Boston and vicinity with our publications, two representatives covering New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia; we have continued our depository at the Meadville Theological School in Chicago. In coöperation with the Association Press and the Woman's Press, we have had the services of Mr. W. H. Davies, who travels the Atlantic seaboard and Middle West, bringing our new publications to the attention of booksellers.

The total number of shipments made through the Shipping Department, including the free and charge material, was 8,677 in 1931-32, compared with 8,959 in 1930-31.

During the year, we have been obliged to dispense with the services of Dr. Henry H. Saunderson, who, for many years, has been the Editor of The Wayside Pulpit. This responsible position is now held by Rev. Charles R. Joy, Administrative Vice-President of the American Unitarian Association, who serves without salary. There has been marked increase in interest and coöperation from our ministers in the development of this department, especially in the matter of submitting suggestions for suitable quotations. The Wayside Pulpit, which we formerly sent free to Unitarian Churches, is now being supplied at the nominal cost of $5.00 per year, which hardly covers the cost of manufacture and mailing.

During the year, we have lost, through death, two of the directors of The Beacon Press, Mr. Charles F. D. Belden, Librarian of the Boston Public Library, and Mr. Henry H. Fuller, Treasurer of the American Unitarian Association. Both of these men gave generously of their time and thought to the promotion of the welfare of the Press, and their loss is very keenly felt.

W. Forbes Robertson.

THE DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH EXTENSION AND MAINTENANCE

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THERE has been no effort to establish new churches this year. Our financial conditions and the mounting needs of our existing churches made this impossible. In this respect our work has not been one of extension. Every effort, however, has been made to strengthen our work, to carry on enterprises already under way, and to come to the rescue of churches stricken by unforeseen troubles.

The work at Flint, Michigan, at Norfolk, Virginia, at Houston, Texas, and at Nashville, Tennessee has been vigorously prosecuted under able ministerial leadership. At Miami, Florida, meetings have been held during the heart of the winter, and it is hoped that such meetings may be regularly carried on in the future from the middle of November until the middle of April. The little group at Savannah has carried on under lay leadership with only occasional preachers sent by the Association, but the lay center at Fort Wayne, similarly left to its own leadership has not survived. Only in unusual cases can such groups prosper without ministerial guidance and inspiration.

Two new enterprises have been carried on by the Department this year with great profit. The first and most significant of them is our broadcasting. We have just completed our first year of regular weekly broadcasts. Through the courtesies extended to us by the Westinghouse Stations of New England, one of the most powerful and important stations in the country, WBZ, WBZA, and W1XAZ, we have conducted each Sunday afternoon a Unitarian Hour, which has been very favorably heard by an audience which the Station estimates as numbering a quarter of a million. Many preachers and laymen have spoken on this program, and the music has been furnished by All Souls' Choir, our famous Unitarian Chorus from Lowell. This broadcasting has been under the constant direction of our Executive Secretary, Mr. Davis.

The second new enterprise which the Department has undertaken this year has been a thorough survey of our aided churches throughout the country. The responsibility for this survey has fallen upon Mr. Davis and Mr. Joy particularly, but Dr. Hunt, and Dr. Patterson have also assisted in special instances. Our purpose has been to gather as complete information as possible about the communities in which our churches are located, the history of the church itself, the church building and its adequacy, the membership and attendance of the church, its activities, its finances, and the methods undertaken for its promotion. This is the first time such a complete survey has been made and it is proving to be very helpful and enlightening. The officers of the Association will gladly place their services during the coming year at the disposal of any of our self-supporting churches who desire to strengthen their work, and wish to have a similar survey made and suggestions and recommendations for the betterment of the church work offered.

In connection with the work of this department Dr. Hunt has visited forty-nine churches, in most cases to consult with trustees and ministers in regard to the work of the church, he has taken part in three installations, and spoken at three conferences. The long trips which he has taken have been to Virginia, to Texas, Louisiana and Tennessee, and to Ohio and Pennsylvania.

During the year Dr. Patterson has officiated at four ordinations and seven installations, has supplied fifteen pulpits on as many Sundays, and delivered forty-seven special sermons and addresses. He has attended eight Conferences and undertaken four long journeys, which have taken him to the Northwest, West, South and Southwest. Added to these items is the routine work of the office, attendance upon stated committee meetings, conferences with parish committees and ministers looking toward settlements, and the innumerable other duties incident to the welfare and progress of the parishes.

There have been fifty-nine settlements during the year. This is fourteen more than the total of last year, which was a high mark. These settlements have been made at Athol, Mass.; Augusta, Maine; Ayer, Mass.; Billerica, Mass.; Bulfinch Place Church, Boston; Roslindale, Mass.; W. Bridgewater, Mass.; Calais, Maine; Carlisle, Mass.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Chestnut Hill, Mass.; St. John's Church, Cincinnati, Ohio; Davenport, Iowa; Deerfield, Mass. (Federated); Dover, Mass.; Dunkirk, N. Y.; Gardner, Mass.; Greenfield, Mass.; Fresno, Calif.; Hamilton, Ont.; Hanska, Minn.; Iowa City, Iowa; Laconia, N. H.; Lincoln, Mass.; Clifton Church, Louisville, Ky.; Lynchburg, Va.; Manchester, N. H.; Marshfield Hills, Mass. (Federated); Medfield, Mass.; Moline, Ill.; Montclair, N. J.; So. Natick, Mass.; Needham, Mass.; Newburg, N. Y.; Community Church, N. Y. (Assistant Minister); Northampton, Mass.; Orange, N. J.; Pasadena, Calif. (Assistant Minister); Pembroke, Mass.; Portland, Oregon (Junior Minister); Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; First Church, Providence, R. I.; Ridgewood, N. J.; Sacramento, Calif.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Salina, Kans.; Santa Barbara, Calif.; Shelbyville, Ill.; Sherborn, Mass.; Somerville, Mass.; Stockton, Calif.; Tampa, Fla.; Taunton, Mass.; Urbana, Ill.; Utica, N. Y. (Federated); Warwick, Mass.; Whitman, Mass.; Wilton Center, N. H.; Windsor, Vt. The close of the fiscal year shows a total of twenty-four vacant pulpits.

Compared with the unemployment in other lines of work the men in our fellowship are very fortunate. Despite the stringency of the times, surprisingly few parishes have found it necessary or wise to cut their minister's salary. This number is well under ten per cent of our total number of parishes. This would seem to indicate that it is generally recognized that the minister's salary is always low when compared with the salaries earned in other professions. It is also a testimony to the feeling on the part of the people of the need of religion particularly in times like these.

Mr. Joy has traveled about 24,000 miles during the year, visiting eighty-five churches, delivering seventy-three addresses, speaking six times over the radio, and preaching thirty-eight sermons. Last spring he was busy completing his trip with Archbishop Aglipay and Bishop Reyes, in the summer he was chairman of the Association Week Program at Star Island, in the fall he took over some special responsibility for the church in Toledo, which necessitated six separate trips to the city and protracted stays therein, and the rest of the year he has been busy with two long trips undertaken in connection with the survey of our aided parishes. In addition to this special work he has served as editor of The Wayside Pulpit, and has carried on a great deal of committee work and office work.

Dr. Blake has traveled from 1300 to 6000 miles a month in the vast territory west of Denver, Colorado to the Pacific Ocean, and south of Edmonton, Alberta, to the Mexican border. He has made sixty-one church visits, has delivered twenty-four sermons and twenty-five other addresses. These visits varied from a few hours to two weeks in duration.

No new churches have been built in the territory of the Rockies during the past year and one church, at Fresno, California, has definitely closed its doors. Six new ministers have been settled in this region. The problems of the Pacific Unitarian School for the Ministry have consumed much of Dr. Blake's time. Those problems are far from settled, but the future is encouraging.

Mr. Land in the New York office, as part-time secretary, has been very busy and useful during the year, answering inquiries, coöperating with and advising churches in that section, speaking before Unitarian groups and assisting the Metropolitan Conference of Unitarian and Other Liberal Churches.

CHARLES R. JOY.

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

REPRESENTING the three Secretaries of the Department and loyal colleagues over all the country, I submit our Annual Report for 1931-1932 which outlines the work of the year and our next obligations.

A notable innovation in our May Meetings program was the extensive exhibit of educational products and materials displayed on the fifth and sixth floors of Headquarters. Miss Taft deserves the entire credit for this revelation of the original work of our schools. Knowing that it was very helpful to visitors from far and near, we shall make it an annual custom in Boston each May and at Star Island during every Institute. As soon as possible and as space permits, the Department should acquire a permanent loan collection of these materials for use by our schools. If one criticism of our actual teaching is more justified than another, it is that we are neglecting the variety of impression and the concreteness which are absolutely necessary in dealing with children.

Seventy-one churches were represented by 203 persons gathered at the Eleventh Annual Institute for Religious Education conducted by this Department and the Unitarian Laymen's League at Star Island, July 11-18, 1931. Of this family, 174 were delegates, family members and weekenders. Our actual student body throughout the week totaled 152, a gain of twenty over the 1930 enrollment. Principal lecturers were Rev. Thomas H. Billings, Ph. D., of Salem, Massachusetts, and Professor Robert J. Hutcheon, A. M., D. D., of Meadville Theological School. The testimony of delegates encourages Mr. Rees and myself to continue the four distinct features of this week:

(1) One lecture series in psychology and pedagogy—the specific problem of education for religion.

(2) One lecture series in problems of adult faith and religious practice—a mission to deepen the quality of the delegates' own religious life.

(3) The five practical methods conferences divided between a carefully prepared twenty-minute address and fifty-five minutes of a democratic forum period.

(4) Varied evening addresses on problems in social relations. Hundreds of summer meetings are conducted annually by the 163 denominations of America. Officers of the League and of this Department are therefore gratified when a leading educator in the Methodist fellowship says: "The highest grade institutes in religious education are those conducted at the Isles of Shoals by the Unitarians." And we are unable to see why the twenty-seven churches of Maine and the twenty-five of New Hampshire continue their indifference to this Institute which meets at their very doors. At the banquet on the last evening of the Institute Mr. Wetherell calls the roll of states represented by delegates; Missouri, Utah, Michigan or Ohio are often better represented than Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. We suggest that the Maine Conference and the New Hampshire Unitarian Association, by correspondence or in their annual meetings, consider the religious events which take place each summer off Rye and Kittery.

Mr. Fairley has ranged from Belfast, Ireland, where he preached at the York Street Non-Subscribing Presbyterian Church, to Louisville, Kentucky, where he preached in both churches and conducted a week's institute. He has appeared at points between, making over thirty addresses during the year before congregations, regional conferences, student gatherings and Alliance groups, and helping to install ministers at Ridgewood and Montclair, New Jersey and Newburgh, New York. He continues to serve on the Finance Committee of the Bronx Free Fellowship, as director and member of the Program Committee of the Metropolitan Conference, and as director of Rowe Camp Conference where he is especially beloved by his colleagues and by new and old campers. He leads a busy and serviceable life as dean of the New York area.

Among Miss Taft's fifty-three speaking engagements of the year were visits to thirty-two churches in twenty-nine cities of the Middle West, where she traveled over 5000 miles in seventy days at an average expense of $4.50 per day. This expedition renewed goodwill and understanding which have been apparent throughout the season since she returned. She is grateful to the many new and old friends in the Middle West, and especially to the Meadville Theological School, whose hospitality made her trip as inexpensive as it was pleasant and productive.

Mr. Sharp delivered fifty addresses during the year, traveling from Andover, New Hampshire on the north to Marietta, Ohio on the west and Richmond, Virginia on the south. In March he described one month's circle among nineteen churches from Barneveld, New York, to Norfolk, Virginia, being gladly surprised at the number and vigor of adult classes in these churches. With very great personal benefit and an harvest of friendships, he joined the Haverford Institute of International Relations, June 9-19, 1932, and heartily recommends that Unitarians attend this and other institutes of the same kind which the Friends are conducting this coming summer in America. He represented the Association at the annual Proctor Conference of the Young People's Religious Union and, in the absence of Mr. Fairley, visited Rowe Camp which latter he considers as nearly an ideal conference as may be devised this side of perfection. Mr. Fairley and Rev. and Mrs. Charles P. Wellman deserve great gratitude for creating and preserving the fine rare thing which is the natural spirit of Rowe Camp. Long may they continue hosts to the young democrats who tent on the steep slope to study by day and worship by night in the little stone chapel.

A problem for years as to whether it was an instrument of religious education, The Beacon, weekly publication for Unitarian children, was discontinued by vote of the Administrative Council of the Association on July 9, 1931. This decision was not easy or one quickly made for, with 7000 subscribers and a Beacon Club of 5196, we knew that this weekly was a valuable means of contact between our isolated children. After a study of the best papers, we recommended that the schools subscribe to Scattered Seeds, monthly publication of the Friends' General Conference, Philadelphia; 1025 former subscribers to The Beacon accepted the suggestion, making possible at least a monthly restoration of The Beacon Club and The Crow's Nest which now appear on the last two pages of the Friends' magazine. Thirteen school papers have been started—at Brooklyn, New York (Church of the Saviour); Canton, Massachusetts; Cincinnati, Ohio (First Church and St. John's); Davenport, Iowa; Jamaica Plain, Massachusetts; Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (First Church); Plainfield, New Jersey; St. Louis, Missouri (Unity); Salem, Massachusetts (Second); Syracuse, New York; Washington, D. C.; Watertown, Massachusetts—their publication encouraged by Miss Taft.

Two issues of The Reporter, Department house organ, have been printed and distributed to all of our schools. We are glad that our recommendations in the Annual Report for May, 1931 have by vote of the Administrative Council become a definite service policy of the Department. If our local correspondents will coöperate in the distribution, the Department can reach every one of our teachers by dignified printed advice at least three times each year. In addition we have contributed more than ever before to The Christian Register and to the Unitarian News Letter.

We have purchased from the Women's Alliance of San José, California, fifty authentic oriental costumes designed and acquired by Miss Mary Lawrance. They have already been put to such good use that by moderate rentals we have almost recouped the cost. This acquisition very greatly increases our ability to serve the schools.

Insofar as possible the Department libraries have been put on loan and circulation basis. The Boston office has lent 201 general volumes to ninety-six people in eleven states, and 81 volumes from its special library on the Minister and the Family to sixty-two persons in ten states. The New York library has grown rapidly during the year with practically no expense to the Association, and its circulation service has been widely used. This produces diversity in teaching and study materials. One of the major policies of the Department is to broaden the reading of our teachers both technically as to the age group with which they are dealing, and philosophically in the field of religion. We are urging monthly teachers' gatherings devoted primarily to some recent text in the field of religion or education.

Mrs. Ella Lyman Cabot has revised the Pupil's Textbook of her course, Our Part in the World, deleting practically all references to the World War and adding valuable new materials. Her revision of the Teacher's Manual will follow at her earliest opportunity.

Mrs. Carol Hartwell, teacher for five years of The Story of Jesus by Dr. Florence Buck, has just finished a thorough survey of that book. Mr. Sharp is preparing a second edition in view of these valuable suggestions, adding a fresh bibliography, some new teaching materials and collateral readings.

Mr. Sharp has commissioned Rev. Thomas H. Billings, Ph.D., and Mrs. Grace H. Billings, Ph.D., to prepare a new elementary book on the Bible to serve as an introductory course for Juniors and Intermediates. This will be an option to The Bible and the Bible Country and From Desert to Temple.

Meanwhile, with the hearty approval of the author, Dr. Jabez T. Sunderland, Mr. Sharp has been preparing a second edition of The Bible and the Bible Country. Though twenty-two years old, Dr. Sunderland's book continues to be a best seller in The Beacon Course; it is a text of solid merit and warrants the great care which is going into this revision. The edition will appear in September, making the third of three important Beacon Course books to be revised this spring. There is a real difference of opinion in the Fellowship as to whether we should introduce children to the facts and the geography of the Bible at so early an age as ten, as against offering them a life-situations course in ethics. But we feel that the importance of the Bible as subject matter—evidenced by the steady sale of The Bible and the Bible Country and the strong feelings of practically all Unitarian parents—warrants its revision and our invitation to Dr. and Mrs. Billings to prepare a fresh book. Our decision to publish a life-situations course for Juniors will depend upon the scope of the Billings' manuscript which is promised for June 1933 and to which we look forward with confidence.

The Boston and New York Curriculum Commissions met for one joint session at the Philadelphia Conference and regularly throughout the winter. The Boston group has been busy condensing the many partial and overlapping statements of the aims of liberal religious education into this simple three-fold code with which to square and test all of the future content and form of our materials:

"The purposes of liberal religious education are to lead persons:

"To think clearly on the meaning of human experience as revealed in history, literature, the arts and sciences.

"To feel the reality, harmony, and nobility which are in the universe as revealed in Nature and in Personality.

"To act for the discipline and developing of character and for the perfecting of human society."

This has involved correspondence with all parts of the country and the Commission's study of the returns for general conclusions representative of all opinions. The Boston group has been strengthened by the addition of Dean Dorothy Dyar who is studying findings in education and is interviewing friendly non-Unitarian observers to discover what they expect of modern Unitarian religious education. Their one common warning to us is to proceed no faster than the most thorough research. Meanwhile the New York Committee has been on a different tack—making a direct study of the needs, interests and capacities of the five principal age divisions of children and youth. All of the members of both groups and their friends in the field realize that in the philosophy, content and form of the curriculum of religion they face the most difficult and important problem before mankind. (Let those who doubt this assertion read Professor William McDougall's most recent book, World Chaos.) We will bring The Beacon Course up to date as rapidly as possible. We will report from time to time upon the studies of our Curriculum Commission. But we will make no promises as to the form or date of a new curriculum.

The Committee on Religious Drama and Pageantry has met monthly to judge manuscripts of plays and pageants offered the Department or The Beacon Press, Inc., for publication and distribution to our churches. The work of these faithful colleagues has relieved the Secretaries of much responsibility and has guaranteed that all productions receive fair and diverse criticism.

Miss Marie W. Johnson has prepared a revised edition of her book, Plays and Pageants for the Church School. A little gem of a play, "No Room in the Inn," by Belle Radcliffe Laverack of Buffalo, New York, is being added.

Bulletin No. 22, "The Fourth R," by Augustus P. Reccord, D.D., and Bulletin No. 23, "Business Men and the Boys of the Church," by George G. Bradford, have been reprinted. Rev. Walter S. Swisher has just prepared the manuscript for a fresh bulletin, "Music in the Church School," and Mr. Fairley has written a short but very helpful paper entitled, "A Working Library in Religious Education."

Miss Taft prepared two valuable bibliographies during the year, the first an ample list of curriculum texts and books on psychology and teaching methods, 225 copies of which have been distributed, and the second a statement of hand work materials for original projects or to enhance The Beacon Course procedure.

The churches have used the Department slides fifty times in the year. Miss Johnson's chief addition to the stock is a set of forty-seven nature views for use as a general lecture or with God's Wonder World. We solicit gifts and bequests of worthwhile slides. The next improvement in our service is the preparation of lectures to accompany the 1000 travel and religious slides given us by Dr. Wendte.

The New Beacon Hymnal: The work is divided into the MSS. of hymns and the MSS. of services. The Publication Committee of the Department, Rev. Frank O. Holmes, Chairman, Rev. Edwin M. Slocombe, Rev. Dorothy Dyar, Mrs. Carol Hartwell, Miss Annie E. Pousland, studied the MSS. of hymns separately and together, and on June 8, 1931, after a thorough survey, returned it to Mr. Fairley for further improvement. The winter's work has consisted of the adjustment of the scores of differences between the Editorial and Publication Committees, the musical editing by Mr. Carl F. Price, and the vast research necessary to print a correct hymnal. In spite of illness and many responsibilities, Mrs. Grace E. Mayer-Oakes has forwarded the editorial work on the services. Early in April, 1932, Mr. Fairley returned the MSS. of hymns with all points of difference adjusted, and on April 8, Rev. Henry Wilder Foote, D. D., Rev. Edward P. Daniels and Mr. Sharp studied the first 129 hymns of the total of 280. Dr. Foote and Mr. Daniels, representing "the Harvard School" of musical tradition and hymnal construction, earnestly urged further study and correction of the present MSS. to take advantage not only of modern musical research but of the discoveries of the Commission on Hymns and Services. Their specific criticisms and general advice were carefully considered by Mr. Fairley, Editor, and Mr. Holmes, representing the Publication Committee of the Department. On April 13, 1932, Mr. Holmes approved the MSS. as satisfactory to average Unitarian musical, rhetorical and religious taste and as so distinctly an advance over The Beacon Hymnal (1924) as to be worth printing. In three working years the Editorial Committee has prepared a MSS. which is varied and enlivened by fresh music and words; the Publication Committee has gained the inclusion of all the fine traditional material which it thought should be perpetuated. But the MSS. is not yet one of distinguished musical or rhetorical excellence—nothing prepared for average tastes can ever be such. Whether we print it immediately or hold it for research which will parallel the study on the forthcoming adult hymnal, is the problem before us as the year closes.

The three Secretaries have had one conference with Mr. Victor A. Friend, President of the Universalist General Convention. We made his acquaintance and discussed extension of Universalist-Unitarian coöperation. The progressive workers of both households see that they occupy common ground.

Readers of this report should bear in mind that no chairmen or members of the committees of this Department receive any compensation for their services. We have not paid even traveling expenses. We wish that there were space in this record to call the roll of the friends of the Department, to describe their services and the time which they have given. Out of the loyal corps of over fifty colleagues we select three for special gratitude: Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge, Chairman of the Curriculum Commission, who has patiently coördinated the many findings and opinions from the field in our first full year of this study; Rev. Chester A. Drummond, Chairman of the Committee on Religious Drama and Pageantry, who has combined the qualities of artist and good executive to the establishment of high standards and the relief of the Department; and Rev.

Frank O. Holmes, Chairman of the Publication Committee, who has given us hundreds of hours of his culture and keen judgment and, at every point of strain and difference, the spirit of a fine gentleman. We gladly record our gratitude and affection for these and their many colleagues who have stayed up our hands.

We feel justified in reporting two encouraging tendencies: (1) Increasing attention to the setting and procedure of the service of worship. Trustees and church architects are considering children and youth for the first time in church history. Holy places are being devoted to the spirit of religion. Beauty and dignity are entering our sanctuaries. Progressive leaders at St. Paul, Pittsburgh and Portland, Maine are planning their services to build a worship tradition. (2) Definite gain of adult interest in the study of religion and its implications. We recall progressive groups at Erie, Pennsylvania, Toronto and Marietta. The most certain way to a vital church is an adult class pledged to the truly liberal spirit.

Prophecy is difficult in these days. We face drastic reductions in Department resources. We will squeeze the utmost utility from our allowance; we will travel and publish as effectively as we can. And there may be luck in the ill wind after all—for manuscripts have come out of quiet years.

WAITSTILL H. SHARP.

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE year 1931-32 has been in the country generally a year of unemployment and depression. Perhaps because of that very fact and because the general world situation has caused a great deal of searching in men's minds and hearts, there have been more demands and opportunities for service for the Department of Social Relations than in any of the previous four years of its existence. From every quarter, from our own churches and ministers, from Alliances, from individuals, from outside religious and secular groups with whom we have built up a liaison relationship, the demands for service have been incessant and importunate. Our own people everywhere are desiring information in regard to the international situation, in regard to the extent of and relief of unemployment, in regard to political and economic policies, national and international, and in addition we have been asked to throw the weight of our fellowship so far as possible into activities of the community.

In this report we can only mention a few of the high spots in the year's work.

The summer of 1931 brought to the Secretary of the Department a rich experience and a wider knowledge both of world conditions and of the conditions in our own liberal churches in England, Hungary and Roumania. In Great Britain he was enabled, thanks to a considerable extent to our Unitarian fellow-workers, to secure valuable first-hand information regarding the way in which that sorely stricken country has dealt with unemployment and also to obtain a firsthand knowledge of the English textile situation which he could compare with the situation in our own country. This information he has diffused as widely as possible through written and spoken word since his return. In addition, he spoke in several of the Unitarian Churches in England and Ireland, where there is a very deep interest in the social application of religion and where they are much interested in what we were attempting to do here in America. Following that he visited our Unitarian group in Hungary and not only extended to them our good wishes but has since been in steady correspondence with them in regard to some of their own problems. Together with Mrs. Dexter he visited a number of our ancient churches in Transylvania, met with the Grand Consistory and has been able to bring back to our churches here a first-hand recent impression of their situation. And finally, he spent two weeks at the Assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva.

Perhaps the most outstanding piece of work in the year's program has been the coöperation with the American Friends Service Committee in working out plans for relief for the coal miners in West Virginia and Kentucky. Following a two weeks' visit to the field, the News Letter published a report and that was followed by an appeal to all our churches and Alliances. The Secretary has had innumerable opportunities of speaking and writing about the situation in West Virginia and Kentucky and the result of this effort, which was administered by a committee consisting of Dr. Griffin of Philadelphia, Mrs. Elliott of the Women's Alliance, and the Secretary of the Department, has been that our churches have contributed a considerable sum in money and literally tons of food, clothing, shoes and books. The interest in this very practical form of service has been widespread throughout our churches all over the country. Many of the contributions came from very small societies who themselves were struggling with financial difficulties. Not only was there the generous response to a charitable appeal but this situation offered a unique opportunity in social and economic education and in addition it has developed a spirit and a technique of coöperation between ourselves and the Quakers which may lead to more extensive coöperation in the future.

Another interesting incident of the year's work was the ten lectures the first week in February at the University of Missouri. These lectures dealt with the social obligation of religion and were conducted under the auspices of the Bible College of the University of Missouri. There is no Unitarian Church at the University and this was the first opportunity which we had to present the liberal point of view in that great center of learning. In addition to speaking at the University of Missouri the Secretary has spoken at the University of Michigan and gave five lectures in the early spring at Colby College in Waterville. Students are particularly interested in the practical expression of liberal religious thought.

As was indicated in the first paragraph, the general work of the Department has been even more extensive and intensive than in previous years. The Secretary has been able to deliver ninety-eight addresses up to April 1 of this year and, in addition, has attended innumerable committee and conference meetings at which he has represented our Unitarian movement. He has prepared a 10,000 word statement dealing with the church and the broken home, which is to be presented at the International Conference of Social Work at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, in July of this year.

In last year's report the possibility of a Peace Caravan conducted under the auspices of the Commission on Social Responsibility of the Y. P. R. U. was mentioned.

That Caravan spent eight weeks in the field during last summer and the Caravan returned with renewed interest and enthusiasm and a story of work well done. The Secretary of the Department was instrumental in raising part of the money to make this Caravan possible and has been a close adviser of the Commission during the year and is at the present time making plans for another Caravan to go out during the coming summer. Nothing that our Young People have done has aroused so much enthusiasm in their own ranks and outside as this work. In addition, it is another link in the coöperative effort which binds us to the Quakers.

In June of this year the Secretary is to be one of the Faculty of the New England Institute of International Relations at Wellesley, Mass., arranged by the American Friends Service Committee.

Still another interest which the Department has taken up during the year has been the representation of our fellowship in the inter-religious seminar meetings in which Catholics, Jews and Protestants met to discuss their differences and their common aims. The Secretary was one of the consultants and a U-Table member at Wellesley and presented the report for the religious journals at the National Conference at Washington in March.

Unemployment and the economic crisis has been a constant source of anxiety and interest and a great deal of time has been spent in considering various suggested plans and bettering the situation both in local communities and nationally.

The interest in international relations, especially as concerned the Disarmament Conference and the World Court, has been greater during the year than ever before and much of the time and effort of the Department has been spent in seeing that our churches are adequately informed of the problems in this field.

The increasing integration of the work of the Department with the general work of the Association has been one of the real joys of this year's program. It is becoming increasingly felt, I believe, that it is impossible to entirely differentiate the various activities of the Association and that a church without a social expression is to a very considerable extent not performing its true function as a center of liberal religion.

An excellent illustration of the close working together and the keen interest in the concerns of the Department of Social Relations were the Findings and Resolutions of the General Conference at Philadelphia. The Findings of this Conference dealt very largely and definitely with industry, world economics, the depression, international affairs and world peace and the family and in a very real sense serve as a Magna Charta for the work of future years.

As in previous years, it becomes incumbent on the Secretary of the Department to express his appreciation of the splendid coöperation which he has received from the President and other officers of the Association, to the officers of the Laymen's League and the Y. P. R. U. and especially to the Alliance and its Social Service Committee. Without their continued interest and enthusiasm it would have been impossible to get the year's work done.

One need that seems to the Secretary of the Department to become increasingly evident is a simple but nevertheless comprehensive book which could be used as a basis for study in Alliance and Laymen's League groups and adult classes dealing on the basis of our experience with the social obligation and expression of our liberal faith. Such a book it would seem would meet a very real need. There is already a demand for it, particularly in Alliance groups, and it ought to have a rather wide general circulation. It is the hope of the Secretary that time will be available next year to prepare the manuscript of such a study. The book published last year, The Minister and Family Troubles, has had a gratifying circulation and has been very favorably reviewed in many of the leading religious and secular journals.

The Secretary has been able this year to visit quite a number of churches heretofore untouched. The only extensive portion of the country still remaining unvisited is the Pacific Coast. Despite the depression and many other discouraging factors I close the year with a feeling that our churches are increasingly conscious of their social responsibility and are more and more expressing that responsibility in their day by day tasks. It is the hope of the Department that we shall be able to be of assistance to them in so doing in the years that are to come.

ROBERT C. DEXTER.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RECRUITING THE MINISTRY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

AT present there are about fifty theological students preparing for the Unitarian ministry in various theological schools. There are also about twenty students in college or preparatory school known to the Recruiting Committee to be looking forward to the ministry as a life work. There are too, several young men now in business who hope to begin preparation for the ministry in the near future.

During the past year students for the ministry have had a particularly difficult time financing their course. Nearly all of them are entirely dependent upon themselves, and opportunities for earning money have been few. Moreover the income available for aiding students has shrunk. For these reasons the resources of the Recruiting Committee have been taxed to the limit and the aid given cannot long be maintained at the present rate. Happily the General Alliance has stood by with its contribution of $500. as for several years past, and all this money has been paid intact to several needy students who otherwise could not have continued their course.

We cannot ignore the humiliating fact that but for the ministers who come to us from other denominations we could not maintain our churches. As a denomination we are not spiritually self-supporting, in that we produce only about one-half of the ministers we need. The future of our faith cannot be bright with promise so long as such a condition obtains.

At the same time a multitude of young men who are admirably fitted for leadership in the church, who would find supreme joy and satisfaction in such service, and who are not greatly needed elsewhere, are going into business because there is no one who will remind them of the great need of ministers and the great opportunity that is theirs to serve the world along spiritual levels. One of our young ministers has persuaded four of his young men to study for the ministry. What greater thing can any minister do for the church than to raise up successors in the work which he must one day lay down?

FRED R. LEWIS.

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE work of this department comes under two heads: publication of the Unitarian News Letter, and newspaper publicity. Monthly issues of the News Letter were made from October to June inclusive, and weekly issues of two pages in The Christian Register from September to May inclusive. The News Letter is a bound sheet of sixteen pages, and includes departmental material. It has distinct purposes: It acts as a medium of exchange of news and ideas between the American Unitarian Association and associated organizations, and the churches; it seeks to provide persons who see little or no other Unitarian literature, with information of activities in the Fellowship and the belief and practice of liberal religion; it wishes to offer descriptions of undertakings in churches, church schools and the various allied organizations, which have been found to work in particular instances, that churches and organizations may attempt similar experiments, if they care to do so. Its object, also, is to set forward, so far as the printed page may be able, the cause of Unitarian Christianity. We wish to say, in this connection, that coöperation of The Christian Register simplifies this task. The monthly Unitarian News Letter uses considerable material formerly published in The Christian Register. It feels free to do this because most of the persons on its mailing list do not have the opportunity of seeing The Christian Register.

The Unitarian News Letter has had three special numbers during the year: the November issue devoted all available space to the Biennial Conference held October 19-22 at Philadelphia; the May issue was a "Star Island" number; and the June issue reported the May meetings. An average of 7,500 copies has been distributed each month.

In regard to newspaper publicity, the Biennial Conference at Philadelphia was reported adequately in the Philadelphia press. Considerable material, also, was used by the Associated Press, particularly that which referred to occurrences in other countries. In similar manner the meetings of Anniversary Week in Boston were given distribution.

This Department keeps in continual contact with the church editors of the Boston papers, and submits to them material of interest. These items, including pictures, are usually published. Also, material thought available for the Associated Press is given to that organization. It would be possible to extend the publicity service in this particular could more material be received.

A distinctly useful feature of the newspaper service has been publicity in the form of biographical material and photographs sent to localities where officers of the Association and affiliated societies were scheduled to speak. Newspapers in these various cities and towns throughout the country have given generous space to this propaganda. Its usefulness in introducing a speaker to the community repeatedly has been proved. Advance copy is submitted to the local papers, or publicity director, timed to appear at the proper interval before the appearance of the speaker. These journeys and addresses, also, have been described in The Christian Register and the Unitarian News Letter. The Department, on special occasions as the Biennial Conference and Anniversary Week, supplies The

The Department is constantly completing its files of biographical material and pictures, and solicits additional material.

During Anniversary Week the Department displayed at its office, fifth floor, 25 Beacon Street, types of newspaper publicity and specimens of church calendars.

REFERENCE LIBRARY

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE records of the Historical Library of the Association show a steadily broadening interest and increasing patronage. In proportion to increased interest, the routine work connected with the constant inflow of historical material increases of course and the research work has occupied a much larger portion of the Librarian's time than she has been able to devote to cataloging, card indexing, etc. Thus the work of a permanent nature has seemed somewhat crowded out by more immediate demands. The Library however, is amply repaid for time spent in research in the interest of church histories, biographical sketches etc., for usually there come back to add to the treasures of our denominational collection well compiled histories which bring together material scattered hither and yon in periodicals, Annual Reports, historical sketches, etc. Then too, continually as references are found cross reference cards are being slipped into church and biographical files, increasing their usefulness and simplifying the answering of questions concerning historical details of the churches, the denomination and the denomination's ministers.

Patrons visiting the Library number approximately 225. Letters of inquiry involve the major portion of reference work. Sometimes one letter will contain a number of questions relating to different churches or ministers, necessitating the searching of many records and church files. The diversity of inquiries range all the way from the location of the editorial rooms of The Christian Register in the seventies to details of the life of Dorothea Dix, for which the Library's collection of material was recently searched for a student of Duke University who is writing a book on the life and work of this eminent Unitarian for her doctor's dissertation in history.

The gifts of the year include several church histories, town histories, service books, rare photographs and pamphlets, together with a file of Unity covering the years 1879-1919, including nineteen bound volumes presented to the Library through the generosity of the daughter of Dr. William C. Gannett. This has been a most valuable addition to our collection since more than two hundred numbers of the Library's file were missing.

The Library is indebted not only to those generous and interested individuals who contribute rare and antique material but also to those who with an understanding of the importance the swift flight of time places upon current history supply the Library with material of special significance relating to present-day churches.

The future possibilities of the Library are many and if a part-time schedule and limited appropriation hold the work in abeyance temporarily, it only postpones for a time the broader scope which the growing denominational consciousness of our Unitarian constituency will require of our historical treasure house.

GEORGE F. PATTERSON.

REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS

THERE has been constant correspondence concerning the affairs of organized liberal religion between our Headquarters and the groups in Great Britain, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Hungary, Transylvania, India and the Philippines.

The work of the International Association for the Promotion of Liberal Christianity and Religious Freedom has gone steadily on and with increasing strength.

In September our fellowship had the great pleasure of welcoming the Rev. Mortimer Rowe, M. A., Secretary of the General Assembly of Unitarian Churches in Great Britain. Mr. Rowe spoke in a number of our churches and at the General Conference in Philadelphia.

With the world contacts increasing and the world distances diminishing, the possibilities of friendly coöperation with our neighbors in other lands grows rapidly and the international fellowship offers us great opportunity for helping to create the international mind upon which ultimately the peace of the world must depend and to help bring comfort and hope to the hearts and minds of multitudes of people the whole world over.

LOUIS C. CORNISH.

REPORT OF COMITY AND FELLOWSHIP

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

UNDER a resolution passed at the last fall meeting of the Association, the president appointed a commission of nine members to confer with a like commission of the Universalist denomination, looking into the practicability of uniting these two commissions for the common good. The first meeting of the commission was held at Providence in December, when an organization was effected and an executive committee appointed to further the work. Under the direction of this committee, several plans for closer coöperation were initiated and a general plan developed. It is hoped that the report of the commission can be made at an early date.

The connection of the Association with the Massachusetts Federation of Churches and the National Federation of Religious Liberals has been maintained. Interesting contacts have been made with representatives of the Czechoslovak National Church. Other activities looking to closer comity and fellowship have had the constant attention of the officers of the Association. We believe that substantial progress has been made.

WALTER R. HUNT.

UNITARIAN BUILDINGS

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

AS forecast in the report for last year, the annex at 16 Beacon Street has been closed and the various Unitarian organizations that have been using that building are now comfortably housed in other quarters, with the exception of the Ministers' Hostel, which has been discontinued. Its equipment, including linen, beds and other furniture, is now in use at the Whitney Homestead, Stow, Mass. For some months the annex has been vacant but it is hoped that during the present year a tenant will be found that will make use of the annex for some religious, educational or charitable purpose. The headquarters of the Benevolent Fraternity of Unitarian Churches was transferred to the Bulfinch Place Church and the work of the Unitarian Foundation, Inc., has been completed.

In order to accommodate the Unitarian Laymen's League which had been housed in the annex, the sixth floor of the Unitarian building at 25 Beacon Street was remodelled and partitions erected to provide suitable office space for the League, so that during the past year the headquarters of all the main denominational organizations have been under the one roof.

With the exception of the necessary alterations on the sixth floor, there have been no unusual expenses either for construction, maintenance or repairs.

PARKER E. MAREAN.

BUILDING LOAN FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

CHURCHES and societies planning to erect new buildings, to enlarge or improve their present facilities turn to this Fund. On approval of applications by the Administrative Council and the Building Loan Committee the loans are made without interest and repaid in annual installments.

The principal of this Fund at the present time amounts to $369,158.97, having been increased during the year, through interest and additional gifts, by $337.18.

Two loans have been repaid in full and five new loans have been made to the following churches: Abraham Lincoln Centre, Chicago, Ill.; First Unitarian Society of Erie, Pa.; First Unitarian Society of Laconia, N. H.; Westminster Congregational Society of Providence, R. I.; and the Unitarian Society of Rutherford, N. J.

There are now outstanding loans to seventy-six churches, as shown in detail on page 152 of this report.

The total amount loaned since the foundation of this Fund and the Church Building Loan Fund of 1884 has been $1,285,149.76, and during this time there have been 356 separate loans.

PARKER E. MAREAN.

SUSTENTATION FUND

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

THE principal of the Sustentation Fund is $256,399.04 and during the fiscal year of the Association ending April 30, 1932, income in the amount of $13,116.82 was distributed to sixty ministers.

In submitting this report I wish to state that this year more than in the twelve years of the Fund's existence these grants have proved a blessing to the recipients. Without it not a few of our churches would be unable to continue to hold services, inasmuch as the two, three, and four hundred dollar grants from the Fund make the difference between closing the doors and keeping them open for the pursuit of truth, the service of man and the worship of God.

It cannot, however, be too strongly stressed that one of the purposes of the Fund is to stimulate self-support on the part of the churches, and well-endowed churches should not apply for aid from this Fund particularly in these days of economic distress when less well-to-do churches are finding it extremely difficult to balance their budgets.

JAMES C. DUNCAN.

FUNDS FOR SPECIAL AID

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

I AM pleased to submit to you the following report on the funds for special aid of which the Association acts as trustee:

1. Funds the income of which is used for pensions to Unitarian ministers:

The Unitarian Service Pension Society Permanent Fund was increased $3,000.00 during the year by the bequest of Miss Sallie C. Cochran of Boston, Mass. The principal of this Fund now is $512,130.85.

The income of this fund, together with the incomes of the Aaron Bancroft, the Mary A. Butler, the Louis B. Carr, the Jed Frye, the David Reed, the Caroline Southwell Root, the Clara M. Rotch, the Emily E. Sheppard, the Esther M. Whitney, and the Joshua Young, D.D., funds, with an aggregate principal of $43,533.50, is available for pensions to Unitarian ministers who are sixty-five years of age or over, and who have an honorable record of at least twenty years' active professional service in the Unitarian ministry.

During the year the Association, as agent for the transmission of the contributions made to the Society, distributed under instructions from the officers of the Society, $48,944.50 to the qualified beneficiaries.

2. Ministerial Aid Fund.

The principal of the Ministerial Aid Fund is $162,405.34. In addition to this Fund the Association holds four other funds aggregating $16,420.00, the income of which is available for the purposes of ministerial aid. From these incomes grants have been made during the year to eighty-three ministers to the amount of $8,279.17. This aid is given when evidence is confidentially laid before the Committee that these friends, by reason of illness or sickness of members of their household or some pressing financial emergency, are in need of sympathy and immediate help.

3. Cruft Memorial Fund.

During the year the Association has distributed $9,460.50 from the income of this fund to fifty-six beneficiaries. It will be remembered that this fund was established under the will of Miss Harriet Otis Cruft and in accordance with her wishes the income is distributed to women of American birth and Protestant religion of good character over sixty years of age who from illness or misfortune are in great need.

4. Chandler Robbins Fund.

The income of this fund, amounting last year to $691.83 has been a help to eight persons who were eligible under the terms of the trust.

PARKER E. MAREAN.

THE WHITNEY HOMESTEAD

To the President of the American Unitarian Association:

ONE of the most interesting pieces of work that has been done during the past year by the Association has been the repairs and alterations of the buildings on the Moses Whitney Farm in Stow, Mass., necessary to make it possible for the Association to carry out the wishes expressed by the late Cyrus H. Whitney, by whom this property was bequeathed to the Association. The Homestead comprises about 129 acres of rolling pasture land, wood land and a high hill and two substantial dwellings, the older dating from about 1740 and the newer and larger from about 1800. Many generations of the Whitney family lived here, and the last owner gave the Homestead to the Association, in the hope that it would serve as a memorial to his family by serving future generations as a place of rest and refuge. He wished particularly to have the women of the Alliance and their friends use the older house and he hoped that the newer house would be used especially by Unitarian ministers but also by Unitarian laymen and women and their friends.

In order to make the Homestead available for use in accordance with Mr. Whitney's wishes, it was found necessary to make extensive repairs and alterations. These included the strengthening of the foundation of the older house, the installation of an entirely new system of water supply from driven wells, new plumbing, heating and lighting in both houses, the building of a new kitchen, dining room and maids' quarters in the larger house and the changing of the top floor of the larger house into a simple dormitory for the use of single men. The kitchen has been so placed that, in future if requirements demand, the barn may be used as an additional summer dining room. Much of the old Whitney furniture remains at the Homestead and new articles have been purchased to complete the furnishing of both houses. It is planned to build, in the near future, a small rustic chapel, seating perhaps eighty people, adjacent to the newer homestead. No Sunday morning meetings will be held, but this will provide a place for occasional week-day and Sunday afternoon and evening meetings.

The Homestead is in charge of a House Committee composed of representatives of the five major Unitarian organizations, with the Rev. Minna C. Budlong in active charge as the resident hostess.

GEORGE G. DAVIS.

Rev. Sydney B. Snow, D.D., President of the Meadville Theological School, Chicago, gave an address on the subject, "Renewing the Ministry," in which he said that, during the past few years Meadville, had made great efforts to attract young men from our own churches. In this the School has had the hearty and willing co-operation of all our ministers. It is a part of his dream that the quadrangle at Meadville may be completed, and the Meadville House become the home for a group of students of mature years where there might be developed the kind of men fitted to lead the Free Church in the future.

Greetings from Great Britain and Ireland were extended by Rev. Arthur L. Agnew, Belfast, Ireland.

(4) WHEREAS, The existent economic and social emergencies project into positions of supreme importance many problems of human welfare, which are at the same time problems of public welfare, which must concern all members of this Association as citizens and as Unitarians with our powerful tradition of a religion of human interest; and

WHEREAS, We feel poignantly the necessity that this body and all of its constituent churches shall have a sympathetic understanding with these problems and increasing information concerning them; and

WHEREAS, We have rejoiced today in the expression of the ideals of religion at work through its implementations as portrayed by Mr. Clarence E. Pickett of the Society of Friends, and we have been justifiedly proud of the report of the Secretary of our Department of Social Relations, Dr. Robert C. Dexter, and of the inside view of that Department and its functions which his report revealed: and

WHEREAS, It is the sense of this meeting that, as a step forward in the path of our duty to promote the progress of pure religion, this Association should lay stress upon the practical application of our ideals in daily life; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we earnestly approve of and endorse Dr. Dexter's definition of the purposes of his Department and that we congratulate him upon the work he has undertaken; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the work confided to the Department of Social Relations tends to make effective the principles of our religion; be it further

RESOLVED, That we recommend to the Directors and other executive officers of this Association that the importance and dignity of the work of that Department justifies making its head an Administrative Vice-President of this Association; be it further

RESOLVED, That we also recommend and request the Directors, insofar as it can be done consistently, to extend the field of active service of that Department, to increase it resources, to make more widely known its availability for counsel and for co-operation with the social service agencies of other organizations, and to make it possible for the Department generally to carry on a wider and more extensive program.

(5) WHEREAS, This Association at the General Conference held in Philadelphia in October 1931 has protested against the majority opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States in the MacIntosh case as a violation of "liberty of conscience" and as "universal conscription of conscience without regard to religious scruples," and

WHEREAS, In the same resolution this Association pledged itself "to all possible efforts to move Congress to find some relief," and

WHEREAS, the Cutting Bill so called adds to the Naturalization Act the following clause:

> "but an alien otherwise qualified shall not be denied citizenship under any provisions of this act solely by reason of his refusal on conscientious grounds to promise to bear arms or otherwise participate in war; Provided, That nothing in the foregoing provisions shall be construed to affect the obligations of aliens after their admission to citizenship" and

WHEREAS, By said bill such relief is provided and the rights of citizens applying for naturalization to freedom of conscience are protected, be it hereby

RESOLVED, That at this Annual Meeting of the American Unitarian Association we express our approval of the Cutting Bill and our hope that it will secure prompt consideration in and passage by both Houses of Congress and will receive the approval of the President.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Senator Cutting and to the chairman of the proper committee of the Senate.

(6) WHEREAS, The American Unitarian Association has consistently striven for the establishment of permanent peace, and

WHEREAS, We have from time to time expressed our conviction that steps towards the disarmament in which all the nations participated would make toward peace, and

WHEREAS, We have watched with deep concern the attitude of our delegates to the present Disarmament Conference at Geneva, be it hereby

RESOLVED, That we express our appreciation of the efforts which the American delegation has made to bring about disarmament, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we urge upon them the necessity of continued and insistent action that real relief from the burden of armaments may be achieved, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be sent to President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and the members of our delegation at Geneva.

(7) WHEREAS, The officers, members, and delegates of the American Unitarian Association, assembled in annual meeting, desire to express their profound sorrow in the death of the Treasurer of the Association, Henry Holton Fuller, and to record their deep appreciation of his years of faithful and devoted service,

RESOLVED, That the Association has always been fortunate in the type of men chosen to administer its financial affairs, and Mr. Fuller proved himself a worthy successor of a notable line.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That as Treasurer of the Association and as its legal advisor, he gave unreservedly of his time, strength, and wisdom. As loyal layman, he offered the Unitarian fellowship his undivided allegiance. As friend, his pungent wit, his understanding sympathy, and his genuine interest in the welfare of his comrades endeared him to all his associates.

No formal resolution can possibly express the obligation the Association owes Mr. Fuller for his years of conspicuously successful service. That debt cannot be repaid, but his name will always be spoken with sincere appreciation and with affectionate gratitude.

The meeting closed with benediction by Dr. Cornish.

Adjournment.

WALTER R. HUNT,
Secretary.

FOURTH BIENNIAL GENERAL CONFERENCE

Held in Philadelphia, Pa., October 19-22, 1931

The Fourth Biennial General Conference of the American Unitarian Association was held at Philadelphia, Penna., from Monday to Thursday, October 19-22, 1931. The following committee was in charge: Rev. Frederick M. Eliot, St. Paul, Chairman; W. Forbes Robertson, Boston, Secretary; Dr. Robert C. Dexter, Boston; Frank B. Frederick, Boston; Rev. Frederick R. Griffin, D.D., Philadelphia; Rev. William L. Sullivan, D.D., Germantown; Miss Evelyn Sears, Boston; Malcolm C. Rees, Boston. The opening service of worship with the conference sermon by Rev. Robert B. Day of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was held on Monday evening at the Unitarian Church of Germantown. The Round Table conferences and general sessions were held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Public sessions were held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the First Unitarian Church of Philadelphia.

The following Round Table conferences were held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel on the mornings of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9.30 to 10.30: The Church and Art; The Church and International Affairs; The Church and the Family; The Church and the Religion of the Individual. The findings of the various Round Table conferences were presented at the closing business session of the Conference on Thursday morning and action on them was taken by the Conference.

Owing to illness, Dr. Louis C. Cornish, President of the Association, was not able to attend the meetings of the Conference. In his absence, Rev. George F. Patterson, D.D., Administrative Vice-President of the Association, presided at the first general session in the Ballroom at eleven o'clock on Tuesday, October 20th. Devotional services were conducted by Rev. Robert S. Miller of Lancaster, Penna. The following committees were appointed:

Committee on Credentials: Dr. Robert C. Dexter, Boston; Rev. Edwin Fairley, New York City; W. Forbes Robertson, Boston.

Committee on Nominations: Rev. Curtis W. Reese, D.D., Chicago; Dr. Robert C. Dexter, Boston; Miss Sarah Comins, Boston.

Committee on Resolutions: Frank D. Witherbee, Chairman, Philadelphia; Rev. Sydney B. Snow, D.D., Chicago; Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge, Dedham; Mrs. John B. Nash, New York City; Mrs. Louis C. Madeira, Germantown; Miss Nina Howard, Sacramento; Rev. Ernest Caldecott, Schenectady.

Dr. Patterson made the announcement that the President had appointed as a committee for the revision of tracts the following members:

Dr. Patterson requested Rev. Charles R. Joy, Administrative Vice-President of the Association, to introduce Rev. Mortimer Rowe, Secretary of the General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches of Great Britain, who came to America as the guest of the Association. Mr. Rowe expressed his great appreciation of the courtesy extended to him by the Association and spoke of what it meant to him in his work among the British churches to see at first hand the work which we were doing in the United States and to visit many of the Canadian churches. The British Isles find themselves in the midst of a religious situation which is in many respects more challenging and more baffling and yet more interesting than at any time during the past fifty years. Despite all that is told by pessimists who take a hasty glance at the situation as it stands, Mr. Rowe himself believes that religion has not materially suffered during the present time nor is it on the verge of petering out. Among the religious movements in the British Isles, our Unitarian churches feel that they appear to occupy the middle of the road. Our British churches are slightly more than three hundred in number and include a wide variety of churches both in the age of the congregations and the type of churches wherein they worship. Our British ministers are doing their work in the face of more discouraging conditions during these present years than has been the case for many generations yet they are not losing heart nor are they losing faith. "We are convinced," said Mr. Rowe, "that among all religious influences and among all organized religious movements there is none which can do so much for the international spirit and for the establishment of peace and goodwill throughout the nations of the world as the spirit of this common faith of you and of ourselves, which above all other faiths is international in its outlook and world-wide in its embrace."

The first public session was held at eight o'clock in the First Unitarian Church, Dr. Wilmer Krusen, President of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, presiding. The first address was upon the subject, "The Individual and Education" by President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College. The second address on "The Individual and the State" was delivered by Dr. A. Warren Stearns, Dean of Tufts Medical School and Commissioner of Correction of Massachusetts.

The second general session was held in the Crystal Ballroom on Wednesday morning. In the absence of Mr. Bolte, Regional Vice-President of the Association, Rev. Berkeley B. Blake, Administrative Vice-President, presided. Rev. Henry W. Foote, D.D., chairman of the Commission on Hymns and Services, made a report of progress on behalf of the Commission. Dr. Minot Simons of New York, on behalf of the Association, spoke of the missionary work which is being done and made a plea for generous responses on the part of the churches in their contributions towards its work.

In order that our churches may be kept in close touch with the development of the situation in our Transylvanian churches, brief reports were made by Rev. Sydney B. Snow, D.D., Dr. Robert C. Dexter, Rev. John H. Lathrop, D.D., and Rev. Frederick L. Weis. A letter from Bishop Boros was read by Mr. Rowe, telling briefly of the continuing need of the churches in his Bishopric.

The second public meeting was held at the First Unitarian Church, Mr. H. Walter Forster of Philadelphia, presiding. In the absence of Professor E. K. Hall of Dartmouth College, who was to have spoken on the subject "The Individual and Industry," Mr. Whiting Williams of Cleveland made an address on the same subject. The second address was by Professor Hornell Hart of Bryn Mawr College, on the subject "The Individual and the Family."

The third general session was held in the Crystal Ballroom, Mr. Gustave Breaux, Regional Vice-President of the Association, presiding.

Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge, chairman of the commission on the curriculum for church schools, made a report of progress for the commission. Rev. Edwin Fairley, chairman, reported for the committee on the new Beacon Hymnal.

Rev. John H. Lathrop, chairman of the round table on the Church in International Affairs, made a report of the findings of his committee. Rev. Raymond H. Palmer, chairman of the round table on the Church and Art, reported for that committee. The report of the round table on the Church and the Family was made by Rev. Daniel Sands. Rev. Frederick R. Griffin reported for the round table on the subject, the Church and the Religion of the Individual. By unanimous vote of the Conference, the reports of these round table conferences together with resolutions of general importance, were ordered to be printed for general distribution.

The third public session was held at the First Unitarian Church, Rev. Frederick M. Eliot of St. Paul, chairman of the General Conference Committee, presiding in the absence of Dr. Cornish. The first address on the subject "The Individual and Religion" was made by Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York, and the second address on "The Individual and the Church" by Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy of Milton.

The following committee to have charge of the 1933 General Conference was appointed:

Rev. Ernest Caldecott, Schenectady, Chairman; George G. Davis, Boston, Secretary; Mrs. John B. Nash, New York City; Miss Elizabeth Hall, Braintree; Rev. John Malick, Cincinnati; Rev. Augustus P. Reccord, D.D., Detroit.

The following resolutions were passed:

(1) WHEREAS, According to the Jones Act, adopted by the Congress of the United States in 1916 for the government of the Philippines, "it is, as it has always been, the purpose of the people of the United States to withdraw their sovereignty over the Philippine Islands and to recognize their independence as soon as a stable government can be established there"; and

WHEREAS, The Senate hearing on the Hawes-Cutting Bill (S. 3822) revealed the significant fact that all concerned agree that the present situation of uncertainty as to the political future of the Philippines should be removed;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association assembled in Philadelphia for its Biennial Conference, October 19-22, 1931, appeal to the President and Congress of the United States to define what is meant by "stable government" in the terms of the Jones Act, to set a definite date for the fulfillment of its promise to the Philippines, and to prepare the way by immediate legislation for the granting of complete independence.

(2) WHEREAS, The forthcoming Disarmament Conference marks the most important crisis in world history since Versailles, and since the United States has a vital concern in, and a definite responsibility for, the preservation of the peace of the world, which would be jeopardized by the failure of this conference, and since the United States cannot afford to take the stand that limitation of land and air armaments are purely matters of European concern; and

WHEREAS, The Preamble of Part Five of the Peace Treaties, including the Treaty of Berlin between the United States and Germany, contains a moral, if not a legal obligation to disarmament; and

WHEREAS, The Pact of Paris (Kellogg Pact) signed by fifty-eight nations of the world, renounces war as an instrument of national policy and thereby calls for immediate steps toward general disarmament that the nations may put the same trust in their peace treaties that they have hitherto put in military alliances and armament—

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That the Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association calls upon the churches to do their utmost to further the study of the issues to come before the Disarmament Conference in order that the people of the churches may bring the force of public opinion in America to accomplish the successful issue of the forthcoming Disarmament Conference.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we urge that the government of the United States appoint the strongest possible delegation to the Conference, composed of civilians, with at least one outstanding statesman not officially connected with the government, and formulate a constructive policy which shall include:

(a) Acceptance of the principle of budgetary limitation.

(b) Proposals for progressive reduction in total expenditures, such as 10% a year, until all forces are reduced to a police status for the maintenance of law and order.

(c) Proposals for immediate direct reduction of naval armaments, including the abolition of submarine and of all surface war vessels over 10,000 tons.

(d) Prohibition of the preparation for the use of poison gas, chemical and bacteriological methods of warfare.

(e) Acceptance of the establishment of a permanent Disarmament Commission to watch over the execution of the Treaty.

(f) The advocacy of the abolition of private manufacture of munitions.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we urge:

(a) The adherence of the United States to the World Court before the Disarmament Conference meets.

(b) That inasmuch as one of the greatest obstacles to mutual understanding and the reduction of armament at the General Disarmament Conference is the existence of inter-governmental debts and reparations growing out of the last war and carrying with them the hates of which new war is born; The United States as the ultimate creditor take the lead in seeking the cancellation of inter-allied war debts and reparations on condition that armaments are limited and drastically reduced.

(c) That the United States formulate a policy setting forth what steps we would be prepared to take to preserve the peace in case of a threatened violation of the Kellogg Pact.

(3) RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association assembled in Philadelphia for its Fourth Biennial Conference send to the General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches of Great Britain our fraternal greetings. We have been greatly honored by the coming to our shores of the distinguished Secretary of the General Assembly, Rev. Mortimer Rowe. He has inspired us by his kindly presence, he has helped to strengthen the bonds that for long years have tied us to our brethren in Great Britain, he has reminded us that we are engaged together in a common task for the promotion of liberal religion not only in our respective lands but in the whole world. We would express to the General Assembly our sincere gratitude, and again pledge ourselves to the great cause to which we are both alike committed.

(4) RESOLVED, That the delegates to the Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association request the President of the Association to send our fraternal greetings to the following individuals and groups in other lands who are dedicated in the cause of liberal religion:

Herr Christian Rohrer and the Temple Colony of Palestine,
The Bishop and the National Church of Poland,
Dr. Mario Puglisi and the Association for Religious Progress in Italy,
Pastor Kiekegaard and the Unitarian Church of Copenhagen, Dr. M. de Aronda Camargo in Brazil.

(5) WHEREAS, Our venerable sister churches in Transylvania are in a dire state of financial difficulty and continuing oppression; and

WHEREAS, These churches are in urgent need of the continuing encouragement and financial assistance of the American Unitarian churches,

RESOLVED, That the American Unitarian Association in Biennial Conference at Philadelphia assembled, recommend to the churches of our entire fellowship that the financial aid and encouragement of the past be continued.

(6) RESOLVED, The American Unitarian Association at its Fourth Biennial Conference assembled at Philadelphia sends most cordial fraternal greetings to the Bishop and Clergy, Chief Consistory and fellowship of Unitarian churches in Transylvania, feeling deep concern and heartfelt sympathy for our spiritual brethren and kindred in their trials and sufferings, and rejoicing with them in every furtherance of our mutual task of spreading liberty and enlightenment in the worship of God. At this Conference the situation in Transylvania was presented and the delegates voted unanimously to urge on their churches continuing aid and encouragement of the Unitarian churches in Transylvania.

(7) RESOLVED, That we recommend to the officers of the General Conference and to the churches of our Fellowship, the establishment of an adequate and scientific pension system for the ministers of our denomination, such system to include the following features:

1. The increasing of our present pension Endowment Fund, so that, as in the Congregational Annuity Fund, a half or more of the dues for each minister may be paid from the fund.
2. The contribution from each church annually of a sum representing a certain percentage of the minister's salary.
3. The contribution from each minister receiving a salary of $1500, or more of a certain percentage of his salary, so that, according to his stipend he will share in the provision for his old age.

(8) WHEREAS, The Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association meeting in Philadelphia has had brought to its attention the deplorable situation existing in the soft coal regions of West Virginia, Southern Illinois and Kentucky, whereby thousands of men, women and children are utterly destitute and in need of food, clothing and shelter; and

WHEREAS, This Conference recognizes with deep appreciation the efforts being made by the Friends' Service Committee at the request of the Federal Children's Bureau and the American Red Cross to undertake the organization and distribution of relief in these areas; and

WHEREAS, It seems that in this definitely Christian service our free churches will wish to play a part, be it hereby

RESOLVED, That this Conference request the American Unitarian Association to direct its executive officers to send out an appeal for assistance to all church members of the Association; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a committee consisting of the Secretary of the Department of Social Relations of the American Unitarian Association, the chairman of the Social Service Committee of the Women's Alliance, and Rev. Frederick R. Griffin of Philadelphia be appointed to study the situation at first hand, and to work out details of co-operation with the Friends.

(9) RESOLVED, By the Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association, That we hereby emphasize the four hundredth anniversary of the publication in October, 1531, of the epoch-making book De Trinitatis Erroribus (On the Errors of the Trinity) by Michael Servetus at Hagenau in Alsace, and that we hereby urge each of our churches to commemorate this event of such interest to our fellowship, either by preaching special sermons or in such other manner as may seem proper;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That Dr. Earl Morse Wilbur be requested to prepare for publication in The Christian Register an account of this special event of four hundred years ago.

(10) WHEREAS, On October 13, Dr. Thomas Lamb Eliot passed the ninetieth milestone on the pathway of life.

Sixty-six years of his eventful life have been spent in the ministry.

RESOLVED, The Conference sends its warm congratulations to this gracious pilgrim and its affectionate greetings to her who has walked by his side. Your lives and their wonderful influence will ever be an inspiration to us who follow after.

(11) WHEREAS, We Unitarians, here assembled, have been pledged by our traditions to uphold freedom of conscience, and have been devoting this present Conference to the theme of the supreme worth of personality in all its relationships; and,

WHEREAS, It has been declared by the Supreme Court of the United States that Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, Professor in the Divinity School in Yale University, is not eligible for citizenship in the United States, for the reason that he could not promise in advance to bear arms in any war in which the United States may be engaged, "unless he believed the war to be morally justified"; and,

WHEREAS, The decision of the Court was by a majority of five to four, the majority opinion declaring that the promise to bear arms is implied in the words of the oath of the Naturalization Act, "to support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies foreign and domestic"; and,

WHEREAS, The Minority opinion, Chief Justice Hughes speaking, declared that there was no such implication, either literally or historically, in the general words of the Naturalization Oath, and that such a requirement to bear arms "should not be implied because such a construction is directly opposed to the spirit of our institutions and to the historical practice of Congress"; and,

WHEREAS, The majority opinion went beyond the interpretation of the Naturalization Act and declared that "the conscientious objector is relieved from the obligation to bear arms in obedience to no constitutional provisions, expressed or implied; but because and only because, it has accorded with the policy of Congress thus to relieve him"—

BE IT RESOLVED, That we Unitarians who are here assembled, while respecting the judicial procedure in this case and with no purpose to call in question the legality of the decision, nevertheless declare that we feel profoundly moved to protest against it; that the majority opinion looks backward upon precedents in the past, while the minority opinion looks forward with the growing sentiments of the American people against the war system, thus interpreting the naturalization oath in harmony with the moral conscience increasingly felt by American citizens as to whether they can or cannot approve and support a declaration of war:

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we feel a deepening dismay at the decision of the Supreme Court to the effect, first; that liberty of conscience, even in the bearing of arms in any or all wars, has no guarantee whatsoever in the Constitution of the United States but only in the judgment of Congress, a decision which appears to subject all citizens, and especially all office-holders taking the oath of office in substantially the same terms of the naturalization oath, to the implied promise in advance to bear arms in any and all wars of the nation no matter what religious scruples may be felt; and, second, that the decision puts a construction upon the Constitution contrary to our American practice in all its history, because it definitely assures to Congress the right of universal conscription of conscience without regard to religious scruples in the bearing of arms.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we who approve these resolutions, pledge ourselves to all possible efforts to move Congress to find some relief, if necessary, in a constitutional amendment, from the intolerable results of the Supreme Court decision, as it affects both the native-born citizen and the applicant for citizenship who have or feel that they may have religious scruples in the bearing of arms in war, though subject, it may be, to non-combatant duties.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That we extend our sympathy to Professor MacIntosh in his dilemma and to all others in the same plight.

(12) WHEREAS, The Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association is assembled in the midst of an unprecedented industrial breakdown, due to the inherent weakness of our acquisitive society, which has resulted in suffering and deprivation for millions in America and all over the world; and,

WHEREAS, Our belief in the fundamental dignity of human nature makes it necessary that both as individuals and as churches we should do everything possible to alleviate the present suffering and prevent its repetition in the future;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That the Fourth Biennial Conference of the American Unitarian Association place on record the following statements and suggestions:

1. This Conference urges upon all our churches the necessity for generous support of the regular welfare and relief agencies of the community which will necessarily bear the burden of unemployment.
2. It urges upon our churches the necessity for generous financial support of whatever special movements for unemployment relief are necessary during the coming year and also moral support for whatever supplementary governmental appropriation may be necessary.
3. It suggests that all our churches give very careful consideration in their program during the year to the causes of the present situation, and the various methods which may be used both to alleviate it and to prevent its repetition; specifically a study of proposed federal and state legislation.
4. It directs the officials of the American Unitarian Association and particularly its Department of Social Relations to continue its study and research and to increase its co-operation with all agencies, religious and secular, which are working toward the end of relief and prevention.

5. It places on record its definite conclusion that the relief plans as at present proposed are inadequate and of a temporary nature, and that what is needed is a statesmanlike and constructive plan for a just, social and economic order.

6. Among the measures suggested that this Conference feels should have the support of the churches are the following:
   (a) Immediate and adequate provision by national and local government for such needed and useful public works as road construction, development of parks, elimination of grade crossings, flood control projects, the clearing of slums in our cities, etc.
   (b) Social insurance covering unemployment, health, old age and other forms of disability.
   (c) The reduction of hours and days of labor as rapidly as the development of machinery and technique make possible to a point commensurate with the need of consumption.

7. We deplore general wage cuts at this time as socially unjust and calculated to intensify bitterness and industrial unrest.

8. We recognize that even the best co-operative planning within the nation is not enough, and we urge the extension of such planning to world proportions. Questions of tariffs, international debt, reparations, world finance, and the economic waste of armament must be dealt with on a world basis to insure international stability.

(13) RESOLVED, That the Conference express to the Chairman and members of the Program Committee its deep appreciation of the work which the Committee has done. The sessions of the Conference have been most interesting and inspiring. As a result, the delegates will return to their churches with renewed enthusiasm for our common task.

(14) RESOLVED, That the Conference extends to the First Unitarian Church of Philadelphia and the Unitarian Society of Germantown and to their ministers, Rev. Frederick R. Griffin, D.D., and Rev. William L. Sullivan, D.D., its hearty thanks for their generous hospitality and enthusiastic co-operation which contributed so largely to the success of the Conference and the enjoyment of the delegates.

Among the resolutions presented, but not adopted, was one referring to taxation of church property. On motion of Dr. Christopher R. Eliot, it was VOTED: To refer this question of taxation of church property to a committee of five especially appointed by the President of the American Unitarian Association, who shall be selected to consider the matter and to report at the next National Conference.

The Conference was declared adjourned sine die.

WALTER R. HUNT,
Secretary.

FUNDS INVESTED IN CHURCH PROPERTIES

The Association has interests in a number of church properties which have from time to time been conveyed to it. In a few cases the title is unconditioned; in most cases the property is held by deed or mortgage upon conditions which give the use of the property to the society as long as it maintains religious services and remains in the Unitarian fellowship.

When any part of the money needed to accomplish this object has passed through the treasury of the Association, it appears on the books as a non-income bearing investment. The amount so invested is, in most cases, but a part of the value of the property.

When the interest of the Association does not represent any monetary investment on the part of the Association, it is carried on the books as an investment of $1.00 for each item.
